Light Primary Vote Predicted

BY RICHARD CRABB

Party leaders forecast a light vote in tomorrow's Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships primaries. despite e record number of citizens entitled to cast a ballot.

They cite as the reason the fact that none of the races on either party's ticket is likely to excite an unusually high number of voters.

The 125 polling places in the two townships will open at 6 a.m. and will close 12 hours later.

If the committeemen's predictions work out, there may be no more than 15,000 votes cast by both parties.

This would amount to about 23 per cent of the all-time high number of registered voters in the two townships: 68,000.

"Primary election votes are hard to predict," Carl R. Hansen, Elk Grove Republicen committeeman said today.

"So much depends upon whether there are contests of particuler interest to the voters in a particular area.

"In Elk Grove Township, the Republican contest for governor between Percy and Scott in 1964 was of unusual interest, and we had a record primary vote - 6,500.

"Two years ago, despite an increase of about 7,000 registered voters, we cast only 3,500 primary votes.

"This year, I expect the GOP vote in the township will be between the high of 1964 and the low in 1966," Hansen concluded.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Wheeling Township Republicen committeeman, has reached the same conclusion for his 78 precincts.

In 1966, when there was a contest for GOP committeeman, there were 7,785 votes cast. With three contests for stete offices, including the office of governor, Schlickman expects a moderata increasa in the turnout -- possibly 8,600, or 21 per cent of those registered.

"Our campaign director, Richard Cowen, and I expect an average of 110 voters for each precinct," Schlickman explained.

Primary results in both townships will be available within the hour after the polls close at 6 p.m.

For the first time, voting machines will be used in all polling places.

Regardless of the size of the vote, machines can provide en official total in every precinct immediately after the polls close.

The Wheeling GOP organization is setting up special headquarters through which to clear primary results.

The special election central will be at Knights of Columbus Hall, 15 S. Hickory, Arlington Heights and will open to the public at 6 p.m.

The Elk Grove Township GOP headquarters at 107 S. Main St., Mount Prospect, will be open throughout the evening to gather Republican primary election information from the 47 precincts in the township.

Tell Where to Vote And What to Vote On

For both Democrats and Republicans in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, there will be two special issues on which to vote in tomorrow's primacy election, involving a total of $9,000,000 for improvement of the Cook County Jail.

The referenda on calling of a constitutional convention in Illinois (Con-Con) and the bond issue to provide funds for controlling water and air pollution will take place at the general election Nov. 5. Do not look for them in tomorrow's primary.

The Day Recommends:

Richard B. Ogilvie -- Republican candidate for governor.

Brian Duff -- Republican candidate for secretary of state.

A third state contest is for the office of secretary of state. Wanting to represent the GOP are Brian B. Duff of Wilmette and Sen. Donald D. Carpentier of East Moline.

Three candidates are listed on the ballot in the race for Clerk of the Illinois Supreme Court; however, one of those, the incumbent Mrs. Earle Benjamin Searcy, died March 23. The two hopefuls for the GOP nomination are Louise Emerson, Chicago and Justin Taft of Rochester.

Airline Officials Tells What To Do in Plane Emergencies

"If you can sava one life, you've done a good job." members of a special unit of Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights fire and policemen were told about response to plane crashes.

Michael Milner of the United Air Lines accident prevention bureau briefed the officers on techniques to follow if an airplane crash occurs in this area.

The special unit is a cooperative suburban project established to handle emergencies such as natural disasters, plane crashes end civil disorders.

Milner told the men, "The preservation of property is secondary. If the plane is burning, it will never fly again anyway."

Milner described what the men could expect of the stewardesses and the crew of a plane that makes an emergency landing.

THEY ARE trained to instruct passengers how to act, he said. "The girls are trained to yell. You have to shout to get the passengers to do something. The passengers look to the crew for instructions. There is a sort of 'negetive panic' -- the passengers just sit. They don't get up and move all around helter skelter."

The Federal Aviation Administration requires a crew to be able to evacuate all passengers in 90 seconds or less.

This is accomplished by opening the special windows and the doors.

"In some airports, they have good control. The highway patrol, police department and fire department work together to control people and to keep the area clear."

Milner described the way to approach a downed plane. "Jet engines are very dangerous. If one is still operating, don't get near the front of it -- it could draw you right in. Don't get anywhere near the rear of an engine either, since the blast is terrific. It is enough to flip over small trucks and carts at air ports and to knock glass out of buildings.

"Be sure to approach a fire from upwind."

MILNER SHOWED charts to familiarize the men with the location of doors and windows, which in a plane are outlined with paint to make them more visible. But when chemical foam is used in firefighting it can obscure them.

"Foam, we feel is the best agent in fighting an aircraft fire. Carbon dioxide is good, but foam is better. We use dry chemicals in the fire extinguishers on the ramp."

"We feel the fire department is very vital in an airport," he said. "It costs batween $95,000 and $105,000 for one fire truck and it takes five men to run one. Equipment is a lot better today than it was in earlier times."

"It's hard to cut into one of these airplanes. On all jets -- they are built pretty much the same -- the top wing surface is made of heat-treated eluminum. The fuselage is of thin aluminum, but it is reinforced. You can't get through it and it's best to open a window. You can't break the glass with an ax. We usually destroy a few axes with every rescue."

He also described prevention and fighting of a fire while a plane is in a hangar.

"Two years ago, Eastern Airlines was working on an airplane for Trans Caribbean Airline," he said. "Two men were inside the plane cleaning with methylethyl ketone (a solvent). They had less than two quarts, but it ignited. The plane was completely destroyed. One man was killed and the other was hurt.

"IT'S THE interior of the plane that is the problem, not the exterior. We're trying to develop a generator system to fill the plane with detergent foam in case of fire. It would fill the plane in one to 1½ minutes. We have a problem trying to develop fire-proof materials. Some of the materials inside the plane still smoke and perhaps produce poisonous fumes. In Salt Lake City where a Boeing 727 went down, most of the passengers died from inhaling smoke.

"We're trying to develop an extinguishing system inside the plane and a fuel that remains liquid when in the tank, but becomes a solid when it leaks outside the tank. Such a fuel is perhaps 10 years off.

Meadows Considers Flats Petition Tonight

The Isenstein-Parker development that has drawn a protest from the village of Arlington Heights was to be considered tonight by a committee of the whole of the Rolling Meadows city council.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at the fire station.

If a plan for zoning only 56 acres of land for multiple dwellings is adopted by Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights' objections will be partly satisfied.

THE VILLAGE had protested an original request by Isenstein-Parker for 96 acres for apartments, out of a total of 118 acres. The rest would heve been zoned commercial.

Now a Texas developer wants to develop only 56 acres as luxury apartments and Rolling Meadows Mayor Rolland Meyer said the council agrees.

According to the new plan, 20 acres would be commercial and 42 acres would be used for light industry, in addition to the apartments.

Arlington Heights trustees on May 14 marched to the Rolling Meadows city council meeting and presented a letter of protest against an application to annex the land between Golf and Algonquin Rds. to the city.

ONE OF the reported reasons for the protest was the number of apartments the Isenstein-Parker developers wanted to build on the land.

The then-proposed 96 acres of multiple dwellings would have permitted 20 apartment units per acre, in contrast to the 14 units allowed in Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights trustees also stated they thought the land should be annexed to their village, because of its location east of Wilke Rd.

But Mayor Meyer then made it plain that Arlington Heights should stop interfering in the city's affairs.

Arlington Heights Mayor John G. Woods has stated that in other instances involving zoning or annexation of property, the village has not hesitated to take its objections to the courts.

No lawsuit has been filed yet. But Woods conceded that Village Atty. Jack Siegel indicated he believes that Arlington Heights would have grounds for e lawsuit.

Woods said that the development of the single family residential area north of Gulf Rd. including $40,000 and $50,000 homes has been based on the eventual annexation of the Isenstein-Parker tract to Arlington Heights.

L. C. DEAL, owner of Deal Investments, Dallas, said he has signed a contract with owners of the Isenstein parcel for the eastern 56 acres of the property.

He told the council that he will construct luxury brick apartments.

The Texas investor said the apartments would rent from $180 a month for one bedroom flats to $250 for two bedrooms.

He said the apartment complex will feature a variety of European, Mexican and southern California styles.

It Was a Year Ago ...

Disaster Could Hit Here Again

BY TED LACEY

First of a series

A year has passed since the disastrous rainstorm that left thousand of northwest suburban homes flooded with polluted water.

And the concensus of officials is that, if such a rain occurs again, tha situation this time will be worse, not better.

IN THE RACE between sewer and housing construction, the sewers are losing.

A year ego today, an estimated 6 billion gallons of water fell on the area along 12 miles of Northwest Hwy., from Mount Prospect to Palatine, and on six miles on either side of the highway.

About 75 per cent of the rein fell in e little more than an hour. At times, the water fell out of the sky at a rete of 8 to 10 inches an hour.

THE AVERAGE rainfall during tha storm over Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove and Palatine, was about five inches; but the short period of time in which the rainfall occured created the flooding.

These suburbs normally are drained by three creeks.

Weller Creek runs south of Arlington Heights end through the center of Mount Prospect; Salt Creek, through Rolling Meadows end the western part of Arlington Heights; and McDonald Creek runs through Prospect Heights. All these waterweys flooded last June, since the creakbeds were not lerge enough to handle the deluge.

Another factor contributing to the flooding, according to Mount Prospact Village Manager Robert Moore, was the saturation of the ground with water through frequent rains before to the June 10 storm.

The ground couldn't absorb any more water, and the runoff put an extra burden on the three creeks.

THE CREEKS, which are easily overloaded anywey, were incapable of carrying all six billion gallons of water away. The excess spilled into basements, streets end yards. Homes, businesses, autos end other property were damaged and destroyed.

The surcharging of combined sanitary and storm sewers caused widespread pollution, creating e health hazard.

According to the U.S. Geological Survey, it was the worst flood to strike the northwest suburbs since 1950, when the office first began gauging reinfall in the area.

CAN HISTORY repeat itself end re-create last year's disaster? What has been done so far to pravent flood damage? What has yet to be done to insure future safety from heavy reinfalls?

Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago Supt. Vinton W. Bacon said:

"There have been floods in the area for years."

"The likilhood of floods this year is just what it was last year."

"Until adequate measures are taken, basements and yards will continue to be flooded in heavy rains."

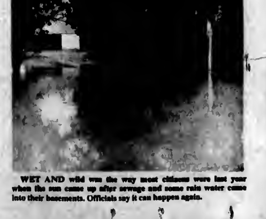
Bacon said that as the porous ground is built upon, the problem of dealing with storm water run-off increases.

"THE IMPERVIOUS surfaces are getting ahead of us. Until the sewers catch up, the flooding problem will not be relieved."

He said also that the flood problem is not the responsibility of the builders.

"No, thet's our responsibility. The builders will conform to whatever is necessary."

Next: reconstruction and steps toward solutions.



WET AND wild was the way most citizens were last year when the sun came up after sewage and some rain water came into their basements. Officials say it can happen again.

Suburbanite Tries to Unravel The Year-Old Percy Murder

BY MEL MILES

Each day, Arlington Heights resident Robert Lamb reports to work in a single story brick building on Irving Park Rd. in Chicago.

The building houses offices not unlike those that many other suburbanites work in.

But Lamb's job is different. He is the head of a special three-man task force trying to solve the murder of Valerie Percy. The building housing his office was once the headquarters of the Illinois State Police's third district.

NOW, THE structure is crammed with desks, phones, and countless file cabinets containing thousands of reports, pictures, and the results of interviews with law enforcement officials across the country.

The special unit was formed last month after U. S. Sen. Charles Percy, the murdered girl's father, offered a $50,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of his daughter's killer.

Lamb, who was assigned to the case right after the crime occurred, was named as head of the investigation by Ross Randolph, director of the Illinois Department of Public Safety.

Since then, Lamb and the two detectives assigned to the unit have looked into almost 100 new clues, some phoned in by tipsters hoping to collect the reward.

So far, only one or two of the leads have proved worthy of further investigation, but Lamb shares Percy's optimism that the reward will stimulate someone with knowledge of the crime to come forward.

SHORTLY after Miss Percy was found stabbed to death in her Kenilworth home, Lamb was assigned to a special emergency headquarters established by state police in the basement of the Kenilworth police department.

Last month, on the first anniversary of the murder, the headquarters was moved and the new unit established.

Last week, Lamb expressed interest in the murder of a Chicago co-ed on the University of Wisconsin campus.

He noted some similar features in the two crimes, and he had asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to send him a full copy of all reports pertaining to the investigation.

Yesterday, however, Lamb said that it appeared that the crimes were committed by two different persons.

RANDOLPH has vowed that the unit will continue to work on the case until the Percy murder is solved.

He says that Lamb and his staff of two will remain in the building on Irving Park Rd. until the person who killed Valerie Percy is found.

And until then, Robert Lamb will continue traveling to that Chicago building each day, poring through old files, and hoping that the phone will ring with information that will lead to the arrest of the killer.

Day by Day

Weekend

By Catherine O'Donnell

Bishop James Winchester Montgomery, head of the Chicago Episcopalian Diocese, was the principal celebrant at the conformation of 105 persons at St. Simon Church on Kirchoff Rd. at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. Samuel Keyes, rector of St. Simon, acted as one of the assistants.

In the class were Lyn-El and Billy Britain, who flew home from Raleigh, N. C. in time for the service. They had attended a wedding there on Saturday. They were accompanied by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Brittain of S. Gibbons.

ST. JAMES THEATER

Programs for the St. James Theater Group's coming weekend production of "Twelve Angry Jurors" were available in the vestibule of the church Sunday.

There was one notable line in the program. It read – "Act three: immediately following act two.

The play was cancelled last weekend and will be given next Friday and Saturday at Prospect High School.

IF SUMMER COMES—

If summer comes, can fall be far behind?

Certainly not, according to the Arlington Heights Women's Club, which generally had a reading on the pulse of the community.

Donna Harley, chairman of the Community Improvement Committee, has called a meeting of her group for Tuesday morning to plan an October walk through local homes.

Dee has a hat-making session scheduled in her home the same morning. She wanted to attend the meeting, so she persuaded Donna to transfer the session of the committee to the scene of the hat-making class.

One thing is certain at this early date: it is not time to pass the hat yet. The homes, the date, the time and the cost of the tickets are still to be decided.

FOURTH OF JULY

Bonnie Wesorick, who is serving as Fourth of July parade chairman for the second year, has announced the parade theme as "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Bonnie is a one-person movement who determined last year that Arlington Heights should have its own parade on Independence Day.

With the echoes of the marchers in the Memorial Day's successful parade still sounding, it was difficult to interest groups in turning out again, but it happened.

This year the sponsors, the Jaycee Wives, have hired out-of-town bands from Iowa and Wisconsin.

Bonnie is hoping that the local school bands, music groups and talent will contact her and join in.

Bonnie also would like local organizations to take advantage of this day to show their community spirit.

This year, a parade queen will be selected and crowned at an evening fireworks program. Bonnie would like to hear from potential participants by this Saturday.

Gifts for Dad on Father's Day

BY MARILYN HELFERS
Woman's Editor

Sunday is Father's Day. If you haven't already purchased that wild tie for his day, you know, the tia that's really "wow," just like the one that's been in the bottom drawer of his bureau since last Father's Day, wa have a few new suggestions for your shopping.

Color is by no means delegated only to ties. Shirts are more colorful, slacks are brighter, and sock are color-keyed. In shirts the deeper the color the better. Belgian blues, golds, yellows, raspberries, slate grays, spruce greens and coffees are among the new colors.

Plain, in new narrower stripes and in a wide selection of checks, the new dress shirts are better looking than ever.

MANY OF the new shirts are in the polyester|cotton wash 'n wear blends, hava permanent press finishes and the new soil release factor that prevents them from becoming dingy, grayed or yallowed.

Colorful stripes in summery shades geared to the livaly clothing colors, neat ali-over prints, and neat checks and plaids supplement the rough textured Indian silks and cottons and the interesting free-form patterns io the new neckwear. The revved-up fashion in shirts puts new importance on ultra-modern concepts in cuff links vie with classic ovals, rounded square shapes and initials.

On the casual wear front, turtleneck sport shirts will be second this summer only to the cooler mock-turtles which hava a single, rather than a double-fold. Other knits will carry crew-necks, V-necks and the classic placketed polo collars.

With so much fashion emphasis oo the neckline, a "Western" or "Apache" scarf that is folded into a triangle, then rolied or folded to its full length. Tied in a square-knot, it is worn in place of an ascot with open-collared shirts and as a finishing touch, with the turtlenecks.

SWUM TRUNKS and coordinated sets of swim trunks and after-swim jackets are other fine Father's Day gifts. The after-swim beach coats and jackets come in many styles ranging from knee-length terry cloths and terry-lined cottons to short waistlangth jackets. Broad-brimmed straw "beachcomber" hats are not only smart but are also practical gifts for Dads who like it cool in the sun.

No Dad ever seems to have all the slacks or walk shorts he needs. The ones you give him this year wiil stay neatly pressed and shed wrinkles if you select those with permanent press finishes. If he is a "blazer man," buy him some of the neatly-patterned models to wear with his solid-colored sport coats or unpatterned sport shirts.

If your Dad doesn't have a double-breasted blue blazer, it's about time that you added one of those versatila coats to his wardrobe. He can "dress it down" for the most casual occasions or "dress it up" for the dressiest Saturday or Sunday dates.

Golf jackets, summer sweaters, handsome hosiery, pajamas in aither shorty styles or with long sleeves and long legs, wallets, pocket secretaries and some of those handsomely-styled belts keyed aither to dress or sportswear maka other fine gifts.

"The Continental" is an exciting brand new allwood and cane trimmed Val-o-Seat with a storage compartment styled in the continental manner. By Pearl-Wick.

The popular turtleneck shows up in countless modified versions for summer. Leonardo Strassi combines it with the layered look in a knitted pullover of Phillips 66 nylon and Marvess olefin. Matching poplin jacket is by Leonardo Strassi for Slack Fashions.

An open planter's straw for Dad to keep cool in the sun. A colorful band in bright geometrics adds that extra dash.

Left – An imported Irish Helmsman knit shirt is ideal for boating or golfing. Available in navy/red, navy/yellow, and navy/white, $8.95 at The Captain's Walk, Chicago. Ship model in background, Fragata San Mateo, handmade in Spain, $125. Ship lantern ice bucket from Holland, $59.

For Father's Day, l. to rt. antiqued globe humidor and pipe rack, imported from Italy, $50; handcarved whale in polished pine, $19.50; Brass Captain's decanter lined with glass from Sweden, $12; "Old Maps" coasters from England, $5.95 set of six; French glassware with pewter medallions in high ball glasses, $33 set of six. All items available at The Captain's Walk, 56 E. Walton Pl., Chicago.

Dialogue

... with George Hamilton

"Now that we have had another assassination, I notice we have put the routine machinery for such events into motion. We have a committee to investigate the matter and everyone is calling for new laws to prevent future tragedies."

"Well what else can be done about it? The committee that is to investigate the assassination may do a lot of good."

"Certainly. For example, it will provide employment for a lot of people who will keep busy writing books about the 'real' story behind the story, or what the committee' overlooked."

"How about laws to curb the sale of guns? Wouldn't that accomplish something?"

"Perhaps. But it probably wouldn't inhibit an assassin or prevent all shootings.

"In Britain, for example, where you have to go through a long procedure to obtain a permit which will allow you the right to buy a gun, and where the police themselves have to have special permission to be armed on a hunt for a dangerous murderer, there were 351 shootings last year and 45 cases of murder or manslaughter by shooting."

"There must be an answer to the problem though. If the committee and a gun laws won't do it, what can be done?"

"Well, the committee and a gun law could be a step in the right direction. But if that's all that is done, forget it. We'll be talking about another assassination shortly."

"It sounds like you don't want laws to ban the sale of guns. People who talk like you usually have a bunch of guns."

"No, I don't have even one gun. As a Navy Gunner's Mate, I learned that guns have only one use, to kill, so I'm not interested in having a gun of my own."

"Oh. Okay, so what would you advocate?"

"How about a change in the application of present laws, rather than new laws? Lately the attitude on riots, sit-ins and you-name-it has been that if the participants think their cause is right, then their actions are also right."

"Yes, and any attempt to punish them is considered a violation of their rights. So again, what would you advise?"

"Why don't we apply what anthropologists have been learning about monkeys? They report that monkey tribes produce more 'successful adults' than does their human cousins.

"The monkeys are far less permissive with their children than are humans. They are punished without fail when they depart from the adult monkey behavior standards. Dr. Margaret Harlow of the University of Wisconsin says that because of this, the monkeys learn much more uniformly to put aggression into acceptable forms."

"Are you suggesting that the best way for our society to become more human is for us to begin acting like monkeys?"

"Why not? Anything would be an improvement."

Credit for Interchange

Among the first editorials to appear on this page when The Day came into existence a little more than two years ago was one urging the construction of an access to the Tollway at Arlington Heights Rd.

We make no claims that the idea was an original one, or even that it contributed in any large part toward the State tollway commission's recent approval of the interchange.

The editorial, however, did put The Day on record as recognizing the need for this traffic convenience and signifying its willingness to lend its support towards bringing it into being. When the opportunity to work actively for the project did arrive this newspaper participated fully.

The credit for winning approval of the interchange can be fairly shared among a sizable group of people who devoted their time and their talents to the common good of the community.

The special committee made up of business, civic and municipal leaders to promote the plan devised their strategy with meticulous care and executed it so expertly that the State could not fail to be impressed with the merits of their case.

Carl Mees, retired Arlington Heights village trustee, who headed up the committee, directed its activities with sophistication and administrative skill. Prof. Carl Larsen provided the expertise responsible for the surveys and technical documentation which gave authority and weight to the committee's presentation.

And our political representatives in Springfield served their constituents well. Sen. John Graham, Reps. Eugene Schlickman, David Regner and Eugenia Chapman contributed importantly. Mrs. Chapman, the only Democrat in the group, took the matter up directly with state administration leaders, particularly Gov. Shapiro.

It would be difficult to allot the credit impartially. There were a number of people in the act and all of them performed faithfully in their roles.

Yet, in fairness, three of our public officials deserve to be singled out. They are John Woods, mayor of Arlington Heights, his village manager, L. A. Hanson, and Jack Pahl, mayor of Elk Grove Village.

It was these three who sparked to life the interchange plan which had been lying dormant for years, never really getting beyond the discussion stage. The special committee was their idea; they recruited its membership and, to a large extent, blueprinted its procedures. Without their leadership the tollway project would still be on dead center.

The community has reason to be grateful to them.

Daylight

And Now, The Decision

BY RICHARD CRABB

Tomorrow will be an important, but not necessarily decisive, day in the political careers of Richard B. Ogilvie and John H. Altorfer.

Both Altorfer and Ogilvie are young men as political careers go. Defeat for either of them tomorrow is not likely to end a career, but the one who wins may well be off on a flashing career that could eventually carry him into the national scene, even the White House.

THEY HAVE both campaigned hard. In quieter times their campaigns would have churned the political climate of Illinois into a fervor that would have attracted national attention. Probably no Illinois governor candidates in the 150-year history of the state ever had to compete with so many overwhelming developments.

Since they formally entered the campaign there has occurred the darkest hours of the Vietnam war, the decision of an incumbent President not to seek reelection, the murder of Martin Luther King, the worst riots in Chicago in modern times, the beginning of "peace talks" in Paris and the shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy and his subsequent death.

The Martin Luther King murder resulted in a 10-day period of unrest during which it was impossible to focus major attention on the state political campaign.

THE TIMING of the Kennedy tragedy canceled the climax of the Illinois primary campaign. The four days from Thursday through Sunday would have to be regarded as the four most important days in the campaign. Fate has been the quarterback.

The campaigns the two men have waged have been as different as they are themselves. Ogilvie has spelled his program out even to small details. Altorfer has covered an even wider range of subjects but has preferred to be more general.

His formula for solving problems calls for research, development of a plan by the best minds in the field and effective execution of the plan.

Ogilvie is attempting to do something that has been done only once in modern times. As a Chicago and Cook County man he is attempting to be elected governor.

Dwight Green did it, but he had to do it with downstate support since his home town of Chicago voted against him both times in the general election. In Green's bid for a second term he was forced to go out of Cook County 60,000 votes "down." Downstate Republicans thought enough of him to give him a modest victory.

THE QUESTION is whether downstate will show as much interest tomorrow in Ogilvie. Cook County has only one-third of the Republican votes and a Cook County man has to get his margin of victory downstate.

The downstate aversion to accepting Chicago and Cook County men for top offices such as governor is not an emotional complex. It is based on a hard fact of life. A downstate governor has to give top attention to Cook County and Chicago affairs, but a Cook County man does not have to give top attention to downstate problems.

Altorfer has a number of things going for him in tomorrow's primary. Of the four candidates seeking the GOP nomination for governor, he is the only downstate candidate. This is the third time he has run a statewide campaign--a primary in the spring of 1964 and a general election in the fall of 1964 and now a primary in the early summer of 1968.

IT MAY WELL be that too little attention has been given to the strength of former Gov. William G. Stratton and the DuPage County lawyer, Thomas Sutton. Between them they could capture enough primary votes to determine who will win.

American political campaigns are traditionally like a baseball game. Nobody knows who is going to win as is the case in many other countries.

As long as we can keep it that way, our country will have the precious key to solving our problems. We may need a little time but we can do it.

36ers Open League Season Today

BY RALPH NOVAK

Keith Bauer, operating under the "Please, Mother, I'd rather do it myself" theory, pitched and hit the Des Plaines American Legion Post 36 to a 2-1 win over Morton Grove Sunday.

Bauer, relieving startar Buzz Johnson, pitched four innings, allowing one hit and striking out six, and also drove in both Des Plaines runs with a fifth-inning single.

THE VICTORY at Morton Grove gave Des Plaines a 2-1 record going into its Legion league opener today against Wheeling at Forest View.

Morton Grove put Johnson in trouble in the first inning, but a double play, third baseman Tom Bartlett to second baseman John Caltagirone to first baseman Bill Erdmann, helped him get out of the jam safely. After he rendered harmless a one-out walk in the second, however, Morton Grove catcher Ed Mihler whacked a long home run to left center in the third to put Des Plaines down 1-0.

Although the 36ers knocked two hits off Grove starter Bob Reinmann, Caltagirone was called out on an appeal for missing second on what looked like a triple in the first inning, and Erdmann was stranded after singling with one out in the second.

Left-hander Gary Weber, taking over for Reinmann in the third, sailed through two innings allowing only one baserunner, Caltagirone, who walkad, and Bartlett was caught stealing after forcing Caltagirone.

DES PLAINES broke through in the fifth, Erdmann opening the inning by cracking a single down the left fiald lina and stealing second. Right fielder Randy Weaver then tipped a spinner that went for an infield hit when Grove shortstop Tom Grammarosa couldn't grab it on a tricky first hop.

Webar struck out Tony Lanzaratta and George Bauer, Keith's younger brother, but the Des Plaines pitcher drilled a ground single up the middle, scoring both runners. Weber struck out Kent Koentopp to end the inning.

Des Plaines threatened in the sixth against Morton Grove's third pitcher, George Swanson, who hit the first man to face him, Caltagirone. Caltagirone alertly raced all the way to third as Bartlett was beating out a perfect, back-spinning bunt down the third base line and stayed there as Bartlett stole second.

But shortstop Bob Artemenko, the Elk Grove standout who was the only Des Plaines player Sunday who isn't a Forest View product, struck out, and Caltagirone was cut down trying to score when a pitch got away from Morton Grove catchar Al Goldberg. Erdmann then fanned to and the inning. Weaver singled to start the seventh, but Lanzaratta forced him and was caught stealing.

He hit a batter with two out in the fourth before ending the inning with a strikeout, then walked Weber starting the fifth. Although brother George helped by throwing out pinch-runner Wally Sorenson, an arror by Artamenko on Rainmann's grounder put the potantial tying run back on base for Morton Grove.

Reinmann, after stealing second, made third on a wild pitch before a Bauer strikeout left a man on third with two out. Perbaps deciding that discretion is in fact the better part of valor, Bauer walked Mihler, but he got Wayne Karpenski on a line fly to Koentopp for the third out.

After that Morton Grove had only one runner, when Grammarosa singled and swiped second with one out in the sixth. Two strikeouts did away with that uprising, however, and Morton Grove went down in order in the seventh.

Arlington Legion Wins 1 in Danville

The Arlington Heights American Legion baseball squad returned home from Danville Sunday night sporting a 1-2 slate after a three-game weekend series with Danville, having split a doubleheader Sunday after dropping a game Saturday 2-0.

The local legionaires exploded for eight runs in the third inning of the first game yesterday en route to an 11-1 win, only to see their offense fizzle in a 3-0 loss in the nightcap.

COACH HARVEY Foster had a right to be pleased with the work of his mound crew in the three game series, as Danville was able to get to the Arlington hurlers for only 14 hits in the 23 innings played.

The power-laden Arlington lineup cama alive in the opener Sunday, pounding out 13 hits after being held to two hits in Saturday's clash. The local guns again fell silent in the second game Sunday, as the predominantly Mid-Suburban League lineup was able to produce only four hits in a seven-inning contest.

Steve Shawhan went all the way on the hill for Arlington in Saturday's game, yielding six hits while fanning seven. The strong righthander had little trouble with the Danvilla club through the first four frames.

But after Shawhan fanned the first two batters in the fifth inning, Craig Cochran booted a ground ball that should have been the third out. Danville than got to Stratton for two back-to-back singles to produce an unearned run.

THE SOUTHERN Illinois contingent came back with another tally in the sixth inning on a walk and Bruce Schofield's triple with two out Shawhan got out of the inning without further damage by forcing Danville rightfielder Scott Blary to ground out to end the inning.

First baseman Jim Gumz rapped a two-run homer in the first inning, then came back with a two-run single in eight-run third inning outburst as Arlington Heights' American Legion Team smashed Danvilla 11-1 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday.

Arlington threatened in the seventh as Jim Millay hit a one-bagger to right field. Ha moved to second on a passed ball and advanced to third on an infield out. Stratton went down swinging to end the inning and the only Arlington threat of the contest.

Things were different from the beginning of Sunday's opener as Cary Salm led off the first inning with a single to right field. Jim Gumz then rapped a 2-2 pitch for a home run to give Arlington an early 2-0 lead. It looked as if the locals were in for a big inning as Jack Bastable followed with a hard single to left field, but a doubia play and a strikeout ended the inning for Arlington.

Foster's crew came back with another tally in the second inning as Marc Schilliinger was driven across the plate by back-to-back singles by Gary Anderson and Craig Cochran after having reached base on a miscue by the Danville right fielder.

THE POWER displayed by the locals in the third inning was reminiscent of Arlington Heights American Lagion teams of recent years, as they combined four solid safeties with three walks to produce eight runs against three pitchers. Joel Theiss and Darrell Kasl got things started in the third by drawing consecutive walks. Schillinger then rapped a single to right to send Theiss scampering home, and Kasl followed moments latar on Millay's hard single past tha first baseman. After Cochran drew a walk to load the bases and bring Anderson to the plate, the lanky righthander rapped a single to left field, scoring Schillinger and Millay.

SALM THEN walked to reload the bases and set the staga for Gumz's two-run single. Bastable then hit a sacrifice fly to right field, scoring Salm from third base to end the Arlington scoring for the inning.

Danville was only able to test Gary Anderson's strength once in the sevan inning clash, as a single and a triple by Tom Wierzba accounted for the lone Danville tally. Anderson only yielded four hits whila fanning six in a sparkling performance.

Foster's weary crew was able to move men into scoring position only twice in the 3-0 loss in the second game. Jack Bastable's double in the second inning looked to be the start of an Arlington uprising. Theiss then drew a walk, and both men advanced a base on a passed ball to place two runners in scoring position, but ct took the Danville hurler only five pitches to get out of the inning.

Again in the fifth inning it looked as if Arlington was coming alive as Cochran reached first on an infield error and Marc Schillinger singled to put runners on first and third with two outs. The uprising was quickly quelled as Salm's fly to right was hauled in the right fielder.

Meanwhile Danville had picked up a lone tally in the second on two hits and a walk, and added two more insurance runs in the fifth frame to put the game on ice.

John Kowalik (11), the North American Soccer League's third-ranking individual scorer, is one of the attractions the Chicago Mustangs are offering at reduced rates to organized groups. Mustang public relations director Carl Kay says regular $2.50 adult general admission tickets are $2 and teenage and younger persons' admission is $1 for "church, civic and fraternal groups, school athletic departments, corporations, literally any organized activity." The Mustangs play New York Jone 30 end Toronto July 2 in their next home games at White Sox Park.

Who'll Teach Navy Children? 2 School Districts Pass Buck

BY JAN BONE

Two school districts are remaining perturbed by an impending apartment complex because each believes that the land involved lies within the other.

The site, now a U. S. Army Nike base, and slated to be given to the U. S. Navy for development as a housing complex for its personnel, may bring many children into the area, but superintendents of school district 15 and 59 are feeling sorry for each other.

NEITHER SCHOOL board has applied to the Navy for land on the site to be set aside for another school building, since each feels it is not responsible.

Only 45 days remain before the Navy completes its plans and shuts out the possibility of another school being built on the land.

"We're sympathetic," said District 59's Supt. Donald Thomas. "District 15 has a problem. We've indicated that we'll be glad to assist them in any way in obtaining a site."

Supt. E. S. Castor of District 15 countered that his district is not going to make a request for a site that lies outside the district's boundaries.

TALK ABOUT moving the boundary line — which splits the Nike site and travels through seven homes in the Surrey Ridge West development — has been bouncing back and forth between the two school boards ever since August, 1967, when the Navy first mentioned its plans to put up the apartments.

Latest official District 59 proposal, made just before Christmas: move the boundary line west to Illinois 53, and north to Central Road in Rolling Meadows.

This would give District 59 enough assessed valuation from industrial property to offset the costs of building a school and educating the extra children they'd pick up.

District 15 reaction? "Totally unacceptable."

District 15 board has suggested moving the boundary line to New Wilke Road—a plan which would put all the Navy youngsters living on the Nike site into District 59.

District 59 reaction? A firm "no."

MEANWHILE, the Navy is getting on with its plans. "I can't give away one square inch of that land without an official request for it," said W. W. Maxey, who works for the midwest division of naval facilities, engineering command, out of Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

By fall, according to W. W. Maxey, project manager for the Nike site plans, the Navy hopes to advertise for bids to put up 150 three- and four-bedroom apartments there.

"Plans are about 60 per cent drawn," said Maxey. "As soon as they're reviewed here and in Washington, we can go ahead.

"We've completed documents with the Village of Arlington Heights to participate in storm drainage construction, along with three local developers who are building next to the Nike base. This means that we're committed to continue with our Navy housing development."

Just asking for the land won't be enough.

The school district that's going to educate the Navy children must also state the number of youngsters it plans to serve, and must provide facts and figures to back up that claim.

"A STRAIGHT request for a certain number of acres will be useless," said Maxey.

"If they don't let me know soon, I'll have to go ahead on the supposition that hey can't justify their request, or that they don't have a requirement for a school site.

"It's to everyone's advantage to co-operate. After all, we're talking about human beings.

"We're not the big, bad government that's going to overcome some school district.

"I haven't even had an informal justification, let along an official one."

When told of the Navy's latest statement, Castor again said that District 15 is not going to make a request for the school site that lies outside its boundary.

"It's District 15's problem."

Thomas indicated that because District 15 would have the Navy children living on its land, District 59 would probably not need the proposed school site, and would be able to take care of its own children by itself.

BOTH superintendents said there was a possibility of working out an arrangement to handle the few children from the Surrey Ridge West development who live on the boundary line.

District 59 schools are Juliette Low, Dempster, Jay, Frost, Holmes; and Forest View Elementary; Brentwood, Einstein, Devonshire, and High Ridge Knolls; Grove, Rupley, Ridge, Salt Creek, Grant Wood, Mark Hopkins, Clearmont, and Adm. Richard E. Byrd.

Local Primaries' Results Expected Before 9 P.M.

Special telephones have been established by the party organizations in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, to give the public prompt information on the primary election results in the area this evening.

The phones are:

Wheeling Township Republicans -- 394-1311.

Wheeling Township Democrats -- LE 7-0042

Elk Grove Township Republicans -- 392-2580

Elk Grove Democrats -- 392-4373

First results are expected to be available by 7 p.m.

Because for the first time in the two townships' history, all voting will be done by machine. Thus, final results may be available by 9 p.m.

In the Republican primary there are three major contests.

Two Republicans are seeking the nomination for secretary of state. They are Brian B. Duff of Wilmette and Sen. Donald Carpenter of East Moline.

THREE Republicans are seeking the nomination for state auditor of public of accounts, one in the Chicago area, one in northern Illinois and one in southern Illinois. They are Sen. Terrel Clark of Western Springs, Sen. William C. Harris of Pontiac and Mayor Wes Olson of Quincy.

Four candidates in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships are on the primary ballots today and are without opposition. All three seek re-election to the Illinois General Assembly. They are Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights), Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) and Rep. David J. Regner (R-Mount Prospect). Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect is a candidate for delegate from the 13th congressional district to the Republican National Convention.

Two candidates in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships have opposition. Both are running for alternates to the National Democratic Convention.

James McCabe of Arlington Heights and Chester A. Chesney of Mount Prospect are opposed by Maya Friedler of Evnaston and Isabel Condit of Morton Grove.

ALSO being submitted to the voters today are two bond issues for renovation of the Cook County Jail.

If approved, the bonds will make available $9 million.

Stavros Tract Gets Tentative OK

By Charles Mouratides

A special committee of village trustees last night approved a rezoning request for the Stavros development, coming to an agreement with the developers after about a year of negotiations.

The board, full village probably in its next meeting on June 17, will vote on the fate of last night's agreement.

THE DEVELOPERS, brothers Gus and James Stavros and M. W. Nesset, appear to have satisfied all the demands of the trustees.

The trustees demanded that the developers dedicate land for school and park sites or, according to the village ordinance, give money instead of land.

Attorney William Moore, representing the developers, last night said that they are willing to put up money instead of road. The exact amount, which has not yet been decided, probably will be around $48,000, said Village Manager L. A. Hanson.

The trustees demanded that the developers of the 238-acre tract of land at Nichols and Shaeffer Rds. build roads surrounding the property as well as in the interior.

MOORE SAID that his clients will put in "their" side of the street in all surrounding roads. He resisted improving Lake-Cook road which is to boarder most of the northern part of the development claiming the county will do the work.

The committee will recommend to the board that the developers put in their part of Lake-Cook when they are ready to improve a 15-acre piece of land that is separated from the main development by that road.

Rezoning of whole development, mostly for single family use, with some commercial and apartment uses, was approved by the trustees last fall.

BUT WHEN the questions of land dedication for schools and park sites and road improvement were raised the developers objected.

At one time, James Stavros threatened to disannex from the village.

Then Moore came back with the present plan and claimed that rezoning was necessary to make the project profitable.

The new zoning almost doubles the number of apartments and the commercial area, while it provides for fewer single family houses.

As approved by the committee last night, the zoning allows for 51.7 acres of multiple dwellings or apartments, 19.7 acres for commercial use and 38.6 acres for single family houses.

A special feature of the development is an 18-hole golf course which occupies, along with other open space, about 128 acres.

In the middle of the development there are three small lakes which give the name to the subdivision: Three Lakes.

THE NEW ZONING would make the project the largest in Arlington Heights approved by the trustees so far.

It would call for about 720 one- and two-bedroom apartments. The previous record was held by Stonebridge Hill with about 586 units.

Moore said however, that in comparison with other, smaller developments, the "density" of the Three Lakes--the ratio of apartments to total land--is small.

He said that about 72 per cent of the total land is still devoted to open space and single family houses.

"It compares favorable with any other project in the area," Moore said.

Palmatier called Moore's presentation "a reasonable proposition."

Get Away With Flag

Some vandals in Arlington Heights appear to be patriots--else what would they want with a flag they stole last month from a pole at Dryden School?

At the same time, according to a report made to the village police by Leslie Shadel, business manager of Arlington Heights Elementary School District 25, the vandals broke a window.

Other damage reported by the business manager was:

At the Ivy Hill School, broken windows and there was writing on the building with chalk and crayon.

Spray paint was used at Westgate School and the bark was peeled from a tree.

What Has Been Done to Prevent Flooding?

BY TED LACEY
Second in a series

Declared a disaster area after last year's June 10 storm and the flood that resulted, the northwest suburbs qualified for federal loans.

The money, made available through the Small Business Administration, was offered for long periods of time at low interest, and helped repair some of the water damage on property

SBA set up emergency offices in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights to handle the applications for loans.

TAX RELIEF also was offered flood victims. E. C. Coyle, Internal Revenue Service's Chicago district director, ruled that flood losses could be deducted for income tax purposes.

But neither loans nor tax relief nor insurance could replace much of what was lost: antique furniture, old photographs, scrap books filled with memories--all reduced to barely recognizable junk to be shoveled away with the rest of the flood-borne debris.

What has been done to keep such disasters from happening again?

Shortly after the flood last June, a group of angry, wet Mount Prospect citizens accused the village board of not doing anything about the problem.

This unorganized group was transformed by the village board into the Drainage and Clean Streams Commission.

Under the leadership of chairman Fred Hysell, the commission has amassed data on sewer capabilities, drainage problems, and other subjects pertinent to flooding.

Mount Prospect officials took the information gathered by the commission, and used it as the basis for two studies.

One, by the Bauer Engineering Co., is concerned with the technical problems involved in storing storm water, and providing for sewers to prevent future backup of sewage and storm water in the village.

The other, conducted by Prof. John R. Schaeffer of the University of Chicago, is a general examination of topography in the northwest suburbs, and how the "lay of the land" affects Mount Prospect in times of heavy rain.

AMONG THE recommendations of the Schaeffer group might be possible modification of the watersheds in the area.

In a similar study of Arlington Heights, he recommended using a ditch, which would run down the middle of a proposed new Wilke Rd., as a corridor to relieve flooding in the northern section of the village.

The ditch would carry water south to a proposed retention basin at Golf.

The proposal would have shifted rainwater from the Weller Creek to the Salt Creek watershed.

And last month, W. J. Bauer advised Mount Prospect trustees to build a retention basin north of Central at Weller Creek. This would alleviate flooding, by holding back large amounts of water.

He also suggested a water treatment plant to purify rain water as it is pumped out of the retention basin.

Flood control dams should be built in the Des Plaines River, Bauer said, which would maintain sufficient water depths for swimming.

(The study was not concerned with the fact that the river is polluted. Thus, even if its recommendations are accepted, swimmers are unlikely to make use of the dam basins, at least until the river is cleaned up.)

BAUER SAID the projects would cost about $7 million, and if the plan were accepted it would require the cooperation of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the Forest Preserve District and the Illinois Division of Waterways.

Arlington Heights, meanwhile, has approved the sale of $1 million in revenue bonds, to be spent in separating the combined storm sewer and sanitary sewer systems in the village.

The combined sewers still in use in part of the village create a hazard, because when they become surcharged, rain water backs up through drains, flooding basements and bringing with it raw sewage.

The work is a continuation of a program begun about three years ago. At that time a $3.5 million bond issue was approved in a referendum to build more sewers, and to divide the combined systems.

Also, Village Trustees John White, LeRoy Bressler and George Burlingame have been appointed by Mayor John Woods to form a special committee to develop master plan for flood control in the northeastern section of the village.

SPECIFICALLY, the group has been studying other proposals made by Dr. Sheaffer.

He suggests constructing a 100-acre water retention basin along McDonald Creek between Buffalo Grove Rd. and Schoenbeck Rd.

State legislators are also helping to alleviate flooding conditions.

State Rep. David Regner (R--Mount Prospect) sponsored a bill to get $1.4 million in state funds to improve Weller Creek, by widening and straightening the creek bed.

SIGNED INTO law last September by Gov. Otto Kerner, the bill is the second portion of a four-part plan to improve Weller Creek upstream as far as Arlington Heights.

The first part, which is complete, widened and removed obstructions from the creek bed from the Des Plaines River upstream to the Chicago and North Western Ry. Bridge at Northwest Hwy. Regner's bill will improve the creek bed from the railroad bridge to Mount Prospect Rd.

The last two parts involve improving the creek bed through Mount Prospect and into Arlington Heights.

REGNER SAID he would try to initiate a bill for part three at the next regular session of the Illinois General Assembly in 1969.

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R--Arlington Heights) sponsored a bill for work on Salt Creek, authorizing a $500,000 project designed to improve drainage conditions in Rolling Meadows, the Arlington Park Race Track, Palatine, and a portion of Arlington Heights.

Schlickman's and Regner's projects are now awaiting the release of funds. Governor Samuel Shapiro has frozen all funds pending a study of a Illinois budget crisis where a $200 million deficit is anticipated.

Next: what must still be done besides implementing plans already in progress?

DRESSED in fitting attire for the occasion last summer was William Marion, 210 N. School, Mount Prospect, as he prepares to begin cleaning up after the June 10 rainstorm. It took some residents weeks to clear up the mess.

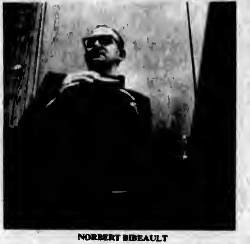
St. Viator Gets A New Principal

JAMES MICHALETZ



NORBERT BIBEAULT

BY MAXINE TYMA

"I just enjoy teaching too much to be an administrator," says the Rev. Norhert Bibeault, C.S.V.

Father Bibeault will return to teaching this fall after serving one year as principal of St. Viator High School for boys in Arlington Heights.

He will teach physics and mathematics at Gorman High School in Las Vagas, Nev., a co-educational school with an enrollment of 800 students.

Replacing him as principal hera is the Rav. Jamas Michaletz, C.S.V., who has been assistant principal of the school for the last five years.

"I HAVE enjoyed my year here as an administrator, but I prefer to teach. All the techniques and methods you gain as a teacher can be lost if you do not use them for a while," Father Bibeault said.

He has been a member of the Clerics of St. Viator for 11 years. In August, be will report to his new assignment.

The new principal, who has been assigned to the school "since we opened the doors," said he foresees no major changes, but a few new things will take place next year.

In the fall, for the first time, a layman will serve in an administrative capacity at the school.

Ha is Charles Mondi, who has been appointed treasurer. For the last six years, Mondi has taught business administration for the school.

THE EXCHANGE program with students at Sacred Heart of Mary High School also will be expanded this fall.

Last school term students form the girl's high school in Rolling Meadows attened a calculus class at St. Viator's. The calculus exchange program will continue but this fall boys will be taking art classes at Sacred Heart.

"We just scheduled the art class and had the students register. Wa didn't tell them it would be held at Sacred Heart. We wanted to make sura thay really were interested in art," joked Father Michaletz.

"Wa are looking for new ways to expand this program hut wa ara hampered by transportation. This year the girls had a car pool and the scheduling had to be perfect for the classes to work," he said.

WHILE FATHER Michaletz was serving as assistant principal he taught soma chemistry and mathematics classas. Ha received his bachelor's degree in chamistry from St. Ambrose College in 1955 and his master's degree in chemistry from Loyola University in 1956.

Father Michaletz will be replaced as assistant principal hy the Rav. Thomas Langanfeld, C.S.V., who presently is assitant principal at Spaulding High Schoolhin Peoria.

Father Langenfeld was educated at Loyola University, St. Louis University, the University of Louvain in Belgium, and the Catholic University in Washington. He has a bachelor's degree in political science, a master's degree in education and another master's degree in theology.

"Wa are all set for school in the fall and could open tomorrow if we had to," said Father Michaletz. He said about 55 per cent of the faculty is composed of laymen and said that he is pleased that the teacher turnover is so small.

She became a third-grade teacher.

That was 20 years ago.

On Friday, she'll retire from Palatina-Rolling Meadows District 15 schools. She and other teachers who are retiring will be honored at a district dinner Tuesday.

As a music teacher, Mrs. Brunt had her first pupils when she was living in Manitoba, Canada, and was studying in a school there which was affiliated with Toronto's Conservatory of Music. "I worked my way through music school," she said, "getting my bachelor's degree."

Marriad and living in Illinois, with 25 years of piano teaching behind her, Mrs. Brunt decided she'd learn about American history. She took courses at North Park College, Chicago. Then she decided to pick up the education courses she needed to be certified as a public school teacher. She took "a full year off" to enroll in Roosevelt University, and to do her required student teaching.

How did she happen to pick third grade?

"I really didn't know what I wanted," Mrs. Brunt said, "because, as a piano teacher, you work with all age groups. Then my supervisor suggested third grade.

"It's an axciting aga to work with. Children know how to read, they know how to sit in a seat -- reasonahly quietly -- and they know why they're coming to school.

"I started being a third-grade teacher and, for 20 years, I'va nevar taught anything else."

Mrs. Brunt spent aight years at Palatine's Joel Wood School, then moved to Kimball Hill School in Rolling Meadows when it opened 12 years ago.

District 15 Supt. E. S. Castor speaks warmly of her "excellent teaching."

"I've known Luella and her work through a period of years," be said, "and, even at the young grade level she taught, she was able to inspire children to a high performance level."

Art posters, geometric designs carefully done in colored crayon squares, and special "name" drawings are pinned up around her Kimball Hill classroom.

"I'll write a child's name in script," said Mrs. Brunt showing off a poster, "and then he'll make a design around the letters in his name.

"But the thing I try to work on most," Mrs. Brunt said, "is reading.

"If I've helped a child to read better, then I've been of real service."

"You know," she went on, "before I became a third-grade teacher, I always used to wonder how parents could talk so much about their children.

"Some of the stories they told me didn't really seem funny, yet the parents obviousiy enjoyed thinking about what the youngsters had done.

"And than, mid-way through my first year of teaching, I caught myself halfway through a sentence. I was talking about my school children with as much pride and interest as if they were my very own.

"THAT'S REALLY what's behind teaching, after all, isn't it? A deep-down-inside liking for people and a feeling that the world is really a very good place in which to live."

Twenty years of teaching third grade in Palatine-Rolling Meadows District 15 will end next week when Mrs. Harold Brunt retires. Timmy Jacobson, 2507 School Dr., Rolling Meadows, one of her students, shares favorite stories with her.

Buses To Get Radios

Forest View and Elk Grove high schools' buses will be equipped with two-way radios this fall, Francis Coleman, business manager of District 214, has announced.

The new system will connect about 40 buses with the Cook County Bus Co.'s headquarters in Arlington Heights and is expected to cost about $18,000.

By communicating directly with their headquarters, the bus drivers expect to improve the pick-up service.

Schools To Teach Teachers

If Uncle Sam agrees, teachers as well as students will learn in District 214 classrooms next year.

The school board Monday decided to apply to take part in a co-operative teacher training program, financed by the federal Office of Education.

Also trained would be teachers' aides.

Sand and Sunburn

Biology Club Field Trip a Picnic

BY LINDA GAMMILL

"Sand, sand, and more sand" is the unofficial motto of the Prospect High School Biology Club. Every year since 1962 the club has packed its hot dogs and pop cans and headed off to the sand dunes for an "educational" field trip.

This year's group was no different as they rode a crowded bus to the Indiana Dunes State Park, Chesterton, Saturday, June 8.

Kathie Levon, a senior, and president of the club, planned the trip which included about 65 students, parents, teachers, one reporter and a news editor.

ARRIVING AT the park at 9 a.m., the group headed for the shelter to claim it as theirs for the day, but they found that a skunk had been there first. Leaving the shelter to the forest inhabitants, the biologists headed off in all directions.

With the temperature already in the 90's, the beach seemed the most inviting. "No Swimming - Strong Undertow" signs, apparently posted during a stormy day, were already being ignored by hundreds of people.

And, large numbers of Coho salmon, recently introduced into Lake Michigan, could be seen in the calm water along the shoreline.

FOR THOSE WHO ventured inland, several trails tested the physical endurance of the high schoolers. Trail 8 wanders for one and one-half miles over the three highest dunes in the park, Mount Tom, with an elevation of 192 feet; Mount Holden, 184 feet and Mount Jackson, 176 feet.

OTHER ROUTES, Trails 9 and 10, lead down the beach for nearly four miles to the "blowouts," "tree graveyard," and "the pinery." The sstudents learned that blowouts are large depressions in the sand caused by the wind whirling in a certain spot and scooping the sand out, leaving a crater-like hole in the ridge of dunes.

One, called the "big blowout," is one-half mile across at its widest point. It encompasses the tree graveyard which was a result of the sand from the blowout being deposited on top of the trees, killing them.

Lunch and a few hours of swimming rounded out the day for the group which returned to Prospect High, sand in shoes and all, at 5 p.m., the earliest the group has ever managed to get back. In years past, the Biology Club has endured floods, snow, heat, and hail, but this year the perfect weather presented only one problem - sunburn.

Below—Finally the bus arrives at the sand dunes after a 2-hour ride and everyone can stretch cramped legs and head for the sheltar. The students found, to their dismay, that a skunk had visited tha shelter before them.

Somewhere in this picture are about 65 members of the Prospect Biology Club who are ignoring the "No Swimming - Strong Undartow" signs, as are several thousand other people.

Vicki Schairer (right), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schairer, chaperones for the trip, found the bus ride home a good time for a nap as did Joan Davis (left) and many of the other weary travelers.

'Cool, Real Cool'

By Catherine O'Donnell

When Principal Richard Hetke sent the third, fourth and fifth grades off to the band contest at Miner Junior High School, he decided that sometime in the near future he would have a concert for the lower grades at Ridge School that were left behind.

Yesterday morning Bill Reyna, who is finishing his junior year at Conant High School, came to the school to play his guitar. His mother, Mrs. Mildred Reyna, who is the school secretary arranged it.. Bill is such an advanced guitar student that he already has 12 pupils of his own.

There was something so inviting about his music and the eager anticipation of the Ridge School students that Principal Hetke decided to play what is known in guitar playing circles as backup guitar.

The two were joined by Band Instrument teacher Ernest Templeton, who made wonderful music with a clarinat. The school psychologist, Julius Curtis found the impromptu combo hard to resist and he joined with his clarinet and saxophone.

The program consisted of music that went from jazz through blues right on to Mozart and Bach. It was like a bowl of hot soup on a hot day.

The idea is that eating anything hot makes the body cooler. The music was the kind that had all of tha listeners forgetting the 90 odd degree weather and proclaiming it, "Cool, real cool."

ATTACK

Herman Koeneman and his wifa, Lee, were hosting a group of veterans belonging to the Chicago Chapter of the 83rd Infantry Association. The men who served together in World War Two meet once or twice a month and have dinner.

This past Saturday, Herman and Lee invited the group to enjoy the local American Legion steak dinner with them around the table in the alcove on the Miner St. side of the Legion headquarters on N. Douglas.

They were talking generally when someone threw a very large firecraker in through the open window. The firecracker exploded in mid-air with a bang that nearly had the war buddies diving for cover. It was a terrible thing.

Herman and the men ran outside but could not seen anyone. A man who was entering the place said that there had not been any car so it was assumed that the idiots that threw the firecraker were on foot.

When they returned to their interrupted dinner they closed the window. Only they couldn't really close it, it was shattered. They're still horrified at the thought of what a firecracker of that size could have done if it had hit anyone in the face.

The guests who were with their wives are Henry Kukulski, Joe Gallanty, Harold Dopp and Jim Burton. No one thought too much of that prank.

TOO YOUNG TO VOTE BUT—

The Social Science Club of Prospect High School recently sponsored an election under the leadership of senior Mike Ryan. The students voted Republican, Democrat or Independent. Easy winner was Richard Mixon who won 69.5 percent of the Republican votes cast.

The late Robert Kennedy won 53.2 per cent of the Democratic votes. There were more Democrat than Republican votes.

The Independent thinkers elected Ernie Banks with 82 per cent of their 6.2 per cent of the votes cast. He was followed by Tiny Tim, Pat Paulsen and Principal Alvin Kulicke.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber of Commerce of Arlington Heights sends along a suggestion for every citizen who has tried to answer the ever recurring question—"What can I do?" The answer is vote your convictions, take your family to church, accept your community responsibilities, discipline yourself and your family, speak out against selective adherence to our laws, patronize businesses which believe in a fair and honest dollar, become part of the vocal as well as the statistical majority, accept the "bill of responsibilities" then claim our bill of rights and back up words and thoughts with action.

Letters to the Editor

Red Letter Day for Committee

Editor:

May 31, 1968 most certainly was a red letter day for our committee, with the approval by the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission of our request for an interchange to be located at Arlington Heights Rd. and the Northwest Tollway.

The cooperation between all the committee members and our local legislators in this joint effort is highly commendable. It is quite evident that when responsible citizens detect a need and in their approach to solving this need work in unison, the need can readily be fulfilled.

All the members of our committee in addition to the legislators and our local press should feel gratified in this accomplishment. We extend our personal thanks to all of you for your cooperation.

Carmelita Pope

Chairman Praises Cerebral Palsy Committee

Carmelita Pope (left), and Phyllis Freedman, president of the Arlington Heights Woman's Committee for United Cerebral Palsy, spoke to women attending a membership luncheon at the home of Marge Carter.

BY MARILYN HELFERS

Some women came to learn, some came to help, and some came to explain... but all were there because of cerebral palsy.

What is cerebral palsy? It is a group of disabilities caused by damage to the motor control centers of the brain. Disabilities such as paralysis, incoordination, weakness and involuntary movements.

Cerebral palsy usually happens before or at birth, or in early childhood, but it can strike in adult life as a result of a severe head injury, stroke or brain infection.

THE OCCASION that brought these women together was a membership drive luncheon sponsored by the Arlington Heights Women's Committee for United Cerebral Palsy, a group of 12 women who have only been working together for 18 months.

Special guest at the luncheon was Carmelita Pope, Metropolitan Chicago chairman of the 1968 United Cerebral Palsy drive. Mrs. Pope said, "I came to salute you women from Arlington Heights. United Cerebral Palsy headquarters told me that if I saw no other group I should visit the Arlington Heights group.

"In your short 18 months existence you have done many things to help cerebral palsy, including your training of teen aides, sponsoring a fund raising card party, obtaining a bus for taking CP children to summer day camp, working towards a day school nursery program and as an information center."

MISS POPE acknowledged that many of the women attending the luncheon did have children with cerebral palsy, but some did not. "I decided to help cerebral palsy any way I could, not because I am directly affected by CP, but because it is my way of saying thank-you for my two healthy sons," said Miss Pope. Pope.

After a delicious luncheon hostessed by Marge Carter, president Phyllis Freedman introduced the other officers: Ruth Petrillo, vice president, fund raising; Fern Waldren, vice president, membership; Judy Herdmen, secretary and Betty Lee, treasurer.

Ten new members joined the Arlington Heights group at the luncheon. Any women interested in knowing more about the group may phone Fern Waldren at CL 3-1430.

Conversation with a Worm

BY GERRY WALSH

It was a day that I had dreamed about all winter; soft warm winds, sunshine, flowering lilacs and tulips, and uncut, new green grass. Today I decided to stop worrying about the mess of my house, and not even think about the mess of the world.

In my secluded backyard, I sprawled full length in the sweet smelling grass, and communed with nature at her finest - springtime.

I lay on my stomach, and as I lowered my face to grass level, I noticed a big reddish brown earthworm crawling out from under a large garden rock. I looked at him with pity; he returned my sympathetic stare in disgust.

There we were woman and worm – nose to nose; yet we had no rapport, no understanding of each other's problems.

I HAD NEVER considered an earthworm before; however there were so many things in the world that I have never considered.

Magnanimously, I held out my hand and contemplated this creature who at this point held no revulsion for me. With great dignity, he bravely crawled into my palm and said, "Your very life depends on me."

Now that was ironic – I was thinking the very same thought at the very same moment! He stretched his full length, reared his head and went on.

"You and many like you are so ignorant of your dependency on me, so unaware of my kind. Do you know that there are millions of us who pass soil through our bodies, where it goes through a mechanical and chemical change, which refines it for the growth of your vegetation.

"You wouldn't eat, or have gardens like this one – if it weren't for earthworms. Did you know that?

I SHOOK my head. Naturally I was appalled at my ignorance; but more than that I was filled with reverence, awe and wonder. Every atheist should consider the worm.

My new acquaintance continued, "Charles Darwin, who was considerably smarter than you, made a study of my ancestors. I doubt that you read it, your interests are so limited. Anyhow, in English soil he found 53,000 worms per acre of garden soil."

"Nice days work for one human being," I said stupidly, not knowing just what I should say.

"Yes, Charles Darwin - God rest his soul - was one of the few humans who cared about us. There are a few others now, of course.

"Earthworm farming is a thriving business -- useful, profitable, and fascinating. That is more than you can say for most business these days."

I NODDED my head. "I'll tell my college boy about it – he's undecided about his vocation, and very anti- big business. He really likes fishing – Oh, I beg your pardon – I didn't mean –"

"O.K. lady I accept your apology. I could talk about graves – but I'm too polite. Tell your son to take Earthworm 203 at the University; it will open a new world to him, and he'll soon forget fishing."

"Are there many like you?" I knew it was a dump question as soon as it was out of my big mouth.

But my brown, boneless friend didn't seem to mind; he answered loudly, "It has been estimated - by those who care - that in the U.S., the combined weight of the earthworm population would equal more than 10 times the weight of the human population."

"WHY I NEVER knew that! I'll have to tell the girls at bridge club."

"You do that honey. Tell them we don't use the pill either. Humans, women especially, could use a few solid facts about anything, every little bit of understanding about the other guy helps."

He smiled a toothless, friendly grin, rolled off my hand, and called "Good bye Stupid."

"Look OUT!" I shouted, "Here comes a hungry robin."

He quickly dropped into the black soil. I was so relieved he was safe; now that I had learned how much I needed him. I must spend more time in the grass; I had no idea that it could be so informative.

Loss Follows Sunday Win on Rooney 2-Hitter

Park Ridge Blues Stomp Lions, 11-0

BY RICK PRICE

The Logan Square Lions were blanked 11-0 by the Park Ridge Blues, Monday after posting a 6-2 win over the Park Ridge Reds Sunday to leave Larry Nomellini's club with a 1-1 mark in league play.

The team that managed only three hits last night bore no rasemblance to tha squed which knocked out ten safeties at Maine South in Sunday's victory.

Al Feldman started on the mound for the Lions in Monday's bumiliation, but was relieved by Mike O'Donnell with no outs in the second inning after yielding five runs on four hits, including two long home runs. O'Donnell proved no mora affactiva ageinst tha potant Blues lineup, as he was tapped for two tallies on five hits in the two innings he toiled.

THE PERFORMANCE of the Lion offense was much tha sama story, as Park Ridga's ecę hurlar, Ed Groenwald, gave up only three scattered hits in the six frama contast. Groenwald fanned eight while walking none en route to the win and never let Logan Square move a runner pest second base.

The club Nomellini fielded on Sunday played good ball in every respect, as the Lions rapped out 11 hits to support Brian Rooney's stellar two-hit performance on the mound in downing the Park Ridge Reds, a team dominated by Maine South athletes. The Lions wasted no time getting down to work, as back-to-back triples by Dow Woodard and Rooney coupled with Jim Kenny's one-bagger geve them three quick tallies in the first inning.

The Logan Squara contingent waited until the third frame to score again after loading the dases in the second and moving a runner to third base in the third inning without managing to push another run across.

Mike Abinanti initiated the three-run uprising in the third inning by drawing a walk from Red starter Greg Larson. The stocky right-hander was then forced at second on an infield grounder. The Lions then managed to load the bases as Jim Batchelor walked and O'Donnell reached first on a neat bunt in front of the plate. The first of the two tallies was forced in when Rooney was hit by a pitched ball, and O'Donnell scored moments later on Kenny's single.

O'DONNELL CAME ecross tbe plate with tha Lion's final run of the afternoon in the sixth inning after reaching base by virtue of a fielding miscue. The Lion first haseman was driven home by a single off the bat of George Ciaccio.

Nomellini's Lions will resume action tonight as they travel to LaGrange for a 6 p.m. game.

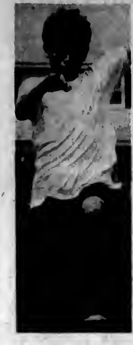
Mount Prospect Boys and Girls Romp in 7th Jamboree



Paul Shively, left, long-jumped 9'8", but didn't place in the midget boys competition of the Mount Prospect Sports Jamboree at Prospect High School Saturday. And Mary Shields, 12, 1113 Greenfield Lane, was even willing to mess up her hair-do, but she dropped out of the midget girls high jump competition at 3'4" after clearing 3'2" on her second try. (Photos by Bob Richardson)

After finishing first in her heat of the junior girls 75-yard dash, Bonnie Arndt, 12, 222 N. Wolf, went on to take fourth in the event's finals.

Rosemary Dell, who also entered the long jump competition, missed at 3'4" after making 3'2" and didn't place in the midget girls high jump.

More than 500 boys and girls, ran, jumped, leaped, threw, and otherwise cevorted peacafully in the seventh annual Mount Prospect sports jamboree Saturday at Prospect High School.

Champions from the meet, which was held on three age levels for both boys and girls, earned the right to advance to the Mundelein regional of the state tournament, which is cosponsored by the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Illinois Youth Commission.

Muelhausen Beats Des Plaines

Third basaman Robin Melzar swatted a two-run homer Monday to boost the new Whaaling Amarlean Legion team to its first victory, a 3-1 league win over Des Plaines.

BY CURT WILSON

The newly-organized Wheeling American Legion Baseball team made its debut a rousing success Monday, calebreting its first league outing of the season by smacking Des Plaines, 3-1.

Left-bander Jim Muelhausen was the winner on the Forest View mound, backed up by five solid hits from bis team, including a two-run homer in the sixth by third baseman Robin Melzer.

Des Plaines' Bill Teichert took the loss.

LEAD-OFF MAN Don Wright hit e single in the first for Wheeling, and went to second on an error by first baseman Tony Lanzaratta. Bill Newman sent Wright home on a well-hit triple, but was put out at the plate when he tried to stretch it.

Des Plaines scored its run in the fifth, Randy Weaver coming across as e result of a pair of Wheeling errors.

But Wheeling rallied in the next inning to break the tie on Melzer's homer, hit with Bill Newman was on first.

After Newman's first-inning triple, Don Magnuson was thrown out at first and Robin Melzer struck out to retire the side for Wheeling.

Muelhausen fanned Gary Kelly in the Des Plaines first, and then gave up a single to Kant Koantopp, who was thrown out over-running second when John Callagirone hit e single. Caltagirone stole his way to third, but the inning ended when shortstop Wright tbrew out Tom Bartlett at first.

After Teichert struck out Jack Fedyski to open the second, he walked Doug Benbow. Greg Craighead flew out to center, and Benbow was put out at second on a fialdar's cboice bit by Muelhausen.

BILL ERDMANN went down swinging to start the Des Plaines second, and then Randy Weaver grounded to first baseman Bill Newman. The side was retired when Tony Lanzatta watched three strikes go by.

In the third inning, Wright drew e walk from Teichert, and moved to second on Bill Newman's sacrifica, but Magnuson and Jay Newman went down to end Wheeling's third inning hopes.

Melzer and Fedyski fanned in the top of the fourth, and Benbow, after going to first on an error, was put out stealing second. Koentopp struck out for Des Plaines, but Caltagirone went to first and stola second. However, Bartlett and Erdmann were unable to move him home.

BILL NEWMAN opened the sixtb with a fly to center, and Magnuson was put out at first. But Jay Newman bit a single, and scored on a home run by Melzer. Fedyski fanned to end the half.

Bartlett came up with a single for Des Plaines, and after Erdmann flew out, moved to second on a walk drawn by Weaver before Muelhausen pitched his wey out of the potential crisis by fanning Lanzatta and George Bauer.

The last inning for Wheeling started with an error by Caltagirone, who made up for it by putting out the following three batters.

The sevantb inning was Muelhausen's finale, es ha struck out Keith Bauer, Koentopp, and Caltagirone in order to end the game.

Wheeling will attempt to defend its 1-0 record Wednesday night when they will face the Park Ridge Reds at Maine Soutb. Des Plaines hots Bellwood today.

FOR WEDNESDAY

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) — Take the slow but sure route in business or profession today. The Gemini who tries for a shortcut may only lengthen operations.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) — Not the time to depend upon great expectations coming true. Keep your feet on the ground even if your head's in the clouds.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) — The wise Leo will not jump into new relationships without first finding out what lies beneath the surface of another's wishes.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) — You can turn the unexpected into exceptional good fortune if you are wise enough to see quickly to the heart of things.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) — The smallest details need special attention if you are to win out over the opposition in the long run.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) — The future should be left to the future for the time being. Turn your full attention to the matter at hand and go on from there.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) — Regrettable decisions result from faulty judgment. See that common sense lies at the base of all reasoning today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Out of the frying pan and into the fire is a very real danger for Capricorn today. Watch where you're going.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) — If you discover which way the wind is really blowing you can hardly be fooled into taking unjudicious action.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar. 21) — Take your time making decisions today. Haste makes waste was never truer than it is at this time. Take things as they come.

ARIES (Mar. 22 - Apr. 20) — Best not to attempt to launch new endeavors until quite late in the day. Rash actions cannot be overcome quickly.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21) — You can expect to be tested this morning as far as your ability to move quickly and judge accurately is concerned. Be on your toes.

Ogilvie a Winner, Not By Much

BY LARRY WILLS

Richard B. Ogilvie squeaked by to victory early Wednesday in his race for governor over businessmen John Henry Altorfer.

As late returns came in from downstate, it became clear that Altorfer's lead outside Cook County was not enough to upset the Ogilvie plurality in the Chicago area. The race for the governorship was one of the four contested offices in the Republican primary, and both township organizations, Wheeling and Elk Grove, had endorsed Ogilvie for the gubernatorial slot.

As the unofficial returns came in from the two townships late Tuesday, Ogilvie had received 6,081 votes to Altorfer's 2,938.

The other two candidates for the GOP nomination were Thomas Sutton, who got 348 votes, and William G. Stratton, who polled 445 votes.

In the race for secretary of state, Brian Duff held a slight edge over Donald D. Carpentier, 3,861 to 3,096.

The Elk Grove Republicans had endorsed Carpentier, and the Wheeling GOP had endorsed Duff.

TERREL Clerke held a slight lead over William C. Harris in the race for auditor of public accounts, 3,510 to 3,407 in the two townships. The two GOP groups split on their endorsements of this office also, with Elk Grove favoring Harris and Wheeling siding with Clerke. Weslie Olson trailed with 774 votes.

Roy C. Johnson conceded the election about 6 p.m. Tuesday, and when the local vote was in, 9,543 Republicans still supported the throaty senator, with only 385 favoring the challenge.

Party leaders in each township attributed the success of their endorsed candidates to the efficiency of their organizations.

"The final percentages," Elk Grove Committeeman Carl Hansen said, "were even higher than we estimated they would be."

ON THE Democratic Party's front where few slots were contested, events were not as exciting. All of the party candidates won endorsement from the voters.

However, the exact results of the Democratic voting in Elk Grove Township for the two state representative candidates Eugenia Chapman and John Morrissey were not available last night.

According to the Democratic Party Committeemen in Elk Grove Township, Chester Chesney, the directions for voting for these two candidates were so confusing, that many of the party precinct watchers (those people that bring the vote tallies back to the party headquarters) did not record the correct figures.

Instructions on the ballot allowed the voter to give one candidate three votes or to give each of the two candidates selected one and a half votes.

In all other voting, candidates could receive only one vote each.

Democrats experienced a contest in the race for an alternate delegate to the national conection. Township Committeemen Chester Chesney and James McCabe won handily over peace candidates Meye Friedler and Isabel Condit. Chesney and McCabe received 855 and 933 votes respectively to Friedler's and Condit's 134 and 124 votes.

Trustees Like Bank's Plans For High Rise

The First Arlington National Bank Monday received the approval of a special village trustees' committee on the plan of a new drive-in bank and a possible high rise office and apartment building in the downtown business area.

The plan now will be checked by the village's building commissioner. The board of trustees is to vote on it in its meeting next Monday.

Douglas Dodds, executive vice-president of First National, asked the committee to refrain from placing excessive restrictions on the bank's plans.

Restrictions would make it more difficult for the bank to secure tenants for the high rise building the bank is planning to build at Eastman and Arlington Heights Rd., he said.

Two drive-in banking windows would be built first.

In six months, Dodds said, he will submit plans for a bank and office building from one to several stories high, depending on the number of tenants he is able to secure.

Voters OK Jail Bonds

A two-part reform program at the Cook County Jail was endorsed by the voters Tuesday night with Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships showing a 3 to 2 plurality.

In Elk Grove, incomplete returns showed 1,536 favoring the $9 million bond issue which would rehabilitate the aging jail, with 923 voters opposing the improvements. Wheeling voters endorsed the bond issue, 3,784 to 2,072.

Sheriff Joseph Woods, said bids on the project will be let out immediately and work will begin "as soon as humanly possible."

The money will pay for such facilities at the jail as a dispensary, a new diagnostic and classification center, a new dining room and individual toilets in each cell.

The second part of the jail reform referendum, which was passed by a relatively narrow margin, will provide for a work-release program for the inmates.

The program allows qualified inmates to have on-the-job training at a private company.

The inmate would leave the jail each morning, work at the plant or office during the day, and return to the jail when the workday is over.

Voter endorsements on this issued passed in Elk Grove by 1,387 to 1,018, and in Wheeling Township by 3,372 to 2,232.

One-Fifth Eligible Turn Out

BY RICHARD CRABB

About 20 per cent of the 68,000 registered voters in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships cast ballots in the Tuesday primary.

The vote was greater than in the "off-year" primary election in 1966, but lighter than in the last presidential year primary, in 1964.

In some precincts, as many as 35 to 45 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls Tuesday, such as in the Scarsdale area in Arlington Heights and the Country Club section of Mount Prospect.

LEADERS in both parties generally agreed there were three major factors that held down the primary vote in the northwest suburbs.

The absence of any presidential primary in the state reduced interest. In 1964, the names of two presidential candidates appeared on the ballot.

All agreed that the death of U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy (D.-N.Y.) cut into the vote. Not only did the tragedy blot out the primary campaign most of the week before the balloting on Tuesday, but it also deprived candidates of their most important week of campaigning.

Council Delays Land Decision

BY MAXINE TYMA

The Rolling Meadows Council Tuesday held off any decision on the pre-annexation agreement for the 118-acre Isenstein-Perker tract pending consultation with the owners' attorney.

The council is expected to vote on the pre-annexation on June 25.

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer called a special meeting Monday to poll the aldermen on the matter.

The property has been a sore spot between Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights since the pre-annexation plan was presented to Rolling Meadows.

An additional 10 acres for light industrial development are part of a comprimise that was to have been presented Tuesday by Rolling Meadows aldermen to developers of the land between Algonquin and Golf Rds.

The property is presently an unincorporated and is zoned by the county for the development of single family homes.

During a special meeting Monday night the aldermen decided to compromise and tell the petitioners they want 20 acres for light industry, 30 acres for commercial and 68 acres for apartment development.

The developers originally approached the Rolling Meadows City officials with a pre-annexation plan for the development of the land to include 10 acres for light industry, 30 acres for commercial and 78 acres for apartment development.

In addition, councilmen took an informal vote to limit the apartment density to 18 units an acre but to allow the buildings to be a maximum of four stories high. Councilmen said 70 per cent open space, exclusive of parking, must be maintained.

The developers can keep negotiating with Rolling Meadows, or withdraw their petition and seek admission into Arlington Heights, or seek re-zoning with Cook County officials.

Flames Damage House

Fire caused an estimated $8,000 damage yesterday in the master bedroom of a home at 407 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Marie Sbertoli called the fire department after she saw flames coming from her bedroom closet.

New Bank to Open Doors Before '69; Directors Overlap

By Charles Mouratides

A new bank with $1 million capital will begin operations in Arlington Heights before the end of the year, it was announced yesterday.

A permit to organize Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, to be located at 311 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was issued Tuesday by Roland W. Blaha, State commissioner of banks and trust companies.

SIX OF the reported seven organizers of the new bank are now directors of the existing Arlington Heights Bank and Trust, located at the shopping center on Kensington.

State law prohibits opening of branch offices by a bank, but the two institutions will be entirely separate, said W.C. Wolf, president pro tem of Northwest.

The temporary cashier is John Frieburg. He is not listed as one of the organizers.

Wolf also is president of Arlington Heights Bank and Trust. Frieburg is that bank's vice-president.

Others listed as organizers are Stephen Jurco, John Henricks, Ronald J. Chinnock, Robert M. Calvin, Dr. Keith Wurtz and George Harris. Only Harris is not one of the directors of Arlington Heights Bank and Trust.

The new bank will offer its own stock which is to be sold by Sept. 1. Operations will begin about 90 days after that, according to Jurco, when remodeling of the building on Arlington Heights Rd. is complete.

THE FACT that the state issued the permit to organize the bank confirms the need for additional banking facilities on the south side of Arlington Heights, according to Wolf.

He also said, "The action of the state in issuing this permit confirms our faith in Arlington Heights as the economic center of an active, growing, residential community.

Can't Stop Flood With a Blueprint

Flood Prevention Cash Decision is Due Next Week

BY TED LACEY

Last of a series

To alleviate future flooding Supt. Vinton W. Bacon asked the Metropolitan Sanitary District, Thursday to consider floating a bond issue, or other form of financing, for $380 million, to be used over the next 20 years.

"This would be spent for improvements, including sewers, flood control devices, treatment plants and so forth, he said. "This is what you might call putting things in apple pie order for the next 20 years, clearing up the pollution." A decision on his proposal was postponed until June 20, he said.

If the board approves the measure, much of the money would be spent in the Arlington Heights--Mount Prospect area, Bacon said.

OTHER PLANS already are in progress.

"We are now trying to acquire land for reservoirs on the west fork of the north branch of the Chicago River, on Salt Creek at Quentin and Palatine Rd., and another reservoir on Salt Creek in the northeast section of Arlington Heights.

"We've begun condemnation proceedings on the land at Quentin and Palatine.

"These are things we haven't completed yet, but when done, they should do a great deal to alleviate the flooding problems in this area.

"We hope to have them under way by the end of this calendar year."

ENGINEER Tom McCann, in the district's flood control department, said:

"So far we have no retention reservoirs on McDonald Creek. But as soon as I have time to get into the field I will look for a suitable location for one.

"Retention reservoirs are relatively expensive. A good one would cost in the vicinity of $1 million, and would retain storm water from a four or five square mile area.

"We have adopted the policy of building retention reservoirs," McCann said, "rather than enlarging streams. Enlarging streams just dumps all the extra water on downstream areas."

MCCANN spoke of another plan: "We have a study, just about completed, on a deep tunnel proposal for areas with combined sewers. This would be for older areas that still have combined sewers, such as parts of Arlington Heights, Palatine and Chicago.

"It's a bit more expensive than a retension basin, but you can't have flow from combined sanitary and storm sewers standing in a retention basin, because it would be polluted."

McCann said that during the last year since the flood there have been more plans made, but that, "There have been no actual physical improvements, except to clean culverts; and of course we do this every year."

WHAT'S holding up progress? Why aren't more projects out of the drawing board stage?

Answering for the Metropolitan Sanitary District, Becon said the reason is "lack of decision--where to go next.

"It does take deliberation. The board is right in holding off to see what is developing, but we have to decide where to move next. We can't be in the same place in 10 years that we are now."

MAYOR DANIEL Congreve of Mount Prospect said, more progress isn't made within municipalities because, "The biggest problem is that we don't flood often enought.

"This year, we've gone through the entire spring with no floods. It's difficult to get anybody excited about controlling floods when there aren't any."

MCCANN SAID "It might be a lack of overall planning between city planners and other agencies. City planning is considered much more important now than it was a few years ago. Now there is more co-operation than there has ever been."

He said it is unfortunate "that when all these interstate highways were being built, that more reservoirs weren't built too. Then the reservoirs could have been built more cheaply, and would have eliminated some of the present problems with flooding.

"But that was six or eight years ago, and there was no call for co-operation among departments.

Although it appears that the groundwork has been laid for flood controls, it is now a matter of getting the right people moving and raising the right amount of money.

Loses $72 To Robbers

Karl Melchior of 219 S. Walnut told Arlington Heights police that he was struck on the back of the head Tuesday and robbed of $72 in cash.

Give Cost Estimates For Park Work

The wheels of progress toward a $2.8 million referendum were greased formally last night by the Arlington Heights park board when the commissioners directed attorney Charles Bobinette to prepare a resolution calling a vote on the bond issue for July 27.

Other legal machinery also was set in gear when the commissioners decided to add an additional polling place on the north side of the village, and to raise the fee paid election judges.

The referendum --for new parks and park development-- will be decided in eight polling places. Election judges will receive $30 instead of $25.

Supt. Thomas Thornton, presented an estimate of costs for each park included in the referendum. The preliminary cost estimates for the parks are:

--Community park at Palatine and Kennicott: fieldhouse and bathhouse, $235, 568; swimming and wading pools, $210,798; maintenance garage, $45,000, and site development, $127,877.

--Community park at Pickwick Dr. and Fernandez: bathhouse, $208,568; swimming and wading pools, $210,798, and site development, $105,373.

--Community park at Brighton Pl. and Suffield Dr.: fieldhouse and bathhouse, $235,568; swimming and wading pools, $210,798, and site development, $74,075.

--Neighborhood park next to Edgar Allen Poe School in Berkley Square subdivision: site development, $43,671.

--Neighborhood park adjacent to Elementary School District 23 complex: shelter building, $16,568, and site development, $48,170.

--Neighborhood park in the Pinehurst subdivision at Belmont, White Oak and Douglas: shelter building $16,568, and site development, $35,707.

--Greens Park: site development, $4,000.

--Recreation Park: site development, $32,000.

--Virginia Terrace Park: site development, $9,000.

The estimated architect fee for buildings is $128,461, the estimated architect fee for site development is $38,171.92, and the estimated attorney fee is $11,000.

A citizen's committee to work for the passage of the referendum, will meet Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Park.

DPPDPDQ Means ...

By Catherine O'Donnell

The initials DPPDPDQ means that the Des Plaines Police Department will answer pretty darn quick if you call the right number. It is a little confusing until the resident grows accustomed to the vagaries of telephone dialing in Des Plaines.

If you live east of Prospect road call the Middle States telephone number 824-3116.

If you live west of Prospect road, call the Illinois Bell number 392-1134.

The same desk man will answer either one. There's a confusion in one of the systems that has become a way of life for DP residents.

A stranger came into town the other day and called information and asked for the local taxi company. There are three--Jack's Cab, Two-Tone and Martin.

The stranger only knew he wanted a cab. The operator wanted a taxi company name. The stranger didn't know a name. The operator couldn't give him a number without a name.

He may still be in the train station phone booth.

STYMIED

There's a railroad track on Graceland in Des Plaines just as it curves into Lee St. Last Saturday morning, the gates were down, the red lights were flashing and the traffic was beginning to build up until the first brave driver decided that the train track was empty and the gates were broken.

He inched his car around the gate and soon all of the cars were patiently taking turns in getting around the broken gate--until a bus came along. The bus couldn't fit around the gate so the driver got out and shoved until he had hoisted the gate into position. He got back into the bus started to move and the gate fell down.

Out he went and gave a repeat performance three times before he managed to get the roof of the bus under the gate. When it descended for the fourth time, he was able to slide under.

UNITED AIR LINE NATIONS

United Air Lines on Algonquin road in Elk Grove Village has a charming custom. Whenever the company's executives are entertaining their counterparts from a foreign air line, the flag of the visitor is displayed beside the flag of the United States, in front of the building.

There are periods when it looks like a daily happening. One of the rarest was the Yugoslavian flag; until a representative of an Indonesian Airline stopped in.

Whenever the flags on hand do not represent the country of the visitor, the resourceful United people have a flag company in Chicago that can whip one up in a hurry.

TRAFFIC COURT

The traffic court in the Mount Prospect Village Hall may be similar to other local traffic courts in the interesting method of disposal of traffic cases. The ticket holder who pleads guilty is heard first. The ticket takers who appear with lawyers are next on the agenda. The non-guilty pleaders sit right through to the end.

The roster usually consumes and entire morning. On these hot mornings, everyone, said the woman caller, appears guilty--especially the village employe responsible for opening the windows.

A&P

say Dad... ever wonder how Mom got the money

Come Sunday morning, will you be one of the millions of fathers who are forever amazed?

Will you look at your new fishing reel or power tool or camera... and wonder:
"How did Mom get the money?"

Is Mom an A&P shopper?
Could it be that the savings she makes each week of the year
add up to so much?

Why not ask her?

Before you do though, better take a quick look in the garage to make sure the car's still there.

For Sun Seekers

BY MARILYN HELFERS

Beauty is only a pushbutton away on the beach with aerosol sun foam or other cream preparations. Oversunning can cause the skin to wrinkle and sag. Everyone tans differently, so it's important to be careful about the length of time and consistency with which you sunbathe.

If you're a serious sun seeker desirous of a golden tan, there are some accessories on the summer scene to assist you.

Several sun cosmetics act as preventatives, and keep burn, tan and freckles away from fair skin. Sun Creme by Irma Shorell wards off premature aging from overexposure to ultra-violet rays for men as well as for women.

Sun Creme, unlike other preparations, can be used to control the degree of suntanning if applied after the skin has been exposed; it's like a built-in thermostat with one application a day and the creme is water-repellent.

MARCELLE HAS tied its Hypo-Allergenic formulas to the Six Great Beach Looks by Jantzen with Marcella Silver Swim Shades in lipstick and nail lacquer. They are "sun washed" with color and then delicataly silver-frosted."

Silver Foam is a shining white for the black swimsuit; Silver Coral for the splashy tropical prints; Silver Shell for the lace and eylet romantic swimsuits; Silver Sand for the all white beach look; Silver Sun for the Bikini Girl; Silver Dusk for tha cover-up suit. Marcelle also has a Hypo-Allergenic Sun Tanning Lotion.

Bain de Soleil has combined a three-in-one beach set to make a day at the beach more pleasurable. It's a beach bag, it's a pillow, it's a container of Bain de Soleil Liquid all in one. "First comes the clean-looking plastic bag printed all over with the orange, brown and yellow signature of the product."

One corner of the bag has a tiny valva that allows you to infiste it into a beach pillow, for more comfortable sunning. Inside the bag is an unbreakable container of Bain de Soleil Suntan Lotion.

A MINI-PACK of Jean Nates products contains: Friction pour la Bain, Moisture Massage, Bath Bubbles and Hand Tone plus a regular-size cake of soap.

Straw Hat Sun Creme is Faberga's answer to sunning successfully. It comes with a three-panel sun reflector with matching bright green tube of greaseless sun creme that goes right into the skin..."the sand doesn't get glued to the skin."

Helena Rubinstein's Skin Dew Moisturizing Cleanser is rubbed on skin until it turns white, then tissued off to help banish dirt and dryness. Nude is the leg and body makeup that's "ready for summer skin exposure."

A NEW COLLECTION of two tone lipsticks by Halena Rubenstein and by a turn of the stick and infinita number of color combinations. Honeyduo is half toast, half frosty beige; Sliced Peaches is elear peacb with frosty light peach; Pink Pair is half pastel pink, half pink frost, Elec-Trics, two tones of shocking.

Don't go near the water, or the beach, with out some "shades". There are sunglasses for very time of day, every costumes, every activity and every color to protect your eyes from the ultra-violet rays of the sun.

Antique Antics

BY MARY BRUCE

Antiques ara wbera you find them. It all depends on what kind of finding suits you. There are lovely shops in the Loop and along the North Shore, that leave no doubt in your mind that bara is displayed the best, in the most effective way.

These shops offer a concentration of their wares and you can be certain that they are authentic and in fine condition. The integrity of the shop is at stake.

Here you will find the Art Glass sueb as Paaebblow, Amberina, and Tiffany keeping house with such elite company as tbe Chippendala ehair, Hester Bateman silver and the elusive and expensive bistorical Staffordsbira, to name a few.

IF THIS KIND of antique buying is for you, fine, be sure and dress and taka your eheekbook. Personally, I think you are missing a lot of fun, but to each his own route to antiques.

You can check the local papers for the nearest antique shows, and in many cases taka a friend and hava a lovely luncheon and an afternoon of browsing. This is a good place for learning, since it brings together the best, dealers from near and far have to offer.

Auetions are another source and many auctioneers send out notices of upcoming sales. Many fine items hava been bought reasonably. Here you should know what you're doing; at least know the approximate value of the item you're bidding on. Make a caraful axamination of it before the bidding starts, or if necessary, during the bidding.

FLEA MARKETS are usually where dealers or people with things to sell, not always antique, but "usable junk" will congregate and sell their wares from the back end of their station wagons or cars. Sevan Mila Road, 7 miles south of Milwaukee on Rt. 41, is one place a flea market is held periodically.

Another flea market is held at the Laka County Fair grounds on Rt. 45 north of Mundelein. On the first Sunday of each month a flea market is held at the St. Charles Fairgrounds. Hara they feature antiques and junk and have a lunch counter with exceptionally good food and pies, so you can almost plan on spending a long afternoon browsing.

Check the newspapers In the classified section under Arts and Antiques, especially on tha waekends for flea market locations.

Locally, the first Antique Flea Market will be held June 23 and on every 4th Sunday of each montb except July at the Randhurst Town Hall, Rt. 12 and 83, Mount Prospect, sponsored by Antiques Etc.

NOW THAT I've told you the proper way to buy antiques, let's discuss the "fun way," the little junk and resala shops, the bidden out of the way second hand furniture shops and even the Salvation Army stores that have a lot of little "goodies" thet can be stripped, repaired and restored to useable condition. Most of us lova a bargain and these are places where they can be found.

Since most of these shop owners are awara of tha female weakness -- digging through trash, most of these places are saldom if avar dusted, so taka along gloves and have fun. This is where you might find the primitives, old chests, handwrought hinges and many hand made old country items.

This is the type of shop that entices tha women with imagination, and its unbelieveable what can be done.

A fine place to see what and how things are used is the new Peanut Gallery in Des Plaines, run by four local women. If you're looking for ideas, I'd suggest you at least stop there and browse. I was intrigued with the way they had put some of their talents to work for them.

Most or all of these places can be found in the yellow pages of your phone book, start here and then branch out to the surrounding area, and if you haven't found Long Grove by now, on your own, well you have lots of fun ahead. Happy Hunting.

The Game of the Day

Selep Slides By Jerry's Shell

Scott Hager of Selep Silk Screen has John Seefeldt (13) and Rich Valentine (7) of Jerry's Shell Service to the tune of a single and e stolen base in the third inning as a Silk rally poured across three runs, insuring a 10-9 win over the Shells, in the Waycinden area boys baseball league junior division. (Photos by Bob Richardson)

BY LINDA GAMMILL

Jerry's Super Shell Service was screened out of their bid for their first win of the season Tuesday by a tough crew from Selep's Silk Screening in the Waycinden Boys Baseball Junior league.

Despite the fact that they spotted the Silks a 10-run lead over the first three innings, the Shells came on fast in the last few frames, but not fast enough to beat the darkness that cut the game, and the Shell rally, short.

RICH VALENTINE, the Shells' pint-sized shortstop single-handedly cut the 10-0 lead in half by driving in five runs on two homers and a single.

For the Silks, Richard Rowely, third sacker, drove in three runs with a second-inning double, and Mike Loukis hlasted a home run with Rowely aboard to bring in two more scores.

The game was marred by nine wild pitches and six hit batsmen, one of whom was sent to tha hospital as a precautionary measure.

Stocky Doug Wertepny started the gama on the mound for the Shells, and after getting the first two men to face him, was bombed by Loukis' home run. Retaining his composure for a time, Wertepny whiffed Jerry Parker to end the first.

THE SHELLS went down in order in their half of the first as John Springer toiled effectively on the hill.

The two-run first evidently whetting their appetite, the Silks went to work shelline Wertepny for five more tallies in the second, although the Shell hurler retired the side on strikes. Dave Cerny breezed to lead off, but Jim Kocera and Richard Acosta were botb beaned, putting men on first and second.

Another strikeout and two walks put across one run, and set the stage for Rowely's two-base hit. Rowely's double rolled past centar fielder Bill Mitsos, and that allowed Rowely to score.

Although three men reached base for the Shells in their half of the second, they had to settle for another zero on the scoreboard. Encouraged by their opponent's lack of scoring punch, the Silks pushed across another three scores in the third to end their scoring for the game.

A WALK TO Cerny started things off as the Silk center fielder went to second on a passed ball and to third on an infield out, finally scoring on an error by the pitcher that put Acosta on second. Then Jim Ryan stepped to the plate and delivered a well-placed triple, Acosta scoring. Scott Hager singled Ryan across for the Silk's tenth score.

AS THE SILKS finally ended their scoring binge, the Shells took over, making an almost unbelievable comback. Two walks, one to John Winters and ona to John Seefeldt, came just at the right time as far as the Shells were concerned, because Valentine came up next and banged out the first of his home runs.

The fourth inning for the Shells also started with a free pass, this time to Don Dion, who was singled along by Valentine and scored on errors by first baseman Hager and left fielder Parker. Valentine also came in courtesy of errors, and John MacGinnis advenced two hases on miscues and then stole home. Lenny Greenherg went MacGinnis two better, reaching first on a walk and stealing the next three bases to score.

Cbuck Camphouse end Greenberg combined from the fourth inning on to blank the Silks in both the hit and the run categories.

Dion started the sixth for the Shells with a hard-hit triple, and danced home on Valentine's second round-tripper. Wertepny, who caught the last two innings and did a creditable job as backstop, saving several high pitches and picking a runner off third, got the last hit of the official game, bouncing a grounder off Rowely's chest at third.

Wertepny stole second, but died there as Mike Mitsos grounded out sharply to second base, ending the game with the Shell rally falling just one run short of a tie. Hager walked off with the win while Wertepny was saddled with the loss.

Rich Valentine crosses the plate with the first of his two homers last night, marking the third Shell run of the inning, as Shell catcher Richard Acosta awaits the throw. The short little shortstop drove in five runs in an almost single-handed attempt to gain his team's first victory this year.

McNichols used a five-iron.

Doug Wertepny was responsible for seven of the Silks' 10 runs although he allowed only four hits. Wertepny stayed in the game, finally finding himself at catcher, saving many high and wide pitches from turning into more runs for the Silks. Wertepny also picked a man off third in the top of the seventh, but the game was called for darkness and reverted back to the sixth-inning score, 10-9.

John MacGinnis sports a determined look as he fires away in relief of Doug Werterny, but the look didn't help much as MacGinnis allowed three runs, one of which was earned, to help the Silks to e 10-9, six-inning win over the Shells.

Arlington Legion Rallies, Smacks Northbrook, 6-5

BY CURT WILSON

Tbe Arlington Heights American Legion Baseball team stunned Northbrook with e five-run rally in the fourth inning last night, and went on to take the exhibition game, 6-5, at Recreation Park.

ARLINGTON'S RASH of scoring started whcn Northbrook pitcher Chuck Piefer gave up a single to Joel Theiss, and then loaded up the beses on walks to Keith Culherson And Creig Cochran.

A double by Marc Schillinger, a triple by Jim Kolari, and e single by Deve Armstrong was all it took to clear the bases and put across the five runs that took the leed, and, eventually, the game.

Northbrook carded their runs in the first, second, and last innings, scoring two in the first, sparked by a lead-off homar hy second baseman Dave Monts. Pet Scanlon followed with a single, moved to second on a steal, traveled to third after tagging up on a fly ball, and scored on an error at the plate.

Mont's douhle and Scanlon's single in the top of the sccond sent catcher Charley Morrnen and pitcher Piefer home from their base hits, and Northbrook assumed a four-run lead.

ARLINGTON'S SECOND saw Culberson's single converted into a run, as he moved around the base on a Cochran single, and a Bob Fitzgerald double.

Steve Shawhan, the starting pitcber for Arlington, was relieved in the third by Gary Anderson, who immediately aided the cause by fanning Lee DcMartino, Tony Domenick, and Ron Kunoe in order to retire the side.

Northbrook pitcher Chuck Piefer, who took the loss, started Arlington's third by striking out Schillinger. Kolari grounded to the pitcher, but Armstrong managed to come up with a single. Catcher Jack Bastable ended the inning when he flew out to left.

Anderson opened the fourth inning with a put-out on a hunt laid down by Jack Weiner, and followed by giving up e double to catcher Morrnen before knuckling down to strike out Piefer. Anderson walked Monts, and the half ended when Scanlon popped up to third base.

EVERY MEMBER of the Arlington squad had a chance to bat in the fourth inning. Power hitting by Schillinger and Kolari, as well as a controi loss by pitcher Piefer made the inning for Arlington.

After the fourth-inning barrage, the fifth inning was reletively uneventful. John Vetter took over the pitching chores for Arlington, end put out three of the first four batters he faced in order.

Vetter, who finished the game and was credited with the win, watched Gene Hefrich and DeMartino be thrown out at first, then walked Domenick, but made up for it when he fanned Kunoe to end the Northbrook fifth.

Cetcher Bastable threw Weiner out at first to open the sixth inning, and Vetter struck out Mornen for the second out. Aithough Piefer drew a single, he died on first when Monts flew out to second.

Vetter end Schillinger fanned, and Kolari drew a single on an overthrow at first and moved to third on an error at second. The move did no good, however, es Armstrong struck out to end the inning.

NORTHBROOK, PLAYING catch-up ball in the seventh, managed to come up with one run, but that still left them one run behind.

Scanlon came up to hit a single, and was followed by e double by Helfrich. By dint of some fast running and some slack fielding, Scanlon was eble to score the run, and the tying run was on second before Vetter got tough.

With still no outs, DeMartino and Domineck each flew out, and Vetter struck out Kunoe to end the game.

Shortstop Jim Kolari's two-run triple was part of a five-run Arlington Heights rally that overturned Northbrook 6-8 in ee exhibition American Legion game Tuesday. Kolari, aa Arilegton High School product, has now collected four hits in sia times at bat for the Legioa team this season.

Logan Square Posts 7-4 Win

Lions Fight Back, Chomp Western Springs

BY RICK PRICE

The erratic Logan Square Lions came to life for four runs in the fifth inning Tuesday night to post a come-from-behind 7-4 victory over Western Springs in a non-league game at St. Viators High School.

After having stranded men on second and third in both the second and third frames, Nomellini's crew tallied three runs in the fourth inning to tie the game up, and came back with four more in the fifth to record its fourth win of the season.

Although the win was credited to Steve Snyder, John Wandell turned in one of the finest mound performances by a Lion hurler this season, allowing only one baserunner in the three and two-thirds innings he toiled in relief of starter Al Feldman. Wandell was not able to finish the game, though, and was replaced by Snyder after straining his arm in the fifth frame.

THE LIONS' eight-hit offensive attack was sparked by Mike Abinanti, who went two-for-three at the plate and drove in four runs as the local crew's lineup showed signs of breaking the slump which has plagued it most of the season.

The fourth inning uprising began as the first baseman booted a routine grounder off the bat of Tom McDonald. The St. Viator athlete then moved to second on a neat sacrifice bunt by Wendell, and came across the plate with the first Lion run on Abinanti's infield hit. Bill Madden then drilled a single past the outstretched glove of the shortstop to score Abinanti and Jim Kenny, who had walked.

The Lions capitalized on a Western Springs error again in their fifth inning rally. Dow Woodard got things going by drawing a walk and advanced to second when the first baseman bobbled a throw on O'Donnell's infield hit. Woodard scored all the way from second on a perfect sacrifice bunt by Snyder, with O'Donnell moving to third.

Abinanti then blooped a short fly over the head of the first baseman to send Snyder and O'Donnell scampering home, and the bespectacled second baseman scored himself when the righfielder's throw got past Western Springs backstop Jeff Leiber.

The Lions travel to Skokie tonight for a single game scheduled to get under way at 6 p.m.

St. Viator's Mike Abinanti whacked two hits and drove in four runs Tuesday to lead the Logan Square American Legion past Western Springs, 7-4.

nobody wants

- to work hard, solve tough problems, and make complex decisions.
- to assume a lot of individual responsibility in his first assignment.
- to work in a field which provides a vital servide to his community.
- to work with people.
- to go with a company that is small enough so that you don't get lost, and yet big enough to have offices throughout the United States & Canada.

THESE THINGS;
BUT WHAT ABOUT YOU?

IF YOU'RE NOT A NOBODY,

- Administration
- Client Contact
- Marketing
- Clerical

We haven't said anything about our good salaries, tuition refund education program, on-the-job training program, free insurance plan, etc. because you would get these anywhere you work, wouldn't you?

There is one last thing which doesn't get discussed much, but we think it is the most important of all. That is our people. We think we have the finest group of people that you would ever want to work with. We can't prove this, but you can.

If you're a real nobody, forget about us. But if not, why don't you contact our Personnel Department.

Shifting Furniture? Go to Different School

BY JAN BONE

Most families who move into new housing developments know where their children are going to attend school.

But seven homeowners in the Surrey Ridge West development area of Arlington Heights face a unique problem:

Every time they move their furniture, they may causa their children to change schools.

Here's why:

The boundary line between Palatine-Rolling Meadows School District 15 and Elk Grove School District 59 splits the Nike site and continues south, through seven house lots in the Surrey Ridge West subdivision.

By September, some of the homes on the boundary line will be occupied.

Not all of the families have school-age children, nor have all of the "split" lots been sold.

But one family whose house is being built now has boys who are 10, eight and six-years-old, and a girl who will attend kindergarten .In September.

School laws say that children go to school in the district in which they live.

And legal residence is determined by the master bedroom of a house.

"In other words," says Frank Hinas, attorney for several school districts, "if the family in one of these houses decides to use the bedroom in School District 59 for its master bedroom, the children will go to School District 59.

If they switch bedrooms, and the parents are sleeping in School District 15, then the children legally will attend the Palatine-Rolling Meadows system.

"And if the master bedroom itself lies on the boundary line between the school districts, then the children go to the district in which the majority of the master bedroom lies. You'd have to measura square footage."

One way, the youngsters could end up riding a District 59 bus to John Jay School in Mount Prospect, where most of the West Surrey Ridge children go.

The other way, the children probably would attend either Jonas E. Salk or Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, and District 15 might have to send in a bus to pick them up.

By September, the two districts may work out an informal plan so that the families on the boundary line can avoid some of these problems.

However, if the school districts do not come to an agreement, the families will have to abide by the law.

Schools in District 15 are Kimball Hill, Central Road, Carl Sandburg, Jonas Salk, and Cardinal Drive, plus 10 additional Palatine buildings.

Schools in District 59 are Juliette Low, John Jay, Forest View Elementary, Robert Frost, Dempster, and Holmes: Brentwood, High Ridge Knolls, Einstein Devonshire: Ridge, Rupley, Grove, Hopkins, Clearmont, Byrd, Lively, Salt Creek, and Grant Wood.

Officials Moving to Relieve Dangerous Walks to School

BY BETSY BROOKER

Several village and county agencies are taking action in response to parents' complaints in School District 25.

The parents have appeared before the board of education concerned about their children crossing dangerous streets on the way to school.

The students must walk because they live within a mile and a half of school. Beyond that distance, the district provides buses, the costs of which are paid by the state.

Parents from the five square block area north of Euclid, east of Drury Lane and west of Forest told the board last April their children should not be sent to Hersey High School.

Rand Road, a four land highway, lies between the school and the teenagers' homes.

One protesting parent warned the board:

"Don't wait for a death to prove that your boundary is wrong."

Two months later, Arlington Vista parents, represented by James Ryan, are objecting to about 70 students having to cross the intersection of Palatine Rd. and Buffalo Grove Rd., en route to Hersey High.

"There have been 50 accidents in the last four years at this intersection," said Ryan. "Police Chief L. W. Calderwood has described the intersection as the worst in Arlington Heights."

There is no stop light at the intersection, only a stop sign.

An additional problem for the Arlington Vista students is walking along Buffalo Grove Rd., which has no sidewalks betwaen Rand Rd. and Palatine Rd.

"We would like our children to be bused to school until a light is installed at the intersection and sidewalks are put along Buffalo Grove Rd.," said Ryan.

According to Calderwood, "The intersection is in the county area. We heve made requests to the county for some assistance at this location."

According to the Cook County Superintendent of Highways, Richard Golterman, an engineer, Leo Wilke, was sent out Wednesday to survey the intersection. If he believes a light is needed there, the county most likely, will cooperate with the village to install it.

And the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements has hirad the Consoer Townsend firm as consulting engineers to survey all major accesses to schools, without sidewalks.

But there are other dangerous routes to school in District 214.

A survey was made by the district's five high school principals to identify them.

District administrators and board members will spend the summer determining which areas warrant free transportation as "special cases."

The cost of such busing would be paid by the district, not the state. The amount will not be known until bus routes are established.

Tha principals' reports show:

-- At Arlington High School, 10 to 15 students must walk a dangerous route east of Wilke.

-- At Elk Grove High School, 25 students must walk along a stretch of Arlington Heights Rd. where there are no sidewalks.

-- At Forest View High School, 360 students must walk along Golf or Algonquin, high speed roads with no sidewalks; and 113 must walk along Falcon Dr., which is not completed.

-- At Prospect High School, 37 students must cross the junction of Central Rd., Northwest Highway and the North Western Railroad tracks, and 23 must cross a stretch of Rand Rd.

-- At Wheeling High School, 75 to 150 students must walk along Hintz or Illinois 83.

Girl Foils Minnesota Swindler

BY LINDA GAMMILL

MARY ANNE KRISKE

Living and working in Minnesota can be exciting, and Mary Anne Kriske, 432 S. Evanston, Arlington Heights, can tell you why.

Miss Kriske, a 1967 graduate of Prospect High School, has been working since Christmas at the First Minnehaha National Bank of Minneapolis as a teller, and attending night classes at the Minneapolis branch of the University of Minnesota.

LAST WEEK, Miss Kriske, foiled a swindle attempt at the bank and helped to save about $3,100 for a 65-year-old Minneapolis woman.

The woman had been contacted by a man who claimed he was a bank employe and asked her to withdraw a large amount of her money from the bank, allegedly to help catch a bank executive who was embezzling."

The woman, Mrs. Emma M. Kaluza, later told Miss Kriske and a bank official that the man produced a badge and said:

"We're from the bank. One of our officers is embezzling."

He then asked Mrs. Kaluza to demand the money in cash, which could be marked and used to catch the "embezzler."

Mrs. Kaluza agreed, saying she had to pay her taxes anyway, and would hava to go to the bank to get the money.

"SHE CAME to my window," said Mary Anna. "She was very nervous and kept insisting that she wanted cash."

Miss Kriske said that in cases of withdrawals totalling more than $1,000, the teller is supposed to contact tha cashier (officer) of the bank for approval.

"He didn't taka it too seriously at first," said Mary Anne, "but the woman couldn't answer any questions, and finally we called the police."

While the police were at the bank questioning the woman, the mysterious man called the bank and asked the operator if there were any policemen at the bank. The operator replied that there weren't and then he hung up.

After questioning, tha police officers gave Mrs. Kaluza an envelope filled with plain paper and followed her in an attempt to catch the man.

The swindler had told Mrs. Kaluza that he would be waiting at her home.

When the police arrived, however, tha man was gone.

MISS KRISKE said the swindling attempt that involved her was the second in Minneapolis that week.

The first one was successful, netting the swindlers $1,260 in an almost identical setup.

She also said that later in tha week, anothar similar swindla occurrad further north in the state.

"But," she added, "to my knowledge, thay havan't caught the men yet."

Wants Inter-Town Water Authority: May Prompt Law

BY K. C. RADTKE

A "policing authority" is mandatory for the success of a Waller Creek flood control proposal, if the project is "not to become a political football."

So said Commissioner Lloyd Schafer, speaking at last night's meeting of the Mount Prospect Drainage and Clean Streams Commission.

The comment prompted Chairman Fred Hysell Jr. to call for a meeting of the commission with both the Mount Prospact and Arlington Heights village boards and with representatives from the City of Des Plaines.

Such an inter-municipal authority is new in the management of water, is still in a "trying stage," and "bound to be political," said W. J. Bauer, the commission's consultant.

Bauer said enforcentment of Illinois state water regulations might solve some but not all of the problems the committee envisions for Mount Prospect, if the Weller Creek proposal is developed.

However, he added, the law provides no means of control and is sorely in need of revision. He said the committee might find itself the instigator of a revision.

A study made by Bauer suggests ways to prevent Weller Creek from flooding and to eliminate pollution of the Des Plaines River.

Additional dams on the Des Plaines River will insure a constant flow, reducing pollution.

Bauer suggested that Mount Prospect share the cost of the project with other agencies which will benefit by the work: Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the State Division of Waterways, and the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

Move to Start Buying Land for Tollway

Action was taken this morning by the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission to clear the way for buying the necessary land for the interchange at Arlington Heights Rd.

The commission designated a special assistant to the state's attorney general to offer the landowners a fair price for the land based upon an appraisal.

IF THE price can be agreed without going to court, then contractors might be able to begin work on the interchange this summer.

The commissioners moved because they do not heve "quick take" condamnation power to acquire land for highways that tha state division of highways does.

Unlike the division of highways, which can take over land within 90 days by depositing 125 per cent of the appraisad value, the commission must go through regular court condemnation proceedings, which could take months.

Already under way is a survey to find out exactly how much land will be needed for the interchange.

Access to the tollroad for traffic between Arlington Heights and the suburbs will be constructed first, with the possibility of expanding the interchange to full-size in the future being taken into account during the land acquisition.

The commissioners raised the possibility of building a four-way, full-sized, interchange when they approved the initial construction plans May 31.

THE INTERCHANGE came as a result of the efforts of civic leaders in Arlington Heights for over a year. Carl F. Mees, chairman of the tollroad access committee, and other leaders, such as Mayor John G. Woods, gathered information about the financial implications of the interchange, and how many northwest suburban residents would use the interchange if built.

The information was compared with the commission data, and the commissioners gave their final nod to the project last month.

Hansen May Become GOP Power Wielder

BY LARRY WILLS

Elk Grove Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen may be selected as county chairman of the GOP organization.

Hansen was mentioned as a possible replacement to Timothy J. Sheehan, who opposed the victorious Richard B. Ogilvie in the primary race for governor.

SHEEHAN favored John Henry Altorfer, a Peoria businessman, and Ogilvie, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, indicatad Wednesday that Sheehan would have to pay the political price.

Sheehan indicated yesterday that he would step down from the top party post in the county, leaving two likely successors, Hansen and Edmund J. Kucharski, county treasurer.

A POSSIBLE contender for the top GOP slot in the county in the chairmanship of the Republican organization, Carl Hansen, committeeman for the Elk Grova Republican organization, is one of two politicians mantioned to replace Timothy J. Sheehan.

Hansen has been in the limelight of state politics before. In 1963, he was campaign manager for U. S. Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) in his unsuccessful race for the gubernatorial slot. However, injuries suffered in an auto accident prevented Hansen from finishing the campaign.

HANSEN'S organization in Elk Grove township is one of the most powerful in the county. Solidly in the Ogilvie camp, his group also was the first in the county to endorse the winner.

The possible selection of Hansen to the top county post would indicate the rising influence of the suburban GOP vote in Cook County over the Chicago vote.

Ogilvie is himself a suburbanite from Northfield.

HANSEN last night would not comment on the possibility of his being elected to the post by the other committeemen in the county.

"It's just speculation at this point," he said.

Schools Will Study Fees, Texts, Budget

Adoption of new taxtbooks, approval of student fees and textbook rental for the new school year, purchase of new school furniture and an initial look at the 1968-69 budget will be among the things to be considered by the District 25 school board tonight.

One of the new texts recommended by administrators for approval is a kindergarten book, "Beginning the Human Story". It is a family living and sex education text and contains a picture story about a new baby in the family.

The Scott-Foresman textbook was used this year in four kindergarten classes with such success that now it is being recommanded by district officials for all kindergartens.

A new pay schedule for substitute teachers will be considered by the board. It proposes to pay $25 per day, compared with $22.

The Administrators are to recommend to the board this evening thet the agreement with Chicago Area School Talevision be cancelled. The District's contribution to CAST is $3,500 a year.

CAST is a co-operative organization which provides schools equipped to use classroom television with packaged programs, but the district has found that its use is declining. Scheduling programs at convenient times is difficult, and teachers cannot inject information of their own into the CAST programs.

The question of student fees will come in for some close attention at this evening's meeting.

Recent rulings of the Illinois Department of Education casts doubt on whether public schools can charge students for anything other than rental of text books.

Budget Hearing Tonight

Next year's budget for Prospect Heights School District 23 will get a public hearing tonight at 7:30 in MacArthur. Junior High School, 710 N. Schoenbeck Rd.

Expenditures in the educational fund for the fiscal beginning July 1, will be $1,106,950. These expenditures will be $249,513 in excess of the anticipated revenues, which total - 1,057,437.

The educational fund deficit last year was $97,700.

Next year's budget originally provided for the sale of tax anticipation warrants totaling $250,000, but the board decided to issue an additional $20,000 worth, so that it could be invested to offset the cost of interest.

Board Claims It Did Not Know How Illegal Fee Was Collected

BY TED LACEY

The board of education did not know how its employes went about trying to collect a supply fee which later turned out to be illegal.

This was one of the answers to a series of written questions about the fee, charged this year by Prospect Heights School District 23.

MRS. GEORGE S. Wootten, Jr., 1722 Drury Ln., Arlington Heights originally asked the questions at a school board meeting May 6.

She was urged to submit them in writing, so that the board could take time to collaborate and instruct, President Donald Elston how to reply

She received the answers last week. The letter stated the board was not aware that report cards were withheld from children whose supply fees had not been paid.

NOR DID the board know that notices charging an additional $5 were sent out to those who had not paid the fee.

Mrs. Woottan is not satisfied with the board's decision of April 22, not to reimburse parents who paid the fee at the beginning of the year.

This decision was made after the illegality of the fee was confirmed by N. E. Hutson, the legal adviser to Ray Page, Illinois supt. of public instruction.

Hutson wrote to the board's lawyer, Henry Vallely:

"...It is certainly my opinion that no such charges may be made. The district actually owes the money to the people who paid it."

AFTER READING the letter, Vallely recommended that the funds, totaling $14,000 be withheld until a taxpayer's suit is filed for a refund.

"These so-called 'friendly suits' are very common," Vallely said.

"This way, the court decides the matter and the board is protected by a court order."

Mrs. Wootten asked the board to budget enough money for 1968-69 to pay the citizens back--and to include a provision for court costs and laywers' fees.

"I wouldn't want the lack of budgetary funds to prolong the refunding of money to citizens of the community if the court rules against the school board," her letter said.

The answer came that, "since these supply fees have already been spent, it is not possible to hold these funds in escrow.

"WERE the supply fees to be refunded, the money would have to come from the current educational fund."

Mrs. Wootten speaks of the district residents' dilemma--if a suit were filed against the board, the board would use taxpayers' money for the court fight.

Vallely said the cost of bringing such a suit against the district would be around $1,000.

Mrs. Wootten said her lawyer told her it would cost $4,000 to $5,000.

In the board's letter to Mrs. Wootten, Vallely is quoted by Elston as reiterating, "I do not feel that my original statement of $1,000 is out of line."

Concerning the purpose of the supply fee, Elston wrote: "I quote from Supt. Pansino's memo of Sept. 5, 1967, to the parents--'art supplies, modeling clay, chalk, ditto paper, teaching aids, workbooks, penmanship and theme paper.'"

Mrs. Wootten said in her letter, "I fell I should point out that we have not paid the supply fee; therefore, our interests lie in the methods used to coerce people to pay this fee and the board's indecision on the matter."

"THE BOARD did not direct the administration how to collect the supply fee. The collection of most fees charged by the district is left to the discretion of the administration," read the reply.

MRS. WOOTTEN said Monday night her lawyer told her she has only two courses of possible action.

She can either file suit or she can work to see that board members she thinks are incompetent are not re-elected when their terms of office expire.

Mrs. Wootten said definitely she will not sue.

The board passed a resolution some time ago establishing that it would not charge a supply fee in the future.

The new budget, slated for a public hearing tonight, does not include a fee.

"Charles is VERY CONCERNED about what could happen come the long hot summer—crabgrass, you know!"

Dialogue ... with George Hamilton

"No, I didn't take a day off yesterday to tally up the write-in votes I may have received, why?"

"Well, I noticed that your column wasn't in the paper and et first I though you were in hiding because of something you wrote. Then I realized that couldn't be, because no one ever reads it anyway."

"I've suspected thet for some time. But they say that writing a column is a good wey to relieve tensions end eggressions, so I'll just have to keep on doing just that.

"No, I didn't have the day off, but among my other duties, I was taking a casual pollution survey."

"That's something I find hard to do. How can you be casual about pollution?"

"Well, that's just a figure of speech. But I was unobtrusively watching litterbugs in action."

"Where did you get the idea to do that?"

"Last Saturday, when I went along with the Prospect High School Biology Club to the Indiana Dunes. After seeing the sand dunes and the beach littered with a variety of trash, I started to look around in our own area."

"And you found?"

"Lots of litter. On a short walk down one of our highways, I discovered two empty milk cartons, nine empty whisky bottles, 19 empty poteto chip bags, six empty paint cans, 12 empty unidentified cans, 16 miscellaneous items, 140 pop cans and 196 empty beer cans.

"And that was only on one side of the road. Do you realize what will happen if all four million miles of roads, lanes, streets, highways and turnpikes in this country become similarly littered?"

"Well, we're going to have a lot of trouble driving, I'm sure."

"Correct. And you know what's going to happen then? The garbage collectors will become VIPs. Already in Milwaukee a newly adopted ordinance identifies garbage men as 'combustible truck loaders.'"

"If that sort of thing keeps up, the garbage men will become as important as doctors."

"I hope not. If the garbage men stop making house calls, we're in trouble."

Prospect High Biology Club students met face-to-face with man-caused pollution of waterways on Trail 8 et the Indiana sand dunes. Oil, tar, end beer cans litter the Dunes Creek which leads into e large marsh at the south side of the state park. Less than 100 feet away is the Wilson Picnic Area, run by the state of Indiana.

Clean Up Time

By Catherine O'Donnell

If the old jalopy is looking dusty after the short hot spring week just past, the Boy Scout Explorer Troop 366 of St. Jemes is just the thing. On Saturday morning, June 15, they will wash cars in the school yard.

Proceeds will go to—well, the scout who was selling tickets wasn't sure but you can be sure it will be for something good. Scout master is Jim Mays.

ST. JAMES LITTLE THEATRE

The little theatre group from St. James wound up being positive last weekend. Just to show how confusing a weekend it was for all, Shirley Alpers called to ask that an item be inserted in Day by Dey saying that the current play would be postponed out of respect to the memory of Robert Kennedy. Board chairman Bill Alpers, director Jim Heil and the cast had made the decision at the Wednesday rehearsal.

The group evidently had second thoughts. The play went on last weekend as orginally scheduled. Incidentally, St. James parishioners are hoping that the "probable"us of the Arlington Theetre for Sunday Mass will heppen because it is so nicely eir condidtioned.

The theatre is being considered while the new parish all-purpose center is in the process of construction. The construction will make the Junior High School unevailable for Sunday Mass. This Sunday, according to the church bulletin may be the last in the Junior High for awhile.

RIGT TIME, RIGHT PLACE

When Jonethan Tebbert of I-Oke in Mount Prospect ceme home from Bredley University in Peorie, he like every other college student was thinking about e summer job. Jon is a drama and speech major and he thought he'd like to join a summer stock company if he could.

The closest professional theatre was the Old Orchard Country Club Theatre so he went there. He happened to walk into a rehearsal of Lew Musil's forthcoming production of, "A Matter of Dragons."

Jon was exactly the right type for the part of "Tom" and the part of "Tom" was open. So like Lana Turner and the famous drugstore story about being in the right place at the right time, young Jon is now an actor.

The show will be given for children et Saturday end Sunday matinees until July 28.

SEW WHATEVER YOU WANT

There on the back porch in the cool, cool of the morning sat a bunch of the girls end they weren't whooping it up. They were sewing, gabbing and so thoroughly enjoying themselves thet they were like out of this world.

The back porch was reelly a screened summer porch belonging to Dee Jurco on N. Douglas. The group meets twice e month et each other's homes.

They just hide eway from it ell and indulge in an escape from the hustle and bustle of "this world" and turn the clock backward. It could be an old-fashioned quilting party except that no one was quilting.

Dee was whipping up a strewberry confection trimmed with tiny roses to be worn as a het. Margarete Murphy was making e deep maroon velvet hat. Actually she was holding strips of the velvet while Mildred McAndrew skillfully tacked them into a draped shape.

"See that space," Mildred, who knows her way eround millinery expleined, "that's for Mergarete's knob." The knob was e neat braided crown of heir. Flo Rogozinski was catching up on her summer mending. She was idly stitching a green skirt.

Beth Moren kept so busy with the printed dress she'd sterted from scratch she only had time to stop work end laugh every few minutes. Helan Gullickson wes justifiebly proud, the pretty black and white animal print blouse she had nearly completed.

Other member Jackie Lidge was busy in enother part of the spacious house conducting e meeting in line with her duties as the new president of the Arlington Heights Women's Club and member Villers Cagan was absent.

Pani, e greying black dog, walked listlessly around and ete fallen scraps if they were the right color or bits of thread. Occasionally she looked through the screen at the street and barked at anyone who walked by. "Hey you, tippy-toe past," she barked.

The coffee pot was perking in the dining room and the etmosphere was so relexed that --ho--ho--hum...

The women are thinking of making it e secret society. They're having so much fun doing nothing important, they'd like to stey that wey.

Usually everyone of them are involved in e community project and twirling like whirling dervishes. On their sew end sew day they don't even think about what's going on in the outer world.

Things might chenge though. They were talking very seriously ebout making hostess pajamas as a joint project--something like the one in the ad for TWA's Menhatten flight. Meenwhile---ho-ho-hum--peace and quiet--it's wonderful--zzzzz.

COOL, CLEAN COMFORT

One of the coolest and most elegantly appointed spots in the area is the Holiday Cleaners at the corner of Northwest Hwy. and Central.

Not only is the place equipped with cool, cool airconditioning, but also last week there were six baskets of flowers sitting around for customers to anjoy.

The gal in charge, Harriet Ficht, refuses to say where they came from.

WE'RE WITHIN

THE TOP 20%

IN METROPOLITAN CHICAGO!

There is only one State in the Union ahead of Illinois in the savings and loan industry. And Chicago ranks second only to Los Angeles as the most competitive metropolitan area for savings dollars.

Guess where we stand among the savings and loan associations of metropolitan Chicago that are members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System. Our total assets in excess of $50,000,000 place us well within the leading 20 per cent of the 264 institutions of Chicagoland.

Quite impressive for an institution that opened its doors in this highly competitive area just 15 years ago.

VFW Organizes Parades, Supplies Flags to Schools

BY BETTY AINSLIE

All those American flags waving from poles in front of Arlington Heights area schools are supplied by an organization which was started here nearly fifty years ago.

Arlington Heights Post 981 Veterans of Foreign Wars which, began with 21 World War I veterans in 1921, has grown to more than 600 members today.

"I KNOW two of the original members are still around. John Duthorn is in Arlington Heights and Herb Towne moved to California," said John Heidemann who has been post commander, district commander and state commander, and a member of the Arlington Heights Post for 22 years.

"Those school flags are renewed regularly and each one costs about $30," Heidemann continued. "But I suppose the vets here are best known for the Memorial Day parade."

A 15-man committee starts working on the next parade as soon as one is completed. Each year, more organizations take part.

As a part of the Memorial Day commemoration, a flag is placed on the grave of every veteran.

"Which means we give out from 12 to 1,500 little flags, and brother, that's a big job," Heidemann said.

Post members visit veterans' hospitals regularly, and see for themselves just what the veterans there need.

"For instance," the past commander said, "a group of us found out the fellows at Downey needed new shoes.

"So we took care of that. We really try to help them out any way we can."

"OH YES, another thing we do — act as a go-between for any veteran, widow or child of a veteran who may have benefits coming," John said.

By calling Edward Lubeck at CL3-9860 anyone wondering about veterans' benefits may find out all the details of filing a claim.

The organization is non-profit, so all the money taken in during the annual Poppy Day also is used for the veterans.

"I remember," said Heidemann, "once a migrant worker and his family were stranded here without a cent and they wanted to get back to their home in Texas.

We found out that he was a veteran and we could do something for him."

THE POST assists in donating blood to a fellow veteran. They conduct military funerals when asked to do so; support a children's home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and sponsor basketball and wrestling matches for youth.

Two hundred junior high and elementary school boys take part in a sports program under the direction of a member, Bill Beckman, who is a high school athletic coach.

A Woman's Auxiliary with 170 members also helps, by raising funds.

It has supported the heart and cancer funds.

Dinners are served at the post, 811 N. Yale.

"We have beef and ham dinners about five times a year and I'd say we've the finest roast beef dinner around.

"We have one big smorgasbord a year in October and that is the best —. You'll agree with me if you come and try it," said Heidemann.

The post meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at 8:20 p.m.

Dues are $6 a year and any veteran who has served overseas in time of war is eligible for membership.

PRINCIPAL George Edwards, of Central Road School in Rolling Meadows, has submitted his resignation to District 15. Edwards plans to enter graduate school at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., to work toward his doctorate in education.

Appointed Manager

Frank J. Mirandi of Arlington Heights has been named general sales manager of Glenbrook Ford, 2038 Waukegan Rd., Glenview.

Mirandi formerly was general manager at Norwood Ford and also general sales manager of Jim Aikey Ford in Des Plaines.

Girl Tells How She Became an American

Friday is Flag Day — a very special Flag Day for Daniela Badino of Mount Prospect.

It will be the first one she'll celebrate as an American citizen.

Daniela and her nine-year-old sister, Donnatella, are the daughters of Italian trade commissioner Guido N. Badino, 1308 Tamarack, Mount Prospect. They came here from Italy, near Rome, in August, 1962.

Daniela, a student at Holmes Junior High School, has written an essay on citizenship.

BY DANIELA BADINO

How does it feel to be an American citizen?

It feels great, it really does!

It's a privilege being an American citizen, because you have the liberty of speech, justice, love for one another, and more things.

Here I found the school better prepared to educate. The teachers are very friendly, and they make the subjects most interesting to the students.

When I first came from Italy to America, on Aug. 20, 1962, I was lost. I don't mean what you probably are thinking. I was lost because I didn't know the language or anybody, but now that I understand English, I think that it is the best thing that ever happened to me.

Before becoming a United States citizen, I joined the Girl Scouts in Chicago and enjoyed everything I was taught—cooking, sewing, and painting.

You have to wait five years to become a citizen of this country. You have to deserve this privilege.

Once my mother became a citizen of the United States, she applied for the citizenship for my sister and me. Then the immigration office called both of us to give us an exam. They asked us if we wanted to become citizens, and if we would fight for this country.

After one month, they told us to go to court to take the oath, and to sign the certificate of citizenship.

It was the most exciting day I ever had!

It was the most exciting day I ever had, especially because I had a beautiful surprise! That day I met some senior Girl Scouts and some leaders who were there to know how a foreigner becomes a citizen of the United States.

I was able to show them!

Charged With Counterfeiting

A Palatine man was held by federal authorities Tuesday on charges that he is a member of a ring responsible for counterfeiting more than $200,000 in bogus $10 bills circulated in the Chicago area in January of 1967.

The man, 25 year-old Joseph Mc Clure was arrested during the weekend by treasury agents, after a year long investigation.

Arrested with McClure were seven other men also named in the indictment.

Federal agents claim the ring printed more than $200,000 bogus bills, but only about $20,000 of them got into circulation.

The crime came to the attention of authorities in 1967, when a downstate boy pulled a sack out of a lake near the Kickapoo State Park in Danville, Illinois.

The plastic bag contained more than $63,000 in phoney money and treasury agents immediately launched an investigation.

The ring allegedly was composed of printers, engravers, and "passers" - people in jobs enabling them to pass quantities of the phoney bills, according to federal agents.

While most of those arrested are residents of Chicago, several own homes in the west and northwest suburbs.

Federal agents say that the suburban homes were used for the actual printing operation, in the hope that the activity would not be noticed by the police.

Man Charged With Theft

A Chicago man was arrested Wednesday by Mount Prospect police and charged with theft of merchandise worth $650.

Wylie Clifton Fewell was arrested after the security police at Montgomery Ward's Store, Randhurst Shopping Center, reported that Fewell had been taking various merchandise from the store, and putting it in his auto.

Fewell had been a stock clerk at the store for about two months.

patsy milligan

Today we are introducing to you a new columnist, Patsy Milligan, whose sprightly articles will appear at least once a week in The Day.

Patsy, who is known to her neighbors in Dundee as Mrs. Jack Milligan, writes about everything from kids (she has eight of them—ranging in age from 4 to 20) to piped in music and foreign policy.

We believe you will enjoy her column. Please let us know.

Milligan Stew

Brrr...In this year of 1968 one of the worst blunders one can commit is to "blow one's cool." Roughly translated, this means to get excited or stir up activity in any way. Kids today admire anyone who "plays it cool"

But where is the tin line that divides "playing it cool" from being "cold" to becoming "cold-blooded?"

Whew!!!Our first grader marched in from school yesterday, flung herself in a chair and announced in a weary voice: "Boy, am I tired! In reading class today, we didn't read just words...we had to read all the way to the periods!"

THOUGHT...A good poem should be conceived in joy, delivered in agony and end in insight.

Tick Tock...In baking...as in war and love making...timing is the key to success.

Sign of the times...A friend of ours came down with the flu, and when her physician gave her a prescription for the proper medication he warned her against mixing it with alcohol. On the fourth day she was feeling much better and heedless of his advice, had a cup or two of grog.

The result of this foolishness was sheer disaster ... an emotional binge followed by violent nausea. As I tucked her into bed, she whispered weakly: "I'm dying, but when you write my obituary just say that it was from natural causes...drugs and alcohol."

ONE OF THE ENIGMAS of modern times is the man who wants a Victorian wife, as mother for his children, but who is unwilling himself to play the role of the Victorian father.

Quote...Some wit once remarked that "America may yet turn out to be the only example of a society which passed from barbarism to decadence, without the intervening benefits of civilization."

The mind...is a delicate net thrown out each day. What it gathers in depends upon the depth of the waters it explores.

I know...a woman who is so grumpy when she wakes up in the morning that she comes to the breakfast table wearing a wrap-around frown.

"WE REGRET TO INFORM YOU..."
LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT:
WAR IS HOW-WE TAKE IT.

Here's a plug...for the newest brand of cigarette on the market. Each pack comes equipped with a set of ear plugs...they're for people who don't want to hear all the reasons why they should quit smoking.

Serve a Nice Juicy Steak for Father's Day

BY MARILYN HELFERS
Woman's Editor

Tops on Pop's menu for Father's Day is a nice juicy steak and hash brown potatoes.

If outdoor cooking is one of your fortes, these suggestions from the Saddle and Sirloin in Chicago's Stock Yard Inn should come in handy:

Steaks should be removed from freezer or refrigerator several hours before being grilled. The bed of charcoal should be allowed to burn down to about one-half its contents, and should show no red glow, only a gray ash.

The six general rules, according to the chef at the Salle and Sirloin are:

1. Steaks about 1½ inches thick are best.

2. They should be put on the fire carefully so as not to puncture meat surface.

3. They should cook slowly at first, with no flame. Then, if searing is desired, lower meat closer to flame and allow to flare up for about a minute on each side.

4. The degree of doneness is the most difficult state to judge. The expert broiler chef can tell the degree of doneness merely by pressing meat surface with his thumb or finger. Depending on heat and fat content of meat, the average would be about 8 minutes first side, and 5 minutes second side.

For the beginner, it is wise to remove at this point to make a test cut. But, of course, this does allow precious blood and juices to escape.

Seasoning of any type should only be used after the steak is cooked. Salt used before cooking will draw the juices out of the steak.

6. Steak should never be charred...just the grill marks should appear between the dark golden hue of the meat.

Some like a steak wrapped in salt paste and broiled slowly. Others like the surface smeared with mustard and sugar to get a black char. Some prefer a steak rubbed with olive oil, salt, pepper and garlic ½ hour before broiling.

Planning the menu for Father's Day...a nice juicy steak and hash brown potatoes are sure to be a hit.

BROILED CHUCK STEAK

2-½ pound chuck steak, cut 1-inch thick

2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce

1 tablespoon French's Meat tenderizer

Salt and pepper to taste.

Have steak at room temperature; score edge about every 2 inches to prevent curling. Pour 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce on each side of steak, brushing to distribute evenly. Sprinkle 1-½ teaspoons of meat tenderizer evenly on both sides of steak. Pierce meat at ½-inch intervals with a long-pronged fork. Broil 3 inches from heat 15 minutes on each side for medium steak. Season to taste.

A savory variation on the steak theme is Sirloin Avocado. A zippy horseradish sauce (½ horseradish, ½ sour cream) is brushed across the steak and topped with generous slices of velvet-smooth California avocado for the last two minutes of broiling.

The green-yellow avocado slices must, of course, be mellow and ripe for good eating with prime steak. To choose an avocado precisely right for slicing, hold the fruit in your hands. If it yields to firm, gentle pressure, it is ready to bedeck the thickest, juiciest, steak you ever served

AOPi Lunch, Fashion Show

AOPi's of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae chapter will meet for lunch and a fashion show Wednesday, July 10 at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace, Northwest Hwy. and Quentin, Palatine. AOPi social chairman in charge of the luncheon are Mrs. Robert Boldt of Des Plaines and Mrs. John Nicholas of Park Ridge.

The chapter welcomes AOPi's who are new to the area and hopes they will attend the luncheon. This is the only general meeting of Alpha Omicron Pi alumnae until fall when there will be two get-acquainted coffees and the first general meeting Sept. 11.

The Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter has members in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect and from an area extending from Park Ridge to Barrington. Meetings are held the 2d Wednesday of each month Sept. through May.

For information about the chapter or to make a luncheon reservation, please call your transportation chairman: Arlington Heights: Mrs. William Tubbs, 392-1039; Mount Prospect: Mrs. Robert Scott, 392-4586.

And for Dessert ...

Strawberry Macaroon Parfaits provide a perfect ending for any meal.

The word parfait, originating from the French word meaning perfect, used to apply only to iced desserts. Now the name covers a wide range of combinations arranged in layers.

One excellent combination consists of alternate layers of frozen strawberries and whipped cream that is sweetened with macaroon crumbs and flavored lightly with brandy.

STRAWBERRY MACAROON PARFAITS

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen strawberry halves

½ pint (1 cup) heavy cream

2 dozen macaroons, crumbled (about 1-½ cups crumbs)

2 tablespoons brandy

Toasted slivered almonds

Allow frozen strawberries to defrost until pieces can be separated easily; drain thoroughly (if desired, save juice to flavor puddings, frostings, milk beverages). Whip cream until stiff. Fold in macaroon crumbs and brandy.

In six individual parfait glasses, alternate layers of drained strawberries and cream mixture, ending with a small spoonful of cream mixture on each. Garnish tops with toasted slivered almonds. Chill until ready to serve. Six servings.

Clydesdales on Display

Eight tons of Budweiser Champion Clydesdale horses are on display June 12 through June 15 at Randhurst.

They are housed in a tent in the parking lot located between Montgomery Ward and Carson's. The horses perform from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The Clydesdales were brought to the United States from Clydesdale, Scotland and were used in pre-prohibition days to pull brewery wagons. These handsome horses are extremely intelligent, gentle, beautifully mannered and trained to a "T".

They love to perform: when they see their harnesses being prepared, they become alert and are eager to be on their way.

WHEN THE REPEAL of prohibition became a certainty, August A. Busch, Jr. purchased a team of Clydesdales and had them trained secretly as a surprise for his father, August A. Busch, Sr.

The day after prohibition was repealed in 1933, August Jr., telling his father he wanted to show him a new car, took his father to the street. There stood the Clydesdale hitch, and as can be imagined, August, Sr., was overcome with joy and nostalgia.

Of course, trucks were in use then to deliver the company's products, but the Budweiser Champion Eight-Horse Hitch rapidly grew in popularity. Today, the Clydesdales are almost a company trademark.

The Dalmation mascot became a part of the Clydesdale hitch in 1953.

Junior Women's Club Ends Year with Banquet

The Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club activities for the year ended with a banquet June 3, in the Arlington Carousel Winner's Circle. Theme for the occasion was a "Mardi Gras", celebrating the 35th year of the club's service to the community, and for installing officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Howard Schick, a past president, who presided as mistress of ceremonies, welcomed the 82 members and introduced the president, Mrs. Raymond Crounch.

GUESTS OF HONOR included Mrs. Gordon Beckley, Past State Junior Advisor and now State Treasurer for the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Daniel Wallner, Northern Region Junior Director; Mrs. Robert Fletcher, Assistant Junior Director for Seventh District; Mrs. Ralph Lidge, Arlington Heights Woman's Club President; and Mrs. Frank Sesterhenn, Junior Advisor from the Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

Mrs. Crounch gave the President's year end report of the Junior Woman's Club accomplishments and told about the awards received at the recent State IFWC Convention in Chicago. Mrs. John Floria, first vice-president, reported on Convention activities.

Mrs. Gordon Beckley told of her 15 years as a member of the Junior Woman's Club, and presented Mrs. Crouch with a purple felt cover to be used on the officer's table. In the center of the cover there is a large, white, stylized monogram of the club initials.

Mrs. Scott Ball congratulates Mrs. John Beckius (right) for having the highest number of points, 147, in the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club this year at the group's recent Mardi Gras banquet.

Mrs. Beckley conducted the candlelight installation ceremony for new officers: Mrs. Walter Busch, second vice president; Mrs. Roger Lindskoog, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard Gustafson, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Wall, director; Mrs. Richerd Hughes, membership chairman; and Mrs. Felix Satikas, ways and means chairman.

THE PROGRAM for the evening was a musical one presented by the recipients of the 1967 scholarship awards. Vicki Auer and Betty White, both violinists, entertained and were accompanied by their mothers.

The Junior Woman's Club members operate on a point system and receive these points for services performed and their involvement in club activities. Mrs. Scott Ball, out-going second vice-president, presented awards for those who had received the highest number of points during the year.

Out of a total of 3,569 points earned by 85 club members, 1,215 were earned by only 16 women. Mrs. John Beckius earned 147 points and Mrs. D. L. Bohlken earned 125½ points, for which they were given awards. The new member award was given to Mrs. Charles Aitman who earned 65 points this year.

MRS. BALL ALSO presented a Loyalty award to Mrs. John Noerenberg for outstanding service, and Mrs. Frank Sesterhenn received a gift for her efforts as Junior Advisor during the past year.

Mrs. John Sonderegger was the banquet chairman. The decorations of balloon figures and clowns which adorned the walls; white paper camellias, confetti and paper streamers on the tables, and the programs in the form of Mardi Gras masks were under the direction of Mrs. Gail McNally.

Each guest also received a carnation, a hot pad with surprises tucked, inside, and a cookbook compiled of recipes from club members. Called "From Me to You", the book followed the Mardi Gras theme with a clown face on the cover.

During the short business meeting the president, Mrs. Crouch, obtained approval for the purchase of a set of large print World Book Encyclopedia, which will be given to North School in District 25 for use in the classes for the partially sighted.

Padres Overtake Gems in Fifth, Earn 8-8 Tie

BY CURT WILSON

The Padres came from behind in the fifth inning of their clash with the Gems last night in the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball South Red Junior League, and went on to tie the darkness-shortened game, 8-8.

THE GEMS OPENED a three-run lead in the first two innings, the first coming on a lead-off walk by Paul Cohan, who stole two bases and came home on a hit by John Taylor.

Padre pitcher Gordon Kost struck out Tom Busy, John Langhenry, and Ricky Schnell to retire the side in the first inning. But Gem relief pitcher Dan Mayer had problems with his control in the second, as he walked Kost, Kevin Krutwig, and Jeff Cordill after fanning Mike Salazar.

The loaded bases, along with singles by Jim Zobel and Roy Reyna, a walk by Frank Eckstein, and seven stolen bases gave the Gems a firm four-run lead.

In the third inning, the Padres came within two runs of the Gems. Tom Busby, who drew a walk, starting the Padre rally. Busby came across when John Taylor stepped up to rap a solid double, and stretched it out to three on an error at second. Taylor scored the other run of the inning when he stole home.

THE GEMS, HOWEVER, managed to match the Padres' two-run showing in the third, and once again pad their cushion.

Steve Keller opened with a strike-out, but Tim Strong lashed a triple to right, and came in on another triple by Salazar. He scored on an error at home after Kost banged a single. The frame ended when Kost was put out attempting to steal home.

The Padres bounced back again in the fourth inning, the frame opening with a triple by Gordon Kaiser. That was followed by Jim Ernst and Mike Vinson drawing walks. A stolen base by Vinson and a single by Cohan put across the three runs that put the Padres within two runs of knotting the score.

PADRE PITCHER Todd Rowander gave up two walks in the bottom of the fourth, but he struck out Keller, Reyna, and Mark Pittis in a fine showing to end the inning, and keeping the Padres' hopes alive.

Schnell opened the final inning with a single, and worked his way home by stealing every base. This gave him the distinction of being the fifth player in the game to steal home base.

Kaiser drew a base on balls, and stole his way to third. With the lead almost withing their graps the Padres' hopes were fulfilled when Kaiser made it home after tagging up on a fly ball hit to second by Mark Langhenry. Cohan flew out to end the Padre half of the inning.

The Gems' chances for a win were immediately renewed in the bottom of the fifth, as Dan Strong opened with a home run to right field.

Wheeling Luck Falls Short, 5-4

BY RALPH NOVAK

Lady Luck smilingly invited Wheeling's American Legion team in for a seventh inning ramp, then slammed the door on their collective noses Wednesday, leaving the Park Ridge Reds with a 5-4 Ninth District League win.

WHEELING WENT into the seventh trailing 5-0, but five walks, a wild pitch, a dropped third strike, and a less-than-resounding single cut the Reds' lead to one run and left the bases loaded.

But reliever Dave Larson, struck out Jim Muelhausen, who had walked as a pinch-hitter to start the inning, and both Wheeling and the Reds left Maine South's field with 1 1 league records.

The Reds, who lost to Logan Square in their league opener Sunday, collected three runs off Wheeling starter Paul Elisco in the second inning and added two more off relicier Teo Ramerez in the fifth

The first three runs scored after two were out, starting pitcher Ralph Remus singling in the first run, Doug Sarcia knocking in the second, and Elisco wild pitching the third home. The insurance runs off Ramerez, which the Reds later cashed in, were generaged on a walk to Mike Lange and a single by Henry Perez that advanced Lange to third and put Perez on second when right fielder Jack Fedyski threw in the dirt trying to nail Lange. Mike Venson then rapped a sacrifice fly to center, and Wally Gibe sent Perez home with a single up the middle.

Wheeling, meanwhile, was staging a near slumber-in over the first six innings.

THIRD BASEMAN Robin Melzer tripled with two out in the second. Don Wright and Jay Newman singled in the fourth, and pinch-hitter Art Arendall walked in the fifth, but Remus struck out nine and otherwise kept things under control.

In the seventh, however, Wheeling, through no fault of its own, went on a rampage.

After Muelhausen's walk opened the inning, Melzer drew Remus' third base on balls of the game. Then Neil Erickson, batting for the dirst time, swatted a grounder into right for a hit to fill the bases.

After Remus walked both Chuck Gerschafski and Ramerez, forcing in two runs, Reds coach George Verber summoned Larson. The Maine South right-hander struck out Doug "Scooter" Benbow, but wild-pitched Erickson home in the process, and Wrigt socked a sacrifice fly to left to bring in Gerschefski.

Although Larson fanned Bill Newman, Lange let the third strike get past him, prolonging the rally, and Jay Newman followed up by walking on four pitches to refill the bases.

Larson finally ended it, getting Muelhuasen swinging on a 2-2 pitch to end the uprising.

Skokie Rebounds, Tops Logan Square Legion

BY RICK PRICE

Larry Nomellini's improving Logan Square Lions played good ball for four innings last night, only to see their pitching fall apart in the late innings in a 6-3 loss to Skokie.

Skokie tallied twice in both the fifth and sixth frames after the Lions had held a summertima version of the powerful Niles East High School team to a 2-2 tie through the first four innings.

THE HITTING of the Lions continued on the upswing in last night's clash, as Logan Square got to Skokie mound ace Dan Dalfaba for eight hits besides a number of solidly-hit outs that do not show up in the statistics.

Brian Rooney, who fired a two-hitter against Park Ridge Red on Sunday, worked the first three frames on the mound in fine style last night, yielding two hits including a home run. Mike O'Donnell came in for Rooney in the fourth inning and lasted until the sixth, when he was lifted with runners on second and third.

The curveballing southpaw couldn't find the mark, and the Skokie team got to him for three hits and four runs in the two and one-third frames he toiled.

THE LIONS CAME up with two runs in the second inning to take the lead after Bob Nissenson had rapped a long homerun with none on in the first.

John Wendell produced the two runs for Logan Square by dropping a high triple behind first base to score Don Miksta and Steve Smith, who had rapped back-to-back singles.

The locals had little time to enjoy their good fortune, for Skokie came up with a lone tally in the third on a triple and an infield hit to tie things up.

AN ERROR AND a line double to left field by Rooney gave the lead back to Logan Square in the fifth, but then the roof came down on the Lions' hopes for an upset as Skokie went on its scoring binge.

The Lions put forth their last serious scoring threat in the sixth inning by moving men to second and third with two men out, but Dalfaba got Wendell on strikes to end the inning.

Nomellini's busy club travels to LaGrange tonight for another non-league clash scheduled for 6 p.m.

South Blue Jr.

The Spartans were forced to split the last week's action in the South Blue Junior division, but managed to retain a slim lead over the Oaks in the league standings. The Spartans managed to down the Tornadoes 9-1 after dropping all 11-7 decision to the Oaks.

The Oaks split their other action last week, scoring 11 runs on two hits in an 11-2 win over the Oilers after dropping a 5-4 decision to the Beavers earlier in the week.

Senior I

The Browns recorded three wins last week in protecting their unblemished season slate and their hold on the top spot of the Senior I division. Jim Bokelman allowed only one hit as the hot Browns posted a 3-1 victory over the Bengals in their first win of the week. Bokelman's bid for a no-hitter was ruined when Steve Grant rapped a double in the fourth inning.

Although they were outhit 11 to one, the Browns managed to edge the Indians 2-1 by scoring a pair of unearned runs in the first inning. Brad Smith and Rick Parkin each collected three hits for the losers.

The Browns came up with four runs in the sixth inning to deal a 5-2 loss to the Hawks in their third win of the week. Denny Foreman and Bokelman led the nine-hit Brown offensive, collecting a triple and a double respectively.

In other Senior I action, Ron Dolejs fanned 14 and yielded only two hits as the Warriors downed the Hawks 3-1. Bruce Frase also tossed a two-hitter but was tagged with the loss.

The Hawks managed a split for the week, though, as they posted a 5-1 win over the Indians. Fred Halek and Don Lewis chipped in two-baggers for the winning Hawks.

Warren Schlais fanned 13 men in six innings as the Indians rolled to a 7-3 win over the Mustangs in the only other Senior I clash last week.

Second Graders Visit New Library

BY LINDA GAMMILL

"Do you know who this library belongs to?" Mrs. Tarpy, children's librarian at the new Arlington Heights Memorial Library asks Mrs. Glover's second grade class from North School.

Mrs. Glover's North School second grade class took some time out from their regular classroom schedule Tuesday afternoon to visit the new Arlington Heights Memorial Library. They were one of eight classes to be guided through the building by Mrs. Justine Tarpy, children's librarian, since the library opened June 3.

Seated on the "steps" of the children's section, the children were asked "Do you know who this library belongs to?"

"It belongs to you," Mrs. Tarpy said.

WITH ASTONISHED looks still bright on their faces, the children were told by Mrs. Tarpy how they could help to care for "their" building, and especially how to care for the Children's Section which was theirs alone.

The second graders were then treated to a story, "The Ice Box Elf," read by Mrs. Tarpy, who will be conducting the story hours and summer reading programs "designed to keep the children in touch with books throughout the summer."

After the story had been read, a special tour of the library, including the adult section, was in store for Mrs. Glover's students. First they were shown the different parts of their own part of the library: the books, the animals on the shelves portraying characters from children's books, and the doll collection et the entrance to the children's section.

THE SECOND graders also visited the Dunton Room and walked through the book stacks in the main part of the building. But most of all, they wanted to see the "silent chair."

Mrs. Tarpy took them to the adult reading room and allowed each of them to sit in the round, fiery orange chair, the only one of its kinds in the library. The children wanted to know if it really did cut out the noise from people in other parts of the room they found that it did.

The tour completed, Mrs. Glover's class went back to their own section of the building to browse in the world of Dr. Seuss and Winnie the Pooh until it was time to welk back to North School to resume classroom activities.

Allowed to see the adult section of the new library, the children wanted most to see the Dunton Room with its projection equipment and moveable wall, and the "silent chair" in the adult reading room.

Mrs. Glover's class views the collection of dolls from different lands that marks the beginning of the children's section of the library. The collection is the property of Mrs. Edith Lindsey, former children's librarian.

'Drownproofing' Information Is Now Available

If Ben Franklin were alive, he'd probably be the first to meke a big splash by demonstreting the water survival technique called "drownproofing."

Ben's prowess as e swimmer is not as commonly publicized as his other talents as printer, author, public official, and scientist.

His performance in the water was impressive enough so that he has been named to be enshrined in the new Swimming's International Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., when that building is dedicated in December.

BESIDES HIS display of skill in swimming three miles down the Thomas River in England, Franklin also taught others how to swim and was one of the most notable writers on the subject in the 18th century.

"Drownproofing technique can readily be learned by adults and children. A wallet card is again made available by the Public Health Service.

Called "Safety Tips In-On-And Around the Water," the compace 4-page illustrated card describes the life-saving method devised by the late Fred R. Lanoue, former professor of physical education and head swimming coach at Georgia Institute of Technology. Last year was the first time the wallet card was distributed nationally.

With proper instruction, obtainable usually et your local pool, swim club or swimming organization, any swimmer or even non-swimmer can increase considerably the chances of water survival.

DROWNPROOFING is not e skill that a non-swimmer can perform successfully without instruction from someone trained in lifesaving and swimming techniques, according to Dr. Richard E. Marland, chief of the injury control program of the National Center for Urban and Industrial Health, 222 E. Central Parkway, Cincinnati, Ohio, which distributes the drownproofing cards.

The life-saving technique, Morland proints out, uses simple aquatic skills to keep e person efloat, even in rough water, for a long period with minimum use of effort and energy. It enables the person to take advantage of his best floating position so that with simple movement of the arms and legs he can breathe in an up-and-down bobbing action.

EARLIER THIS YEAR, more then 1,000 children were "drownproofed" at Northwest Suburban YMCA During The April Learn-to-Swim week, coincididng with the area school spring vacation break. At that time, 90 per cent of those enrolled were reported to have mastered how to float, according to the aquatic director of the YMCA.

Forest or Industry? Officials Squabbling Over Fate of Land

BY BETSY BROOKER

A forest of trees or of chimneys.

Which will rise on several hundred acres in Hoffman Estates depends on the outcome of a fight between the village and the county forest preserve district.

NOR FARM land, the 415 acres are owned by the Rossmoor Corp.

Located within the village, the tract is part of 2,765 acres the county decided last June to condemn as future forest preserve sites.

But the village would like to convert the land into an industrial park, to boost its tax base, according to Mayor Roy Jenkins.

"Two industrial real estate developers, Arthur Rubloff Corp. and the firm of Nardi and Podolski, are on the record as wanting to buy land in this area," said Jenkins.

The 415 acres extends south from the tollway to Shoefactory Rd. and from Barrington Rd. to Illinois 59.

With an industrial park on the site the village tax base would be increased by $90 million assessed valuation within 10 to 15 years, according to the mayor.

Assessed valuation of the village is now $40 million and the village tax rate is 29 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The higher tax base would cut individual home owners' taxes in more than half-unless village expenses were to go up.

"Every other taxing body that exists in these 415 acres also would benefit from an industrial park," said Jenkins.

Some of these taxing bodies, Harper College District 512, Barrington High School District 224, Hanover-Wayne Fire Protection District, and Hoffman Estates Park District, are in the process of writing resolutions to the Cook County Board of Commissioners supporting the village's position.

The Harper College Board of Education voted to do so Wednesday night after hearing Jenkins describe the situation.

Its president, Richard Johnson said, "Hoffman Estates needs our support and they are one of our sources for students. The Forest Preserve District has very little relation with the college."

A lawsuit has been filed recently against the forest preserve district by Jenkins and some of his fellow village residents.

The case, in the Cook County Circuit Court, charges that the village and other taxing bodies will suffer economically by having the 415 acres removed from their tax base. No hearing date has been set so far.

But the forest preserve district is not buying the villagers' arguments.

Its General Supt. Arhtur Janura said yesterday:

"The more I hear about these charges, the more disgusted I get. I'd like to know why they didn't zone this area industrial a long time ago. If they are so concerned with their tax base, why did they wait till now, when we are acquiring the land.

"Jenkins talks about how many millions of dollars the land will mean to Hoffman Estates.

"Well, it doesn't.

Eighty two per cent of the tax money from the area would go to the Barrington schools and only 18 per cent to the village," said Janura.

"We haven't decided to use this land overnight - We have been studying this for six years.

The 2,765 acres fit perfectly into the comprehensive planning of metropolitan Chicago as proposed by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission," said Janura.

According to James Hammill, Harper College board of education member and Hoffman Estates resident, "these people in the forest preserve district are high handed.

"They will not, no matter what the equities, agree to any compromise or change of plans."

"This forest preserve district is so big they don't feel that you have any political worth if you are just a village or school district.

"There have been a series of cases where they have overruled requests of municipalities to exempt land from the forest preserves," said Hammill.

"They could have the same amount of acreage if they changed their boundaries. But they don't seem to cooperate with anyone. They don't want to set any precedents."

"As it is now, over half of Hoffman Estates will belong to the forest preserve district if they annex the 2,765 acres."

Promises Creek Flood Relief

A bill to improve McDonald Creek, the main watershed of Prospect Heights, will be introduced in January at the 76th General Assembly of Illinois by State Rep. David J. Regner (R--Mount Prospect), the legislator said.

Regner's help in taking action to prevent the creek flooding was solicited by Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District President Richard Schuld.

THE ACTUAL improvements to be listed in the bill will depend upon the outcome of a survey presently being made by the state.

"I have asked the Division of Waterways to prepare a situation report--a complete engineering study--to assess the McDonald Creek situation and make recommendations on how to improve it.

"After we get the recommendations of the report," Regner said, "then we can pass legislation."

Regner anticipates getting the report by fall, he said.

It will come from Chief Engineer John Gillou in the Division of Waterways, in the State Department of Public Works.

Meanwhile, the creek has received some spring-cleaning.

IN THEIR negotiations with the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, officials of the Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District arranged to have a crew clean obstructions out of the Creek.

For two weeks, the men hauled refrigerators, water heaters, stoves, shopping carts, bicycles, power lawnmowers, ash cans, logs and other junk out of the stream and trucked it away.

Clydesdales on Display

THE CLYDESDALES Budweiser Champion Eight-Horse Hitch will be on display at Randhurst through Saturday. The animals perform from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Each horse averages 2,000 pounds in weight, eight years in age, and eighteen hands (one hand equals four inches) in height. One picture shows the unloading; the other, the team trotting around the Arlington Park racetrack. The huge animals travel throughout the country to perform at fairs and exhibits, pulling the Anheuser-Busch brewery wagon, now a company trademark.

Negotiations May Produce Local Lake Building Law; Would Be Nation's First

By Charles Mouratides

New and still controversial standards for approving future construction in Arlington Heights may result from the current negotiations of the village trustees with a developer.

The village board is becoming increasingly strict in demanding specific standards be met by the developers to control floods and water quality on lakes designed to retain storm water.

RANDHAVEN TERRACE, a proposed subdivision covering about 30 acres of land at Rand Rd. and Route 53, is the most recent example of the trend.

The present negotiations with Frank E. O'Reilly, co-developer of Randhaven, may result in a regulation for strict village control of the engineering of lakes built on private property and with private funds.

They also may set precedent, requiring builders to undertake projects even outside the limits of their own property to assure control of storm waters in their development.

Last of all, Randhaven may spur the village trustees toward waiting a water quality control ordinance for retention basins, which would be the first such law in the country.

FOR THE first time, the village trustees have asked a developer--O'Reilly--to submit his plans for a small lake in Randhaven to a water management consultant.

The consultant, John R. Sheaffer of the University of Chicago, came up with some recommendations that are unacceptable to O'Reilly.

The developer called the recommendations "unrealistic", the work of "an idealist professor" who does not realize the practical problems of his proposals.

Burlingame snapped back: "We need some more of them (idealist professors). If we had them in the past, perhaps we could have avoided some of our mistakes."

Specifically, Sheaffer asked O'Reilly: to make sure that the water in the lake meets quality and health standards acceptable to the village now, as well as in the future. That could necessitate the construction of a small water treatment plant by the developer.

2. To build a flood gate in the culvert between Wilke Rd. and Illinois 53 immediately outside the limits of Randhaven.

Such a gate, in Sheaffer's opinion, would prevent an existing flood hazard in the development, caused by backwater from the Arlington Heights branch of Salt Creek.

A FLOOD gate responds to the pressure of water on its two sides and keeps excessive amounts from flowing through the culvert in either direction.

O'Reilly stated that it would be difficult to establish "acceptable water quality."

"We feel such restrictions go far beyond the village's interest in this development," he said.

The developer, though, agreed to comply with any future water quality ordinance the village may establish.

The village board already had asked Sheaffer to present a 'ost estimate for reparing such an ordinance.

THE PROFESSOR said that since there is no model law available anywhere in the United States, he would have to create an original one. He as fed $4,000.

Legal as well as engineering and technical questions are involved in the preparation of such an ordinance.

The board indicated the fee appeared to be too high.

Bennett and Burlingame Tuesday in a meeting with O'Reilly said an ordinance would have to be prepared by someone, and must be worked out soon.

Regarding the installation of a flood gate, O'Reilly said:

"It would entail an arrangement with both the Department of Public Works and Buildings and with the Village of Palatine lying on the west side of Illinois 53.

"Consent to such an arrangement would be most difficult, if not impossible to obtain."

He questioned the village's authority over the gate and over interference with the natural drainage in the area.

"Randhaven, as a private entity, cannot assume responsibility for regulating storm water on the frontage road and other public property," O'Reilly stated.

THE FRONTAGE road will be constructed to separate local traffic channeled to Randhaven from that of the expressway.

Bennett said he thought the gate should not be the responsibility of the developer. He questioned the legality of such a demand.

Burlingame, however, insisted on the professor's proposal. It was decided to ask the opinion of the village attorney, Jack Siegel. If Siegel says it is not legal the demand will be scrapped.

Civil Defense Setup Boosted by Director

BY MAXINE TYMA

Arlington Heights came a step closer to a program in civil defense when the director completed a managament training course in Michigan.

John Benson, Civil Defense director for the village, attended a one-week course in "Civil Defense Management" June 2-7, in Battle Creek.

"The biggest thing I learned was the scope of the federal government in its programs and priorities in the area of Civil Defense," Benson said.

Since he became director of the civil defense program this year, Benson has started to set up fallout shelters in schools and public buildings in the village.

He is supplying them with food and equipment that could be used if the shelters ware occupiad during a nuclear attack or othar disaster.

He also has received approval from the federal government to install warning sirens and to place warning radios in the elementary and secondary schools in tha village.

Bids for the sirens and the radios will be taken later this month.

Benson said tbe sirans should be ready for operation in the fall and the radios will be available for a network alerting system in mid summer.

"The beauty part of the shelter plan is that very little money is needed because existing facilities are used," Benson said.

"If you are prepared for a nuclear situation, the worst kind of disaster that can befall us, then you will be better abla to cope with tha other natural disasters," he said.

ARCHBISHOP Iakovocos of the Graak Orthodoa Church of North and South America will officiata at the 10 a.m. services Sunday in St. John tha Baptist Greek Orthodoa Church, 2350 Dempster St., Des Plaines. The Archbishop came to Des Plaines last year for a vesper ceremony. There will be no receeption because tha dignitary must leave shortly after the service to By to the East coast.

Village Board to Act On Land Proposals

A petition that may result in a high rise office building in Arlington Heights' downtown business district, and a second one to build the village's largest apartment development are coming up before the village board Monday at 8 p.m.

A special committee of the trustees has examined the plans for both projects and has recommended approving them.

THE FIRST Arlington National Bank has petitioned for permission to install two drive-in windows in a new building at Eastman and Arlington Heights Rds. First National already has a bank building at Dunton and Campbell.

Douglas Dodds, executive vice president of the bank, said that if tenants are secured he would build a highrise apartment and office building at the Eastman location. If not, he would just construct a third dirve-in window and a one-story office building.

Dodds is obliged to submit plans for the office building within six months and to begin the construction of a building within two years.

If he does not follow those stipulations set by the trustees, the village could demolish the two drive-in windows.

Banks are not permitted to establish branch offices under the existing state laws.

The drive-in facility, according to Dodds, is legal because it would service only existing accounts. It would not provide any services for new customers.

Dodds has mailed about 1,000 letters to national companies inviting them to rent space in the planned building. Some of them have reportedly shown interest.

THE BANKER said that his main concern in proposing the highrise is to encourage such construction in the central business district.

In a separate action, the trustees are expected to approve a rezoning petition for the Three Lakes subdivision, (the Stavros development).

In addition to the apartments the developers, brothers Gus and James Stavros and M. W. Nesset, also intend to construct 130 single-family houses and provide land for almost 13 acres of commercial development.

In spite of the amount of housing to be provided, more than half of the development - or about 128 acres - will be used as open space. An 18-hole golf course will be constructed on part of the open land.

OLD FEUDS with the trustees seem to have been settled.

The developers now have agreed to offer money instead of land dedication for park and school sites on the land in the subdivision.

They also have agreed to improve all the interior streets, in accordance with the village requirements.

Most of the streets surrounding the land also will be improved by the developers.

A half-street along Arlington Heights, Nichols and Sheaffer Rds. for their entire length plus the full street along Nichols, will be improved.

The developers in addition will dedicate some right-of-way for the planned Lake-Cook Rds., but will not be required to improve it immediately.

IN THE past, the Stavros brothers indicated they would not improve the streets because of the expected high cost.

When the trustees insisted on the improvements, the developers submitted the present rezoning application that almost doubles the original number of apartments and commercial acreage.

High school and college graduates will be honored during a special service at 11 a.m. Sunday in the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Euclid and Wolf Rds., Prospect Heights.

Board Buys Steel to Assure Prompt Work on New School

BY RICHARD CRABB

As a hedge against a possible steel strike, the Arlington Heights School District 25 yesterday placed an order for the structural steel that will be needed to build the new Rand Junior High School.

Contracts for the construction will be let July 22, and the work will begin about Aug. 1. The structure is to be ready for use in September, 1969.

District officials had been advised weeks ago that shortage of steel could cause a construction delay.

The usual practice is to select the general contractor who then places the order for steel.

The board learned at its meeting Wednesday that the 20 new school rooms under construction will be ready for use Sept. 1.

The Ivy Hill, Kensington and Miner School additions will be completed by Aug. 1, so there will be nearly a month to install furniture and complete preparations to use the new facilities. Classes begin immediately after Labor Day.

The work at Dryden School's addition is now a week behind schedule and district officials hope to catch up with the original schedule.

Board members were to establish student fees and the rental schedule for textbooks yesterday, but action on the matters was delayed.

Neighboring school districts recently have been given an opinion by the state superintendent of instruction that the only mandatory fees which may be charged students is for book rental. The board asked its attorneys to seek confirmation of the opinion.

New textbooks for 1968-69 were approved by the board. One of the new texts is "Beginning the Human Story," a picture book on family living and sex education.

A new pay schedule for substitute teachers wee adopted by the board. The teachers will get a $3 a day raise, to $25.

Plan Rite of Confirmation At Grace Evangelical

The Rite of Confirmation will be administered by Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, to 13 youths on Sunday afternoon, June 23 at 3 p.m. The youths include: Philip Benedict, Jan Brickwood, Carol Drake, Dianne Ekhund, JoAnn Gozdecki, Betty Lou Hansen, Robert Gustafson, Donald Lieber, Robert Lindsay, Mark Lovdjieff, Gail Muelhausen, Steven Richards, and Cathy Waldusky.

Following the Confirmation service, the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be given.

During the service, the youth of the 1968 Confirmation class will present a gift to the church.

Parents, members and friends will be invited to participate in the service. Pastor Albert W. Weidlich will conduct the service, and Harold Klumpp, organist, will bring the special music.

"GET HIM OUTTA THERE—THIS IS SUPPOSED TO BE A POOR PEOPLE'S MARCH!"

Daylight

Flag Waver

BY MARY BRUCE

I'm a quiet American, I sit back and let other people decide my future for me.

I'm a forgetful American; I sometimes forget to fly the flag on the proper days.

I'm a careless American, because I neglect to show proper respect and appreciation for my flag and country.

I'm a thoughtless American, I take our country and all it stands for, for granted.

I'm a concerned American, when I see the actions of some of our young men and women on the streets and on campuses.

I'm a disgusted American, when I hear people ridicule the highest office of our land and the man we gave our vote of confidence to.

I'm a resentful American, when I see people defile, burn and mutilate our flag and Embassies abroad.

I'm a shocked American, when I read about countries who take our aid and food with one hand and slap up on the cheek with the other.

I'm a frightened American, when I see the violence on our beloved streets of our cities.

I'm a misty-eyed, choked-up sentimental American, when I see a parade, with young girl and boy scouts and service men pass carrying our flag.

I'm a thrilled American, when I see young school children stand proudly erect, giving the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

I'm a humble American, when I think how many bright young lives ended on foreign soil, so I could be free.

I'm a hopeful American, that since history repeated itself, that out of the chaos of our times, will come the better world of tomorrow, for all Americans.

But above all else, I'm a PROUD American, for right or wrong, good or bad, this is my country, and I know its the greatest place in the world to live.

Mobile Library

By Catherine O'Donnell

The Village Theatre, Inc. has got a mobile library. The library consists of all the paper back plays that their busy play-reading committees have waded through during the past 15years of their existence. The plays go all the way back to the monthly one which used to be published in the magazine, "Theatre Arts."

The magazine has not been around the scene for a long time. The library is contained in two massive carboard cartons that come after every yearly election to the home of the chairman of the playreading committee.

The boxes are usually a surprise.

This year's new chairman is Bette Grayson. Other officers who were elected are President Alvin Estrella, Vice-president Barbara Connor, Secretary Binki Wilson, Treasurer David Breitsprecher.

Besides Bette, the new board consists of past President Dick Baker, Workshop chairman Chris Bawske. Caroline Burkett is the executive and constant secretary who handles all of the tedious details year after year.

ANOTHER ELECTION

The new officers of the Hasbrook Association were announced this week. They are President Robert Schaefer, First Vice-president Walt Bardy, Second Vice-president Don Norman, Secretary Georgia Long and Treasurer Don Johnsom.

The first item on the ever-active group is the Fouth of July picnic. The picnic will be held in Hasbrook Park.

According to Mary Regan, publicist, there will be entertainment, games and food. Festivities will begin at 11:30 a.m. and are scheduled to end at 5 p.m. The public is invited.

Last year the five o'clock ending turned into a myth. So many people were having so much fun that the picnicking continued in individual homes.

HOME AGAIN

Alice Linde of Rolling Meadows is home after a 39-day stopover in Grant Hospital. Alice is well, happy and wants all of the people who sent cards, gifts and flowers to know that she deeply appreciated all of the attention.

Alice is ending her long service as head of the Village Theatre, Inc. box-office. The box-office duties for the coming year will be assumed by Joyce Sellers.

THE AVENUE

The League of Women Voters would like to borrow an open-back truck. The truck will be decorated and will become a float in the annual Fouth of July parade. The League is seeking to interest all voters in the Water Resource referendum scheduled for this year's general election.

Chairman of the Water Resource Committee is Marian Dintenfass. Betty Shub eck said that the Leaguers are not certain about just waht type of float they will use to emphasize the need for passage of the water legislation.

Suggestions for making the float attractive ranged from having the gals carrying mops and buckets to emphasize the clean up brigades that went into action after last year's flooding.

Another suggestion had them all dressed in bathing suits. "The money," Betty said, "will be used to prevent that." "The bathing suits?", asked Day by Day. "No," said Betty, "The flooding."

The referendum is truly an important one and the League deserves a great deal of credit for reminding the people about it. Anway if any truck owner would like to help, call Betty at 392-1313.

TONIGHT TONIGHT

Tonight is the night that so many people in the area have been waiting for. It's opening night for Best Off Broadway's gread production of "The King and I" It will be held in the autidotium of Elk Grove High School.

Director Richard Tyler is certain that this will be the grandest musical of all. That is the highest recommendation.

The talent of this group is outstanding. They have not had a dull production since they started.

DOCTOR SAYS

Bland Diet Important Peptic Ulcer Treatment

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Many ulcers of the stomach and duodenum appear to be caused by nervous tension. These ulcers can usually be controlled with antacids and a bland diet that includes taking gelatin or milk between meals. Recent observations indicate that most persons with chronic peptic ulcers that fail to respond to this treatment have either an enlarged parathyroid or a parathyroid tumor.

Overactivity of this gland may or may not be the cause of these ulcers but there seems to be little doubt that it is the reason these ulcers fail to heal. This may be because the excessive parathyroid secretions produce a high level of calcium in the blood which in turn increases the flow of stomach acids or because the parathyroid hormones make the lining of the stomach or duodenum more vulnerable to the corrosive action of the digestive juices.

Before the treatment of a person with a peptic ulcer is started, it would appear to be wise to test him for parathyroid overactivity. If this is found, the treatment should be directed primarily toward correcting this abnormality.

Q--I have been taking Peritrate for two years for my angina. I also have glaucoma. In a recent column you said this drug should not be taken by persons with glaucoma. Why?

A--According to a statement by the American Medical Association, recent evidence indicates that there are no harmful effects from taking this drug in persons who have glaucoma. All previous warnings should, therefore, be rescinded.

Q--Is surgery the only treatment for an aneurysm?

A--Drugs that lower the blood pressure have been used with some success in halting the progress of an aneurysm but they cannot be considered to be a cure. Although surgery is the only cure, some of the newer surgical techniques are relatively simple and are replacing the more heroic measures used in the past. The new methods include the induction of clotting within the aneurysm with an electric needle, or injecting iron particles into a bleeding aneurysm then magnetizing the particles so that they will obstruct the leak. Aneurysms of the basilar artery in the brain have been successfully treated by injecting shafts of stiff mammalian hair into the aneurysm. This also causes clotting within the dilated artery.

Unique Program at Harper

Harper College's architecture program is the only one of its kind in the nation on the junior college level, its organizers say.

The program is divided into two separate sequences, design and technology. Each takes two years of study.

THE PROGRAM is aimed at enabling students to find a job in an architect's office immediately after graduation.

Students who complete two years of architectural design, on the other hand, can transfer for still more study elsewhere.

The program is a reproduction of the first two years of a similar five year program at the University of Illinois.

Uniquely, all instruction in the technology program is on an individual basis.

"THE STUDENTS are givan a general course in architecture, yet they receive strong specialization.

"We arrange our curriculum around the student rather than planning it before the student arrives," said Donald Collins, architecture curriculum coordinator and college architect.

There are more than 100 "phases" in the technology sequence in which a student may specialize.

Some of these are architectural drawing, specifications writing, architectural accounting, and computer operation, said Collins.

"Our motive behind the individualized instruction is to avoid drop out of students. We believe the student is qualified to do something and it is our job to find out what it is and to train him," Collins explained.

Rev. John Fry Presbyterian Guest Speaker

The Rev. John Fry of the First Presbyterian Church of Chicago will be guest speaker at the June 17 dinner meeting of the Men's Council of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

The Rev. Mr. Fry has been actively working with the Blackstone Rangers and is intimately familiar with some of the deep problems of the inner city. His theme, "The Truth About the Blackstone Rangers," is aimed at providing a better knowledge and understanding of the black youth problem in the urban crisis. A discussion period will follow.

King Services Planned Wed.

A follow-up to the memorial service for Dr. Martin Luther King will be held at St. James school basement, 821 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Wednesday, June 19, at 8 p.m.

The AHEAD (Arlington Heights Ecumenical Action and Discussion) group is planning action appropriate to the suburbs on the crucial questions of poverty and race.

The Rev. Leon Haring of First Presbyterian Church said the meeting is an opportunity for all those who are concerned to meet and plan together. He has invited members of the NORWESCO task force to describe the needs of the opportunity center.

Participants will hear Charles Walsh of St. James Church offer a partnership plan for buying housing that can be offered to minority groups. The possibility of a monthly ecumenical service will be explored and the involvement of young people in the service of the community.

Several hundred persons have been invited.

Jobs for the Blind

Today's computer-oriented technology offers special opportunities for up-to-date jobs for which blind persons can be trained.

Federal social and rehabilitation administrator Mary E. Switzer recently told a national meeting of workshop board members in Wahington, D.C., that more than 27,000 blind persons have already been re-introduced to productive lives during the past five years while an additional 39,500 visually impaired persons have also been rehabilitated.

The conferance was sponsored by the National Industries for the Blind, representatives of which heard Miss Switzer urge them to train the blind for tasks tied in with computer operations, as well as do more diagnostic evaluation of persons formerly considered not trainable.

She also suggested that there be more experimental work with new types of jobs where re-engineering of production methods might open the door for using blind workers, evan multi-handicapped blind persons.

Federal funds for such purposes are available from the Social and Rehabilitation Service administered by Miss Switzar.

Battle Of Bands For Fair

A new feature entitled the "battle of the bands" has been added to the annual Mount Prospect Lions Club Fair held this year from July 3 through July 7.

Peter Tsolinas, teen dance chairman has announced he will have 16 local high school bands competing for cash prizes. Four groups will play continuously for the first four evenings.

One band will be picked from each evening and the four winning groups will compete on July 7. Teenagers will pick the winners by applause with the Lions acting as judges.

The prize for first place will be $200; second place, $150; third place, $100; and fourth place, $50. Any local group wishing to compete should call Lion, Bud Cairns, Monday through Friday at 392-5151.

A questionnaire must be submitted and an audition will be arranged at your convenience.

Dist. 59 Faces Referendum

District 59 voters may get the chance to vote in September on a proposed tax increase referendum which would cut interest costs and put the school system on pay-as-you-go-financing.

No official decision on having the referendum has been made yet by the school board.

But Bill L. Lankenau, District 59's school business administrator, would like to see the district have a referendum before the end of September. Board members will discuss the proposal again at their July 1 meeting.

LANKENAU SAID that the $395,000 borrowed by the district when it issued bonds on Dec. 1, 1967 will cost the voters $129,472.50 in interest charges.

"Our total cost of constructing $395,000 in facilities is therefore $524,472.50, to be paid by the taxpayers in the next 11 annual tax levies."

Lankenau said that if the district grew as expected in assessed valuation (about $260 million in 1968), the proposed 6-cent capital improvements tax would bring in $156,000. Beginning with tax distributions in June, 1969, the district would collect about 91 per cent of this money, or $142,000.

IF REFERENDUM plans go through, the district would spend the money to remodel and modernize its schools, to pay its share of the proposed special education building for the trainable mentally handicapped children that 10 school districts are working together to build, and to make safety improvements on older schools required by the state's Life Safety Code.

Actually, District 59 could do all these things, if it wanted to, without asking the voters to approve a tax increase.

It already has legal authority to go ahead and levy a 2-cent special education tax, a 5-cent tax increase to bring older buildings up to required safety standards, and a 5-cent working cash fund.

IN OTHER WORDS, the district could increase taxes by 12-cents per $100 in property valuation if it wanted to – without having to ask permission.

However, it isn't going to.

Thomas told The Day that he plans to recommend to the board that they set up a referendum for a six-cent capital improvements fund, to be voted on Sept. 21.

If passed, the 6-cent increase would make taxes on the average District 59 house, with a $10,000 assessed valuation, go up by $6 per year.

Schools in District 59 are High Ridge Knolls, Dempster, Devonshire Brentwood, Einstein, Jay, Frost, Forest View Elementary, Holmes, Rupley, Ridge, Grand Wood, Salt Creek, Hopkins, Clearmont, Byrd, and Grove Junior High School. Tom Lively Junior High School will open in September.

A luncheon will be included in the 2d annual house and garden walk scheduled by the Arlington Heights Woman's Club for Oct. 10. Already busy making plans for the occasion are Mrs. Myron R. Hartley (left), chairman of Community Improvement; Mrs. Stephen Jurco, past president; Mrs. Ralph Lidge, president and Mrs. John Schubeck, advisor.

2nd Annual House Walk

Initial plans for the second annual house and garden walk sponsored by the Arlington Heights Woman's Club include the addition of a luncheon to the day's activities scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 10, according to Mrs. Myroo R. Hartley, chairman.

"The committee is very enthusiastic about the plans and we hope to surpass the $1,500 raised last year," said Mrs. Hartley after the Community Improvement Committee's recent planning session.

MONIES RAISED will benefit again the Museum Fund of the Historical Society of Arlington Heights. The Museum Fund is used to ready the building for opening and for support of its continued existence.

Luncheon plans are under the direction of Mrs. Stephen Jurco. With the assistance of Mrs. Raymond O'Donnell, Mrs. Paul Brna, and Mrs. George Bond, she will also plan the serving of morning coffee and afternoon tea to the housewalkers.

TICKET DISTRIBUTION will be handled by Mrs. Fred Jasper and Mrs. Wayne Kindrick. Other committee members include Mrs. Charles R. Barton, publicity; Mrs. Robert Komarek and Mrs. O'Donnell, invitations and house brochures; Mrs. G. T. Beckley, Mrs. Laddie Poduska, Mrs. Cecil Lovewell, and Mrs. Gordon A. Zwissler, house traffic patterns; Mrs. Oliver Davenport and Mrs. Eldred Koenig, hostesses; Mrs. Richard Schlott, scrapbook; Mrs. Carlton D. Albright, Mrs. M. L. Kurtz, and Mrs. Theodore Samuelson, mailing.

Prepare for the Inevitable, 'School's Out'

BY BETTY CANARY

Anyone with experience has been steeling themselves for the joyous cry, "School's out!" If you haven't been preparing for the inevitable, I can assure you those are the words that shattereth thy nerves and taketh away thy aplomb.

It is not just the thought of having the freezer filled with half-eaten Popsickles and the car filled with wet bething suits for the next few months that bothers me.

IT IS NOT the idea of coping with the blizzard of mimeographed slips brought home in order to give mother three extra hours of paperwork and give father's billfold that curious flat look. After all, I heve been at this for quite a few years.

Today, for exampie, I quickly filled out slips registering one for a summer geology-conservation course one for tennis lessons and three for swimming lessons and a reading program. Rick is already registered for Boy Scout camp in New Mexico and Stu and Cissy are on the lists for camp.

"DON'T YOU think you are a bit overorganized?" I asked, as he reluctantly dropped the typing slip into the wastebasket. "Well," he answered, "if I didn't have to spend all winter in school, I could work more important things in."

Agreeing that those hours spent on arithmetic and spelling and history did interfere with his education, I signed everything remaining on the table, including two placemats and an ice cream dish.

Now, maybe you think it's contemplating those waves after waves of playmates destined to hit the beachhead of my kitchen this summer that disturbs me. No, no. Again, I have experience here and it is not kids with their assorted toys and pets that get to me.

I HAVE become adept at answering both the telephone and the beck door, sending Nicky Krentzman home for lunch and sorting through eight pairs of tennis shoes while also making chocolate pudding and at the same time braiding somebody's hair.

Actually, it is not any one of these things that makes me shudder when I think of hearing, "School's out!"

It's ALL of them.

Father's Day Open House At Willow Brook Art Center

A new art center, Willowbrook Art Center, in Long Grove will hold an open house on Father's Day, June 16 from 2 to 5 p.m. All the instructors will be present with samples of their own work.

To get to the new art center, take Hwy. 83 north to Rt. 22, turn left and go ¼ mile to Willow Brook farm. Colored balloons at the gate will tell you when you've reached the farm. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henricks of Long Grove have been working throughout the spring months to prepare for the grand opening of their new art center, which will be patterned after the famous Monsaluat Art Center outside Melbourne, Australia, which they visited last winter.

The center is located at their 150-year-old farm on the site of the old Ritzenthaler homestead and will occupy barns formerly used by Guernsey cows. The barns are whitewashed inside and out with flowers at the windows, sterophonic music and a fountain the middle of the newly leveled floor.

Classes presently scheduled include oil painting, pottery, papier mache, flower arranging and crafts for children. Experts in other artistic fields will be at the open house and if enough interest is shown, classes in decoupage, glass blowing, stitchery, sand casting, bas relief, sculpture, decorative paper flowers, ceramics, decorating glassware and drama for children can also be set up.

The lessons will not all be presented as a series of lessons, but in many cases can be scheduled as one or two classes and may be arranged to run concurrently with the child's craft class so that mothers can be working in one spot and their children working in another.

For more information call 634-3738 or 634-3317.

The event is sponsored by the Dorcas Aid. President Mrs. Edward LaBantschnig extends a cordial invitation to the public.

Donation is $1.50 and tickets are available from Aid members or reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Jack Legg 392-3479.

What Is A Father?

BY MARY BRUCE

A father is many things to many people in his immediate family. He is a composition of undetermined qualities of uncertain abilities and age but an, oh, so important part of a family unit.

To his young son he is Daddy, a hero in the war, a walking book of knowledge; a strong arm on his shoulder; someone to play catch with; the strongest father on the block; someone to buy ice cream cones for the gang after the Little League game is over; chauffeur and repair man, and the Bank of Arlington.

To his teen-age son he is the Old Man; too strick about enforcing rules; not quite as smart as he used to be; expects too much of a guy, but kinda nice to have around when you need him; keeper of the car keys and benk of Chicago.

To his young daughter he's MY Daddy; a tower of strength; someone to cuddle up to at bedtime; a strong hand to cling to when crossing the street; a suitable male to practice flirting on, the doll and toy furniture repairman, any old bank will do as long as Daddy has money for candy and lollipops.

To his teen-age daughter he's Father, a strict disciplinarian; old-fashioned; repairman and chauffeur; embarrasses her, but nice to have around when you need him; keeper of the car keys and Bank of America.

Te his wife he is a small boy grown up; a baby when he has a cold or hangnail; a sport nut who is immoveable during a football game; someone who no matter what you fixed for dinner he had st for lunch; general handy man; someone who forgets important dates but can describe the dress you wore on your first date; someone whose hearing is so acute on a Sunday afternoon he can hear a can of liquid refreshment being punctured three blocks away, but can't hear his kids crying in the early a.m. in the next room. He's also chauffeur and car mechanic The Bank of the World, and someone awfully nice to have around.

Whatever else the man in your family may mean to you, this is his day. Show him you think he's awfully nice to have around the house everyday.

Fellowship

Nanette J. Rathsam, daughter of the Russell Rathsams of Arlington Heights, was awarded a fellowship for graduate school. Miss Rathsam graduated with honors June 1 with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Western Illinois University.

INSTANT SHOESHINE

There is now on the market an instant shoeshine kit, all contained in a small-sized packet ideal to carry in your purse. It's magic! Whenever your shoes need a quick buff, just tear open the container, take out a little damp piece of heavy paper and wipe your shoes with it--and they shine without rubbing. A collection of these make a wonderful bon-voyage gift for a travelling friend.

Engaged

LYNN BASTIEN

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bastien of Arlington Heights announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Ann, to Brian C. Bucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bucher of Des Plaines. Miss Bastien was graduated from Arlington High School in 1966 and is a secretary for the Continental Insurance Companies in Chicago.

Her fiance was graduated from Maine East High School in 1966 and is presently employed by A. R. Barnes and Co. in Skokie.

How Not to Be A Good Father

BY GERRY WALSH

Happy Father's Day, happy father, and happy wife and happy children.. We know the reasons for your happiness-you have done the right things by knowing the wrong things, the pitfalls that lead to becoming a poor father.

But for those who are asking themselves, "what did I do wrong", I list some negative directives. If you follow them all, you will be a complete failure, and not even in the running for "best father of the year."

SHOW NO enthusiasiam when your wife announces that you are going to be a father. Feel that you can't afford a baby, so soon.

Pick out a boy's name, know that it will be a boy. Take no part in your infant's care - never give the 2 a.m. feeding, consider changing and cuddling a woman's job.

Your favorite phrase during the first year is; "Honey, the baby is crying!"

HAVE BETTER things to do than read books or articles on childcare-like reading "Playboy", or watching a baseball game on T.V.

Always take your child's side against all authorities. It's the teacher's fault. The neighbor is a crab, who is so unreasonable that he doesn't want his property destroyed.

The police are wrong about that ticket, your Johnny always drives under the speed limit, etc. My child right or wrong, is always right - this is your motto.

Play or communicate with your kids only when you feel like it; benish them according to your moods, disregard their real needs.

BE AN ABSENTEE father most of the time, which has the same affect on your child as the absentee father of a ghetto child.

Constantly use meaningless phrases like, "when I was your age - when I was a boy, etc."

Never make a decision - say, "Go ask your mother."

Be overly generous with a big allowance, too many toys, all the latest clothes; this, you think, will make up for time and attention. Or - make your kids work or beg for every penny.

Choose his career, college, and his wife.

Teach prejudice, lack of respect for laws and the community by never having a decent word for anyone, or any institution.

Church? - you play golf. Also, you are much too busy, or tired, for any organizations. Keep "helping out" after he is grown up, and keep reminding him how much he owes to your sacrifices. Spoil your grandchildren, criticize his wife, his choice of home, car, job, etc.

Well, happy Day, doesn't it make you feel good on this your day to know that these are all the things you never would be guilty of, now or in years to come?

Rummage Sale

New 'Munchable' for Your Party

Are you looking for an entirely new "munchable" to please the guests at your party? Here's a delight dip that will banish appetizer apathy and spark up your entertainment snacks.

Served in a hollowed-out round loaf of rye bread, it is easy to prepare, takes little time or energy, and can be made ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator.

APPETIZER DELIGHT DIP

1 six to seven-inch round loaf unsliced rye bread

1½ pounds shrimp (cooked, shelled and deveined)

2 cups cottage cheese

½ cup chopped parsley

½ cup grated radishes

1/3 cup chopped green onions

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon white pepper

dash Worcestershire sauce

Cut slice from top of bread and scoop out center leaving ¼ inch wall. Chop shrimp, reserving six for garnish. Combine chopped shrimp and remaining ingredients; mix well. Turn into bread shell and granish with remaining whole shrimp, additional blue cheese and parsley, as desired.

Perfect entertainment snack to spark up the "munchables" at your party is this Appetizer Delight Dip suggested by the American Blue Cheese Association. It combines shrimp, American blue cheese, cottage cheese and garden vegetables, and goes will with a variety of dunks, from crackers to vegetable sticks. It is served in a hollowed-out loaf of round rye bread.

On the Job Training Will be Introduced At Harper College

BY BETSY BROOKER

On the job training will be introduced in four Harper College vocational programs this fall.

Students taking either secretarial science, accounting aid data processing or marketing will spend 15 hours a week working on a job that is related to their college courses.

John Birkholz, division chairman of business and social sciences, has mailed letters and questionnaires to various businesses and industries informing them of the plan for in-service training and asking if they would like to participate. Some businesses have shown an interest in the program, he said.

"WE ARE USING a concept of 'earn while you learn' to make instruction more meaningful," said Birkholz.

"We don't think the 15 hours working outside of the classroom plus 15 classroom hours during the week will overload the students because most students in a community college have an outside job anyway. This way their work will be tied in with their education," said Birkholz.

The four courses were chosen for the cooperative work plan because the professions involved are greatly needed by the businesses in the suburbs, said Birkholz.

The Arthur D. Little Co. was hired when construction of Harper was first proposed to survey the need for a community college. The results of their questionnaires revealed that 45.1 per cent of the employers in the area desired a program to train secretaries; 22.1 per cent were interested in a data processing program; and 46 per cent were interested in business and industrial management programs.

ANOTHER survey conducted by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission showed that an average of 66 per cent of the population in this area are employed in fields related to marketing.

Which firms that will hire students in these courses will not be known until September, said Birkholz. Responses have been received already from firms interested in the accounting and data processing programs.

The programs will be arranged so that the work experience will be directly correlated with a seminar in each course. Marketing students will take Marketing and Managemant, for three semesters; secretarial science students will take Secretarial Seminar, for two semesters; Accounting students will take Accounting Seminar, for one semester; and date processing students will take Field Project - Case Study, for one semester.

A large per cent of the Harper student body will probably enroll in the four courses. This year, out of 1,836 students 296 enrolled in accounting, marketing, secretarial science, and in data processing.

Financial Trouble?

BY CARLTON SMITH AND RICHARD PUTNAM

Whatever the outcome of the peace talks, financial problems will continue to be posed for hundreds of thousands of young men -- and their families, in many cases -- by military service.

It's estimated that the draft and enlistments will draw off half-million men a year, regardless of what happens in Paris, and National Guard and reserve units are still being activated.

SINCE World War II or before, special relief has been provided for certain financial problems of men in the armed forces. Lack of information about the provisions has caused many draftees and reservists to endure unnecessary hardships.

The FHA, for example, has given blanket authority to approved lenders (banks and savings and loan associations which make FHA loans) to enter into "forbearance agreements" with reservists called to active duty.

This doesn't mean, however, that any reservist is entitled to simply forget about mortgage payments while on active duty.

Any "forbearance" on the part of your mortgage lender must be justified by financial problems resulting from call-up. If you can show that, because of loss of earnings while in service, you're unable to keep up regular payments, the lendar can then, with FHA approval, either reduce or suspend altogether · your monthly mortgage payments.

The forbearanca will ordinarily continue during the entire period of active duty plus three months.

YOU DON'T have to "make up for lost time" when you resume payments. The forbearance agreement itself must provide for resumption of monthly payments at the end of the period of relief, on a basis that will amortize the mortgage on the original date plus the period of forbearance.

Your whole payment schedule is simply moved ahead, leaving a gap during the time payments are reduced or suspended.

For those with apartment leases, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act (which covers Marines and other services despite the name), there's a provision for getting the lease canceled by law if the landlord makes difficulties.

You give him, or his agent, 30 days written notice of termination at the end of the month. (You can't give notice on June 5, for example, to terminate a lease on July 5; you'd owe rent till the end of July.)

The relief act also requires a landlord to return any security deposit you may have made -- less any legitimate claims he has against you for damage to the apartment, of course.

If you send such a letter, use registered mail, get a return receipt which will prove the notice was received in the landlord's office, and state that you are giving notice under the terms of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act.

THIS ACT also provides for easing the financial burden in the case of installment loans a service man has outstanding on a car, furniture or appliances.

THESE are only a few of the protections provided by the relief act. Anyone faced with a call-up should obtain a copy of the act -- or, if you have a relative in the service, you might want a copy for your own information or his.

You can get, without charge, a booklat, "Information About the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act," from the Secretary of tha Air Force, Room 4C 922, Pentagon, Washington, D.C.

Check New Home for Excess Noise

If you're shopping for a house or apartment this year, after you've inquired about taxes, zoning, the local school system and closing charges, be sure to check on "sones".

Sones can be either a source of comfort or an annoyance.

YOU DON'T know what a sone is? Briefly, it's a measurement of sound. An example: the noise caused by air being moved rapidly in kitchen or bath or wherever else there is an exhaust fan or blower for ventilating purposes.

It's worthwhile to check on possible sources of noise in a home. It may seem a small thing, but the experts know that excess noise can be a cause of irritation and annoyance, even though it is often unrecognized source.

For instance, according to Charles Kenney, manager of ventilation products for NuTone-Scovill, in the building industry the generally accepted maximum "comfort levels" of fan and motor sound are these: for hood and exhaust fans it is 6.9 sones; for bathroom ventilating fans it is 5.0 sones. Equipment which makes more noise than that becomes disturbing; creates discomfort for most people, Kenney said..

He said that, while architects and builders generally determine the minimum amount of air, measured in cubic feet per minute, needed to vent the odors of cooking and food preparation and to ventilate adequately bath and other home areas, unfortunately that too often is their sole concern.

NO MATTER what number of CFM's are needed to ventilate a home or apartment, the movement of air need not be noisy. Technical improvements, Kenney said, have made it possible to achieve a lower level of sound or noise.

Among the most affective noise-reducing improvements in ventilating fans, he said are developments such as in-plant electronic balancing of blades, rubber-mounted motors and, particularly, exterior mounting. Keeping the noise, whatever level, on the outside of the housa is the best guarantee of a minimal sone level inside. Kenney said top-quality exhaust fans today should have control switches that allow customars to regulate speed and sound with a single control. Mounting blower fans on sound-absorbing Neoprene cushions further contributes to noise elimination.

KENNEY suggests, too, that you can further soundproof your home by eliminating hidden pipelines of sound. "Remember," he said, "sound waves ricochet off ceilings, walls and floors into the air with the same geometry that sends a well-executed pool shot into the corner pocket." Airborne sound travels:

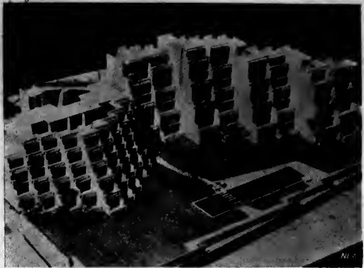
--Through air passages left open by faulty closing of walls at floor and ceiling;

--Through 'air leaks" where electrical outlets are mounted back-to-back without caulking;

--Through imperfections in wall, floor or ceiling panels that aren't tight, mortar joints that aren't solid;

--Through pipe openings that aren't sealed.

You probably couldn't--and really wouldn't want--to eliminiate many of the sounds in a home, even blaring transistors and record players, the children's play, hubby's workshop, parties, but attention to sound-deadening construction practices and the noise potential of household equipment can help to muffle the ordinary sounds and keep from adding unnecessary noise.



AN ECHO OF HABITAT, the revolutionary apartment complex at last year's Expo in Montreal, is going up in Munich in West Germany. Planning Patio Is Not Hard

Planning to lay out a patio? Don't bother checking the yellow pages for who's available locally.

Instead of having your fingers do the chore, do your own walking. Stroll about the area casually, just as you would normally when busy with the various activities (or non-activities) you intend for the patio.

Allow enough room for lounge chairs, portable barbecue equipment, beach umbrella, outdoor tables, and so on.

For the border, you may prefer a squared-off effect, easily achieved with plain or colored bricks.

If you prefer a graceful S-shape curve to set the patio limits, make your own pattern with a garden hose, adjusting it appropriately until you've attained the most practical curve which still pleases the eye.

Concrete Modules Are New

Construction tricks and techniques used in Europe for low-cost housing projects are gaining a widening acceptance and a more receptive audience here in the new world, where architects and builders seek solutions to current pressures of time and space.

The big pressure for solving labor shortages, lack of equipment and even of actual construction firms, led to European builders to devise industrialized housing.

BOILED DOWN to essentials, this meant that instead of using men trained in "on-site" know-how, the new builders went to work more economically be prefabricating housing under factory conditions, which in turn speeded up building.

After all, whole new towns were needed and at once.

Right in our own backyard there are Chicago-based firms which are exploring the idea of the "concrete modules" which form the essential unit for the new idea.

One such company is Daniel Comm Associates, another is Dunbar Builders Corporation.

Basically the Comm system of building, for which a patent is pending, is to use pre-cast concrete units 12 x 8 x 8 feet which have been cast in a factory and brought by flatbed truck to the job sites.

INTO vertical chases concrete can then be poured to act as a lock holding all the modules together, and serving as a brace.

The Dunbar Builders group has made suggestions to solve the problem of developers who are looking for partitions with mechanical, plumbing and electrical sub-structures included. Needed also are precast T-beams, hollow slabs for flooring, bath and kitchen area units to be inserted into the building.

The solution will not come about through any one firm, it is felt.

But enough companies are at work on it to expect a breakthrough before long.

Never Point

When safety engineers discuss the use of any pointed tools, they stress one thing: never point them toward yourself or others.

If you have reason to move around with a tool in your hand, make it a habit to hold the tool by the handle with the point down.

Around your home workshop bench it's a good trick to keep a plastic dish handy to store corks. If you have curious youngsters poking around, and you've corked the sharp point of an ice pick or scissors or similar tool, it may mean the differance between a serious injury and no accident at all.

Not Exactly Do-It-Yourself

The Idea Is to Kill Pests, Not Yourself

The problem with poisoning insects is that you might also poison yourself.

Ever since Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" a few years ago, with its warnings against the indiscriminate use of insecticides, there has been a growing concern about their safety.

MANY advocate not using them at all. If you feel you must use an insecticide, use it properly and with precautions. Even the safest of bug killers can be dangerous if not used as directed.

First read the label. Those that are labeled "nontoxic to humans" are the safest but must still be handled carefully. Even though exposure to the substance once may not be dangerous, there is a growing concern about cumulative toxicity, the effect of a long-term build-up. So use even the mild insecticides carefully. Use of the word "caution" also indicates a relatively mild insecticide.

When you get to the word "Warning," you know you have a more dangerous product. Follow directions to the letter.

IF YOU see the word "poison" and the old skull and crossbones symbol, skip it and pick another product. Leave that stuff to the professionals and stay out of their way.

The ingredients might give you a clue, but most of the names are tongue twisters and new ones come out all the time. Perthane is less toxic than malathion, which is less toxic than chlordane, which is less toxic than DDT — to name some of the common ones. And if you see sodium selenate, or parathion or TEPP listed, then stay clear, since these are among the most toxic of all.

Read the instructions carefully. Never mix different insecticides together. Never mix an insecticide in greater strength than directed — it's only the bugs you want to kill, not pets or children or yourself.

Determine what you need it for. If it is one type of bug you are concerned about, then pick the least toxic insecticide that will kill that bug.

Keep the kids and the pets away when you dust or spray, and for a good length of time afterward.

KEEP insecticides out of reach of children. Such dangerous material should be kept under lock and key. Don't store them with food products. Never use garden insecticides in the house.

Keep the insecticides in their original containers and keep the label clean and intact. When the containers are empty, get rid of them. Wash out bottles and cans before tossing them in the trash can.

TRY using some means other than insecticides to keep pests away.

Never mind the ads in which a girl in a bathing suit or a man in Bermuda shorts is spraying or dusting insecticides. Keep covered. Wear clothes that cover you completely. Wear rubber gloves. If working in close quarters or for a long period of time, wear a respirator mask.

Since your clothing is bound to become contaminated, wash it when you are finished spraying.

Watch out that some products may be inflammable. Assume they are if they have an oil base.

Overkill is not a good idea. Fogging apparatus is dangerous. It drifts where you don't want it. If you can apply a small amount of insecticide to a plant or in a crevice, then don't spray.

Adjust your equipment for the smallest spray pattern possible. Spray so that the wind is blowing away from you. Check your equipment. If it leaks, you may get the dust or spray on yourself. If you have a compressed-air sprayer, be careful when you refill it. Turn it over and release any remaining air away from you. Then, if there is any insecticide left in the container, it will not spray in your face.

Power Mower Safety Rules Make Sense

The sound of the power mower is again loud in the land.

Also the mutters, mumbles, groans and general one-way conversations most of us address at the grass-cutting device -- such a necessity, so often a nuisance.

WITH electrically-operated mowers, the annoying features are apt to be trivial ones:

Lacking an outdoor outlet, the cord has to be plugged in through the nearest door or window location; provision has to be made to prevent snarling of the or destructive trailing of it through tender young shrubs or flowerbeds; and above all, a weather eye constantly kept peeled to avoid cutting the cord.

Gasoline-operated types offer a variety of pesky situations, chiefly due to negligence when putting the mower away last fall: failure to clean and oil it properly, checking of sparkplugs, removal of nicks from the blades, scraping and sharpening the blades, and so on.

Once the mower is zooming smoothly along on its appointed rounds, the most important factor to keep in mind is safety.

You don't need to memorize the owner's manual to be aware of what makes for safer mowing. But it helps. It even has value, psychologically, if you let the youngsters notice you glancing in it, even though you know it by heart.

They'll want to know what's so important that you have to consult it before you open up your campaign against the wilderness in the backyard.

It may even have enough "impact," in advertising lingo, to teach a lesson that will stay with them the rest of their lives.

SAFETY rules are simple enough. Dress right: no sandals or footwear that might slip off too easily; no bare feet; no shorts; dress comfortably and sensibly.

Prepare the area to be mowed by removal of rocks, random chunks of wood, larger twigs, plastic oddments and toys left strewn about, anything and everything that is not the grass you plan to cut. A small stone can be propelled by a rotating blade just as though shot out of a gun.

Even with the mower in working condition, there will be times when you'll want to make adjustments or small repairs.

Never begin any such tinkering unless you have stopped the engine and disconnected the sparkplug.

Especially hazardous is the urge to bypass the "stop all systems" operation when you just want to clear the discharge chute of some clogged material or feel secure in knocking a clumb of matted clippings loose from the blade.

Those are just the times to make sure the blade has stopped moving and the engine is off.

EVEN IF you're wearing ground-gripper shoes, push, never pull, the mower. Work the mower sideways on steep slopes, never up and down.

Some common sense steps are assumed to come naturally to any careful operator: don't refuel the machine while it's hot or with the engine runnings; don't let the children operate the mower.

In fact, keep the youngsters out of the mowing area while you're doing the job.

Look behind before you back up, if that happens to be absolute necessity.

Your best foot doesn't always have to be forward.

Spray Paint Easy to Use With Practice

You can soon change your amateur status to that of a professional with aerosol paints.

As with any painting job, the preparation of the surface to be painted is most important.

Clean it carefully and get rid of all oil, wax, grease, dirt and heavy smudge marks.

Sand down rough spots.

Fill in any small holes with wood filler, let them dry, then sand. Larger gaps may demand special treatment, such as re-plastering. In all cases, make sure the surface is ready to be painted before you pick up the aerosol can.

Be sure to shake can well, take a few tentative sprays, then begin.

To prevent running or sagging, it's best to work on the surface or object in a horizontal position.

Holding the can about 10 or 12 inches away, press the button all the way down and move the can at a steady pace parallel to the surface you are painting.

Use short strokes, dusting the surface, releasing pressure on the button at stroke's end.

Clear Up Clutter in Basement

Divide and conquer that clutter in your basement.

By putting up partitions you can multiply the area's usefulness many times.

Instead of having disorganized jumble of various family or individual activities crowd you into a corner, you can create a number of working locations for hobbyists, musicians, and other busy types in your household.

Even a study room can be quickly arranged, by using partitions, but for this and for a music practice corner, you'd better reckon on soundproofing the walls. But ordinary partitions do a neat job of screening off a messy workbench spot, or a laundry area.

Form the framework for the partition out of two-by-four wood studs, 16 inches apart, anchoring them with a top plate nailed to the wood joists holding up the floor above, and a sole plate along the floor of the basement for solidity.

For actual paneling to serve as partitions, you have a wide and colorful range of material and finishes to suit every taste and need.

Benny Wins Commercial Merit Award

AT THE RECENT Chicago Advertising Club awards banquet, the Jack Benny radio commercials for Bell Savings and Loan Association were cited for a special merit achievement award.

Urban Study Hits At Property Tax

BY JAMES L. SRODES

Property taxes rob the poor, hamper urban renewal and block efforts to expand housing construction and repairs to meet demands for decent homes.

That's the conclusion drawn by former Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, now chairman of the National Commission on Urban Problems which recently made public its first study of conditions which slow down attempts to solve urban problems.

THE STUDY, according to Douglas, is aimed at stirring up discussion so the commission's final report to the President – due at the end of the year – can include a more detailed discussion of property taxes and possible alternatives.

The study not only reaches the conclusions mentioned above but also carries the additional implication that property taxes may also contribute to an actual loss of tax revenues by central city governments.

Richard Netzer, a New York University professor, devised the survey, which concludes: – Property taxes across the United States on an average equal a 24 per cent sales tax on housing which is borne 90 per cent of the time by persons who occupy the housing in question. Sales taxes on most other items rarely exceed 5 per cent to 10 per cent.

– The burden of property taxes falls most heavily on the poor, accounting for as much as 4 per cent of income for persons at the poverty level of $3,000 per year compared with 1.5 per cent of income for persons with incomes over $10,000.

– High property taxes in metropolitan areas discourage investment in and improvement of housing, especially when nearby suburban tax levels are significantly lower.

– Higher property taxes in urban centers generally are used to finance the increasing demand for municipal services but also have a tendency to drive industry and business to the suburbs – lowering the city's tax base even further.

THIS IS NOT to say that Douglas and the commission will advocate doing away with property taxes. To the contrary, the survey also stresses the importance of property taxes, especially to local governments.

"Property taxes provide two-thirds of the revenues to most local governments," Douglas told newsmen at a briefing.

In addition, the survey reports, property taxes have a remarkable ability to expand when revenues are needed – increasing their yield of money to governments across the country by 30 per cent in the last four years of the study.

Regional tax rates, rather than city-county variances; better administration; adjustments for hardship; housing tax incentives for construction or repairs and a search for other revenue sources to de-emphasize the method are all being studied as improvements to what Douglas called "one of the greatest stumbling blocks to urban progress in our path."

Stairs Pantry Brings Storage Nearer Kitchen

A stairwell pantry has the advantages of being near the kitchen and using otherwise wasted space.

If the pantry follows the pattern of the stair risers, reaching from the treads to an accessible height, it will serve to screen the basement side of the stairway and be a safety measure. Instead, it may be a large, shallow cabinet, rising from the lower part of the wall.

The wall-hung pantry consists of a perimeter framework, shelves of six or eight-inch lumber, and two or more sets of sliding doors. Canned goods and large boxes of supplies will be as handy to the homemaker here as in the lower reaches of cabinets.

Sliding doors may be prefinished hardboard in a handsome woodgrain pattern like Masonite Royalcote. These quarter-inch-thick panels require no framing, and they'll slide in metal tracks. They'll keep the pantry's contents dust-free and readily accessible. Stain or paint the wood trim to match the woodgrain selected.

Bamboo? Not Really, Not New

The increasing use of "bamboo" in home furnishings is actually reviving interest in natural bamboo, which is an oriental wood, grown chiefly in China and Formosa.

What we usually call bamboo furniture today is "turned" or simulated bamboo, which came into vogue in the 18th century, and which is especially visible in items of the "Chinese" Chippendale period, some of them still to be seen at the Royal Pavilion in Brighton.

Use Right Tool for Job

There's a safe way and a wrong way to use your woodworking tools.

Chisels, for instance, should not be used as nail pullers, pry bars, screw drivers, wood splitters, or for cutting metallic objects.

A chisel delivers its maximum service when placed at the proper angle to the job in hand. Push or strike it with just the right amount of force.

A claw hammer when used to remove a nail does its work best if you see that the nail head is caught securely in the slot of the claw. After partially withdrawing a long nail, place a wood block under the head of the hammer to provide more leverage before resuming pull.

Before using a handsaw, be sure the stock to be cut is free from nails or objects that may damage the saw or injure you.

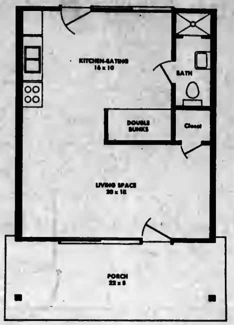
No Power Tools Required on Site While You're Putting It Together



Cabin Uses 'Rigid Frame' For Building Ease

The American Plywood Association's rigid frame cabin is an engineered structure designed specifically for the sportsmen who want a durable, rugged building that can be erected with a minimum of equipment and materials at a remote site.

In addition, unskilled labor can be used to build the cabine since the rigid frame system involves relatively simple, straightforward carpentry.

MOST PREVIOUS applications of the ridge frame system have involved agricultural and industrial uses where clear span is important and low-cost is vital.

The cabin is simple enough so that unskilled labor can be used in erecting it. The carpentry is straighforward. No power tools or complicated angle, bevel or dado cuts are required. The design requires only those hand tools which can be carried in a single portable tool kit.

No concrete pour is required for the foundation nor is extensive site preparation required.

The completed building should be maintenance free and durable enough to withstand extended periods of vacancy, particularly during rugged winter months.

Total time elapsed in building a prototype cabin was one week - six working days. That includes footings, substructure, rigid frame assembly and erection, roofing, floor deck, and wall framing, painting and porch deck. One of the factors that makes the erection of the building simple is that there is a "learning factor."

IN EFFECT, the job involves learning how to build one frame - and then doing the same thing over and over again.

This same idea is carried through in the construction of the end walls -- framing for both end walls is essentially the same, and have windows that are "stock" sizes.

Plans for the house can be obtained for 35 cents from the American Plywood Association, 1119 A St., Tacoma, Wash. 98401. Ask for Plan No. 23.

WHAT IS YOUR BEST SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER?

"Survey our empire, and behold our home." -- Byron, English poet, (1788-1824).

Your best social security number is your house number.

Owning your own home creates a safe feeling. You know it is a safeguard against inflation. If prices go up, so does the value of your property.

Your home is an investment. Your mortgage payments are buying something. You are not just paying rent.

Owning your home gives you a tax advantage. Your real estate taxes are deductible when figuring income tax. The interest on your mortgage or land contract is also deductible.

Owning your own home makes you a substantal part of the community. It also gives you a good credit rating.

Many people have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership.

One Way Or Another

You Will Have to Learn Their Lingo If You Build

It's not Esperanto, but to many a new homeowner it might just as well be.

The language used by builders contains terms which are all in Noah Webster's big book and there is no mystery about them.

The question is, should you learn the builder's lingo as you go, or would you prefer to bone up on it briefly before you embark on a building or remodeling job?

Here are some of the basic terms in any construction man's vocabulary:

BATTS are rectangular sections of rockwool or similar low density fiber, enclosed in a heavy duty paper of aluminum foil, used for insulation.

FRAMING is the wooden support structure that makes up the framework of a house.

FURRING is the name for strips of wood or metal applied to ceilings, walls or roofs to furnish even surfaces for installation of wallboard, shingles or sounddeadening tiles.

DAMP PROOFING is the application of a water-resistant pitch or asphalt-base coating to the outside wall of the house foundation to keep moisture from penetrating to the interior.

DRYWALL is the gypsum wallboard nailed or cemented to the interior side of wall studs.

SIDING is the exterior finish of the house. Formerly this was usually brick or wood, but today available in pressed wood, aluminum, asphalt, asbestos shingling and most recently vinyl.

SQUARE is the unit of measurement consisting of an area 10 feet by 10 feet (100 square feet, hence the term) used to determine the amount of labor and materials needed to cover a roof. An average house roof is calculated to measure about 25 to 50 squares.

WET WALL is the term for plaster over lath.

Vacation Home Needs Planning

More and more Americans are buying, building or considering vacation homes each year. Vacation homes are now being built at an annual rate of 125,000 and it is estimated that the figure will be 200,000 within a few years.

Vacation homes serve many purposes. There are beach houses, mountain cabins, ski chalets, hunting lodges and fishing shacks, weekend retreats from the rigors of urban life and homes planned for use in retirement.

But no purpose is likely to be well served unless the same kind of thoughtful planning and preparation goes into building or buying the vacation house that wise families put into the selection of their year-round home.

Does the area offer the kind of facilities desired? What about fire protection? Medical service? Transportation? Privacy? Hurricanes? Recreational use of lake, slope or beach? Is the property free of indebtedness? What easements on it are there? What building or zoning restrictions?

Construction of the vacation house will usually be less elaborate than that of the year-round home.

The Game of The Day

BY CURT WILSON

The Orioles of the Mount Prospect Little League Bronco B division sent the Cardinals home with a 12-4 defeat Thursday.

THE ORIOLES earned nine of their runs in their second inning, when they sent 14 batters to the plate, devastating Cardinal pitcher Greg Brown.

The other three Oriole runs came in the first inning, in a rally started by singles hit by Scott Nelson, Chuck Lynch, Tim Jones and Paul Lacine. Nelson, Jones, and Lacine each stole second, and a base on errors by Gregg Rapala started the three-run binge.

A single by Tom Franson was the only Card action in the first inning, as Jim King, Brown, and Mike Koeppen struck out at the hands of pitcher Nelson.

The Oriole second-inning barrage began with a single by Jim Cosmo, and Nelson fanned for the last out before a nine-run scoring extravaganza.

The entire team got a chance at the plate in the inning, but only Dale Hoffert, Rick Falsr, and Koeppen were able to score.

HOFFERT OPENED by walking, and moved to third on a Falsr double. A base on balls given up to Koeppen loaded the bags, but Murphy fanned, Tom Gillogoy managed to walk, putting one run across, and another came in when Brown singled. The final run scored when Marty walked, but Wille struck out to end the effort.

Once again in the fourth inning, the Orioles went down in order, all on strike-outs, by Bob Kusmery, Barnaki, and Nelson making the outs.

The Cards tried again in the fourth, but this time all they could come up with was three hits, and no runs. King and Falsr banged doubles, and Franson hit a single, but they all were stopped on the baseline while trying to advance.

Citro opened the Oriole fifth with a single, but Lynch flew out, and Lacine and Rapala grounded out to end the inning. The win seemed assured.

GILLOGOY STARTED the Cardinal's last chances with a promising single, and Brown moved him to second on an error, but Gillogoy died while stealing, and Marty fanned.

Wille tried to renew the effort with a double, but Hoffert flew out to end the game and a fine last-half showing by the Cardinals.

LOUIS CITRO, Lynch, and Rapala each amassed singles, loading the bases, and driving in the first run. Another run came across when Lacine waited out a walk. Jones hit his second single of the evening, and Steve Wilkinson drew a walk.

Jeff Baranski took the third walk of the inning, and Nelson went to first on an error in left field. A shortstop error sent Citro to first, and nine runs had scored in the inning. Jim Barrett fanned, and Lynch mercifully popped up to the pitcher to end a most eventful inning.

Still dazed from the events that had just taken place, the cards came up to bat, led by Joe Murphy, who struck out. Brad Miller followed Mike Taolinas' strikeout by traveling to first on an error in right field, and moved to second when Chuck Marty drew a walk.

Miller managed to steal third, but it did him no good as Byron Wille struck to end any hopes of scoring, and leaving the score at 12-0.

The Orioles rested on their laurels for the remainder of the game, putting no more runs across after the second inning.

RAPALA PROVIDED the only interruption to the three strike-outs in the top of the third, by moving to first on an error, and dying there.

The Cardinals came up with three runs in the third, but could only insure that the game would last the full five innings by closing the score gap to under twelve runs.

Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League

South Blue Int.

The Stars maintained their position at the head of the South Blue Intermediate league in last week's games by thrashing the Gators, 6-3.

Winning pitcher Todd Schoell led the Stars to their victory in the make-up game, and Peter Bowen banged a double for the Gators.

The second-place battle between the Marlins and the Dons was postponed, but the Marlins trounced the Ravens, 5-2. Mark Bonucchi pitched a four-hitter for the Marlins, while striking out 13.

The Wolverines fell to the Stars, 7-5, aided by two doubles by winning pitcher Bud Broderick, and doubles by Schoell and Glen Johnson.

National

Bruce Conroy's perfect throw to home plate beat the tying run as the Dodgers edged the Giants in National League play. Conroy also contributed a double and a single to the Dodgers' eight-hit attack.

The Astros blanked the Braves 2-0 to retain their slim hold on first place. Steve Hansen was credited with the win, yielding only four hits in the six inning contest.

Steve Loughman fanned nine while allowing only three hits as the Braves pinned a 6-3 loss on the Mets in other National division play Saturday.

Paul Obuchowski rapped a double and a triple and allowed only one hit as the Mets rolled to an 11-1 win over the Pirates. Obuchowski's bid for a no-hitter was spoiled in the final frame when Jerry Caruso beat out an infield ground ball.

The Cardinals coasted to a 15-2 victory over the Giants to round out National League play last week.

North Green Jr.

The Sioux currently head the standings of the North Green Junior league after going on a winning binge last week by deflating the Bisons, 12-2, and going on to edge the Gophers, 5-4.

In the only other game of the week, the Gophers ran their score up to 25, as they held the Bisons to two runs and two hits.

American

Joe Peifer was credited with his third win of the year as the Yankees rolled to a 6-2 win over the Athletics and moved into second place in the American League. Peifer went the distance on the hill, allowing only two hits in the five frame contest.

The league-leading Red Sox rolled to their fifth victory of the season by downing the Tigers 9-1. Barry Brown was credited with the victory as he limited the Tigers to three hits.

After dropping five of their first six decisions, the White Sox recorded two wins last week, dumping the Tigers 5-2 after edging the Athletics 3-1. John Dillon was the winner against the Athletics as Bruce Johnson absorbed the loss.

BRIAN ROONEY

Logan Square's Rooney Earns Day Athlete of the Week Award

Big Brian Rooney, a pitcher who's not averse to helping himself with his bat, has earned this week's Day Athlete of the Week award.

ROONEY PITCHED a two-hitter, and whacked a triple that drove in a run and led to another as the Logan Square American Legion team downed the Park Ridge Reds 6-2 Sunday in both teams' Ninth District League opener.

He also had two of the Lions' three hits off the Park Ridge Blues' Ed Groenwald in an 11-0 loss Monday.

Playing first base and pitching, Rooney led St. Viator in runs batted in, won two games, saved another, and averaged more than a strikeout per inning last season, and did all that while maintaining a scholastic record that kept him in the National Honor Society.

HE HELPED St. Viator sweep a double-header by throwing a no-hitter at Bishop McNamara of Kankakee, striking out 12 and walking only two to win that game 5-0. The senior right-hander pitched in hard luck much of the season for St. Viator, losing 3-1 to St. Ignatius, 4-3 to De La Salle, and 3-2 to Prospect.

Rooney has one won and lost one so far for Logan Square, dropping an 8-4 decision to Glenview in his defeat.

Rooney, a former Athlete of the Week nominee, had a strong competition for this week's award. Others nominated:

VALERIE NEAL, who won two first places in Saturday's Seventh Annual Mount Prospect Sports Jamboree for boys and girls 10 to 15 years old;

KEITH BAUER, who pitched and hit the Des Plaines Legion Team to a 2-1 win over Morton Grove Sunday;

JIM MUELHAUSEN, the consistent lefty who beat Des Plaines for Wheeling 3-1 Monday in both teams' Ninth District League opener.

All area athletes are eligible for The Day Athlete of the Week Award. Nominations -- which can be anonymous -- should be made at The Prospect Day office, 117 S. Main, Mount Prospect, or by calling 255-7200, ext. 54.

Nominations should be made before midnight Monday for the previous week's award.

Arlington Legion Whips Glenview

BY RALPH NOVAK

Arlington Heights' Legionnaires baseball legged their way to two first-inning runs, and pitchers Pat Kolman and Steve Stratton made them stand up for a 2-1 exhibition win over Glenview at Arlington High School Thursday.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, now 3-2 overall, managed only three hits off two Glenview pitchers, with only one of the safeties coming after the first inning.

But Kolman and Stratton, helped by a steady defense, checked the Glenbrook South High-dominated opposition on four hits and two walks.

The two Arlington Heights runs came after two were out, first baseman Jim Gumz starting the burst by lining a single over shortstop Doug Wilson's head and stealing second.

Glenview right-hander Dom Nuzzo wild-pitched a fourth ball to Arlington Heights cleanup man Joel Theiss, who hustled to first and kept right on going toward second as catcher John Sheldon procrastinated about what to do with the ball.

SHELDON FINALLY decided to throw to second, but it was a bad decision. He threw the ball closer to first than second, and Gumz scored the Theiss romped to third as the ball rolled into right-center field.

Darrell Kasl then smashed a single past Nuzzo's left ear into center to drive in Theiss.

The early base-running success might have over-encouraged Arlington Heights, since they managed only one steal in five attempts during the rest of the game.

KASL WAS thrown out to start the string and end the first inning. In the third, Pat Loughman walked and was nailed trying to swipe third. He had taken second as Cary Salm reached base when Glenview right fielder Bob Raschillo threw wildly trying to force Loughman at second after trapping Salm's blooper.

Marc Schillinger stole second in the fourth pinch-running after Kasl singled, but he tried to take third and failed there. Catcher Rick was nailed in the fifth, rumbling into second too late after Stratton missed a bunt try.

Kolman allowed three Glenview hits in the four innings he pitched. He worked out of a jam in the first, getting Doug Wilson on a grounder to first and striking out Raschillo and Ken Sauer after Jay Wilson started the game with a triple.

Kolman retired nine batters in a row before Doug Wilson opened the fourth by whacking a single to left. After he stole second, Raschillo drove sure-footed Arlington Heights right fielder Jim Millay deep for his line fly.

SAUER STRUCK out again, but center fielder Mark Wiemer plopped a short fly into center to cut the Glenview deficit. Kolman then retired Sheldon on a liner to Loughman in center.

Stratton walked Cliff Theriault with one out in the fifth, but Tully helped his Arlington High teammate by nailing Tharinult trying to steal.

Glenview threatened again in the sixth when Jay Wilson dropped a single into short right and stole second. After striking out Doug Wilson and Raschillo, Stratton walked Duke Delano before Wiemer grounded to Salm to end the inning. Stratton put Glenview down in order in the seventh, recording the fourth and fifth strikeouts of his three-inning stint.

Arlington Heights faces Des Plaines at Recreation Park this evening in its first Ninth District Legion League game. Des Plaines is 0-1 in league play. Arlington Heights battles Wheeling, 1-1 in the league, at Recreation Park Sunday afternoon.

Pat Kolman, who pitched the first four innings of a 2-1 Arlington Heights American Legion win Thursday, pitches to a Glenview hitter. Kolman had relief help from Steve Stratton in earning the victory.

Lions Edge La Grange, 8-7 on 5 Unearned Runs

BY RICK PRICE

LaGrange did everything possible to lose Thursday to Logan Square, and finally succeeded as the Lions pushed across three unearned runs in the final inning to edge the west suburban team 8-7.

The three unearned tallies in the sixth frame gave the Lions five unearned runs for the contest, thanks mostly to four throwing errors by LaGrange catcher, Craig Sincorn.

THE LIONS also continued their recent hitting spree, however, collecting eight safeties and knocking the ball out of the infield twelve times in the non-league contest.

Larry Nomellini's crew trailed at every point of the first five innings before its sixth-frame binge, as LaGrange got to Lion starter Mike Abinanti for two runs in the first inning, and came back with four more in the third while Logan Square was only able to score once in the first three innings.

The Lions' lone tally in the first half of the game came in the third inning when Bob Batchelor blooped a single over second base to score Abinanti, who had been hit by a pitch and stolen second and third.

The Lions managed to push across three more runs on only one hit in the next frame.

A THROW to first was in the dirt after Al Feldman had hit a routine grounder to the third baseman, and Pat Donahue followed by drawing a walk to put Lions on first and second. Both runners advanced a base as Jimmy Hynes pounded a slow grounder to the shortstop, and Feldman scored when Abinanti's grounder was booted by the LaGrange second baseman. Brian Rooney then cracked a hard ground ball to the right of the shortstop, to send Abinanti and Donahue scampering home.

John Wendall relieved Abinanti on the mound in the fourth inning and worked the last three frames with his usual effectiveness, yielding only three scattered hits while walking none.

PAT DONAHUE opened the productive sixth for the Lions by knocking a ground ball up the middle for his second hit of the day. Hynes then tapped a slow roller in front of the plate, and the throw to second to force Donahua was wide and late to put Lions on first and second with no outs.

Donahue scored all the way from second when Sincora threw the ball deep into left field in a pickoff attempt. Abinanti then connected on the three-two pitch for a line single to left field to score Hynes from third base.

After Rooney had grounded out to third, Bob Batchelor drew a walk. The stocky outfielder stole second base, and when the throw got away from the second baseman, Abinanti scored and Batchelor moved to third. Batchelor came home moments later with the final Lion run as Sincora again tossed the ball into left field in another pickoff attempt.

Last night's victory left the Lion's with a 5-4 won-loss record for the season. Logan Square is playing .500 ball in District nine competition, having split with the Park Ridge squads.

The Lions play their seventh game in the last six days tomorrow night, as they travel to Maine East for a league tilt with Park Ridge Blue scheduled to get under way at 6 p.m.

The returns for the Democrats in Elk Grove Township are unofficial and probably inaccurate since some of the precinct captains counted the vote for state representative incorrectly.
